ANDREWS—The Andrews rotary club had one hundred per cent of its members in attendance on Thursday, took in as a new member, Roscoe Wilkins, had three visiting Rotarians; Art Goodson of Asheville, V. C. Denton and Orin S. Bacon of Panokee, Fla., and had three guests at the club Al Brown had as his guest Ralph Pierce of Birmingham, Ala., and Zed Whitaker had for his guests the Rev. T. Earl Ogg and Dr. Fred Brown of Knoxville.

Dr. Brown made a stirring address before the club, using as his topic "Civic Clubs of America". Dr. Brown, who is an honorary member of every civic club in the city of Knoxville, and who makes an annual address to each club, seemed at his best in his talk to the Andrews Rotarians.

"It is through the workings of civic clubs that we can see the constructive forces in our community life at work", he said. "The foundations that must be kept in America are the home, the school, and the church".

Thousands Attend Air Show Sunday

ANDREWS—The second annual air show held at Andrews-Murphy Airpark on last Sunday afternoon was considered successful. A crowd of several thousand was on hand to witness the stunts of the dare devils of the sky. The weather was below par for an air event, and rain in showers to be seen on the mountains offered a frequent recurring threat. The fact that clouds were in the sky at altitudes usually above the performing planes served as a perfect background to improve visibility for the ground spectators, while at the same time hampering the pilots.

There were the usual number of spectacular events that are standard for air shows. The second parachute jump, which was a delayed jump, had several thousand people in instant prayer with the petition that the parachute would not fall the earth-bound body as it plummeted earthward like a falling meteor. The parachute opened—just in time—and hearts started pumping blood again.

The show was sponsored by the American Legion of Andrews, Robbinsville and Murphy.

Flowers and Sunshine Brighten Up House Corner

When a corner is formed in a modern small home, where a wing or a porch joins the main structure, planting is called for to soften the sharp angle. Instead of shrubs, or evergreens, which would usually grow so tall as to obscure neighboring windows, a charming effect can be produced by a small bed of brightly colored annual flowers.

In this location it is necessary to make sure the bed will have adequate sunshine and water. If there are no plants or buildings nearby, which would shade the spot, then even a north exposure might have plenty of sun for annual flowers. But do not expect to grow annuals, if there is shade from nearby trees or shrubs, and the competition of their roots.

Where a house has overhanging eaves, a location near the wall may receive little rainfall, and thus will require more frequent watering with the hose. Many houses are now built without this overhang, however, and most of the rainfall will be received by flower beds close to the wall.

A pink and blue color scheme is used in the planting illustrated.

Annual anchusa planted in the corner will grow two feet tall, and bear dark blue flowers resembling forget-me-nots. Cynoglossum, which has similar flowers with a longer flowering season, may be used in place of anchusa.

White single asters, and pink petunias are placed in front of the tall, blue forget-me-not blooms, and on the edge of the bed are alyssum, Violet Queen, and the beautiful annual pinks.

A bed like this will be a joy all summer long. It will take little care, beyond keeping the faded flowers removed. Not only will the house be provided with an attractive floral frame, but there will be an abundance of cut flowers for indoors.

The great advantage of flowers, rather than shrubs and evergreens about small modern houses is that the buildings are not dwarfed by tall plants nearby, sunshine is allowed full access to the house and the flowers, and the windows are not screened by plants, but give an unobstructed view of the attractive flower bed and other outdoor objects.
