Cost Of Accidents Runs Into Millions

More than 36 million dollars in medical, dental, and hospital bills were paid by farm people during 1948 as a result of accidents, according to H. M. Ellis, in charge of agricultural engineering for the State College Extension Service.

This cost, Ellis states, does not include the cost of accidents to those who were killed, or who suffered permanent total disabilities, or costs other than those resulting directly from the care of injuries.

Among the chief causes of the accidents Ellis listed the following: Falls, machines, animals, auto and truck collisions, handling objects, hand tools, stepping on or striking against objects, falling and flying objects, and burns or shocks.

These findings are based on an analysis of nearly 2,000 accidents reported in three enumerative surveys made by the BAE in 1947 and 1948.

Seventy-two per cent of all accidents to farm people occurred on the farm—16 per cent in the farm home and 56 per cent elsewhere on the farm. Eleven per cent occurred on roads or streets off the farm. The other 17 per cent included industrial accidents suffered by farm people who were working in factories and accidents of children in games at school.

Fifty-four per cent of injuries were sustained while the victim was engaged in farm work. Farm accidents reached a peak in September, when both farm work accidents and recreational accidents were sharply up. Males had an accident rate over three times as great as females, and males in the age group 25 to 44 years had the highest rate.

Ellis advises all farmers to check their homes, farm buildings and surroundings and remove all accidents hazards possible. He also suggests "taking time instead of chances."

President Truman has proclaimed the week beginning July 24 as National Farm Safety Week.
