

New Regulations...

regulation. A provision, however, is made that a motor vehicle which is acquired after the time limit for its inspection, and which does not have affixed its seal of approval, may be presented for inspection within 20 days after the date of acquisition. The operation of a vehicle within this 20 day period will not be deemed a violation of the law. Any person operating such a vehicle, however, must have with him during this period a bill of sale or other evidence showing the date and place of acquisition of the vehicle and from whom it was purchased.

The new regulation also sets forth requirements for the semi-annual inspection periods beginning in 1949.

The first period for 1949 will be from January 1 through June 30, and the second from July 1 through December 31.

The regulation states that "any motor vehicle required to be inspected earlier than five months nor later than seven months following the preceding inspection period."

It also states that vehicles inspected during the first six months of 1948 must be submitted for the first semi-annual inspection in 1949 on or before March 31.

Moore said the reason for the five to seven month period between inspections was that some motorists might wait until December 30 to have their 1948 inspection, and then might rush back to the lanes on January 2 for the first semi-annual inspection. He added that such an inspection so close behind the first would be of little value.

Beginning with January 1, 1949, the owner of a vehicle will be given 30 days from the date of acquisition to have the vehicle inspected. The owner must have with him at all times and produce for the inspection of any lawful officer or employee of the Mechanical Inspection Division a bill of sale showing the date and place of acquisition of the vehicle.

The same type of seals and stickers used for grading vehicles will be used next year—the approved, disapproved, and condemned stickers.

The regulations state that "each vehicle inspected shall have attached thereto in the location designated, the seal, tab or sticker, merited by such inspection. It shall be deemed a violation of the Motor Vehicle Laws of 1947... for any person other than an authorized agent of the Department of Motor Vehicles in the performance of his duties, to remove or deface such seal, tab or sticker, or to operate any vehicle over the streets and highways of the State after the expiration of the date for returning such vehicle for inspection as indicated on the disapproved or rejected seal, tab, or sticker."

Eggs Getting Larger Says Poultry Expert

State College Station, Raleigh, July—North Carolina laying hens are not only producing more eggs now than in past years, but they are also producing larger eggs, according to T. T. Brown, poultry specialist for the State College Extension Service.

A few years ago, Mr. Brown said, most of the eggs exhibited at egg shows throughout the State were too small—below standard weight of 24 ounces per dozen in many cases. At the shows this year, however, most of the eggs were too large, ranging from 28 to 32 ounces per dozen.

Some producers said their eggs were so large that it was difficult to select eggs small enough to be classed as medium-sized, Mr. Brown stated.

The increase in size, the poultry specialist said, has been achieved as the result of a careful breeding program.

The quarry blast scheduled to be fired Wednesday afternoon, July 14, at TVA's South Holston Dam (now under construction near Bristol, Tenn.-Va.) is believed to be the world's largest.

Approximately 840,000 pounds of explosives will be used. The solid rock involved in the blast totals approximately 513,000 cubic yards. The explosive will be placed in 3,900 feet of tunnel which has been drilled. The previous record blast was fired several months ago at TVA's Watauga Dam quarry. About 520,000 pounds of explosives were used.

The American Forestry Association, foremost lay forest conservation organization in the country, will convene in regular annual meeting at Chattanooga, October 8-11. Some 500 nationally recognized conservation leaders are expected to attend the four-day session. This is the second time the association has met in the Valley; the first meeting was at Knoxville in 1935.

CONSTRUCTION NOTES: At Kentucky Dam all electrical installations were completed in powerhouse, switchyard, and parking and picnic areas during June. All electrical work on the dam is now complete except for one panel board and a few miscellaneous fixtures which have not been received.—Concrete placing in the intake control tower at the Watauga Project was completed during the month except for some intermediate floors or landings. Inter-mittent rain slowed down the placing of earth fill, which for the month totaled about 140,000 cubic yards. Good progress was made on the development of the main rock quarry, and placing of rock fill averaged more than 6,000 cubic yards per day.—At the South Holston Project concreting of the stilling basin was practically completed, as well as excavation of the discharge channel. Diversion of the river was made June 23 without any difficulty. After diversion stripping of the river bed at the right abutment of the dam was started. Work on the construction camp was substantially completed.

An experimental tractor-drawn, multi-use seed and fertilizer drill has been developed as an outgrowth of research and test-demonstrations on the horse drawn furrow seeder previously developed by TVA. The multi-use drill is designed to place different kinds and amounts of seed and fertilizer at different desired depths in hard or sodded fields in a one-operation without prior preparation and with a minimum of soil erosion and conserving water on the land. The objective is to be able to plant small grains, such as wheat or oats, in lespedeza or crimson clover sod without plowing the field. This drill may also be used in seeding conventional prepared fields. The multi-use, tractor-drawn drill overcomes farmers' criticisms of the horse drawn furrow seeder, in that the seeded field is left without objectionable ridges and that several rows are drilled at a time instead of only one.

Rainfall in the Tennessee River Basin during the month of June averaged 3.1 inches, or 70 percent of the 4.40-inch normal June rainfall. Precipitation above Chattanooga averaged 3.8 inches and below Chattanooga averaged 2.5 inches, compared to normal June precipitation of 4.34 inches and 4.23 inches, respectively.
