Meditation

To be the thing we seem, To do the thing we deem Enjoined by duty; To walk in faith, nor dream Of questioning God's scheme of truth and beauty.

Human Values

Cherokee County long has been famous throughout the country for its material and natural assets and attractions, but now its human assets are coming into recognition.

Carolyn Smith has on numerous occasions brought honor to her native county through her accomplishments in connection with 4-H club Her latest honor takes precedence over all the others. Last week she received the national award, along with only one other clubster in the United States, in the achievement program contest. Cherokee County is proud of this fine young woman who has spent thousands of hours using her heart, mind and hands in doing the things that have brought her this award. THE SCOUT congratulates her and wishes for her a successful, useful and happy career.

Another recognition which has come to one of our people is that of W. D. Townson's being elected president of the National Funeral Directors Association. First of all taking leadership in his own area, he later became a leader in the state organization, last year being its president, and now his present position of national leader-We know that at the end of his term the association will be able to say that it was a year of progress under his direction. We congratulate him and wish for him the health and all the resources needed to have a successful term of

Not Deserved

Scott Summers who writes a synicated column, Capital Reporter, gave us credit for something for which we cannot take credit, in a recent column. While we should like to have performed the public service he mentioned, we did not do it free of charge, it being paid for by the Republicans of the county. We appreciate his comments nevertheless. They appear below:

"A newspaper is supposed to be a public servant, and I have just seen an edition of one that certainly is trying to be just that-Miss Addie Mae Cooke's Cherokee Scout, published at Murphy

"More than 7,000 voters registered in Cherokee County. On November 2-two days before challenge day-Miss Addie Mae printed the name of every one in her paper.

The following copies of the registration books at the close of registration in the precincts as shown are published to enable the voters of the county to check the lists for possible illegal Miss Addie Mae wrote. 'Saturday, November 4, is challenge day, and names of illegal voters may be reported at

The press is supposed to be vigilant to see that the rights of citizens are not trampled upon. If graveyard names were used in Cherokee, it not the fault of Miss Addie Mae and her paper. She used up some 70 columns of her newspaper printing names for voters to check. The best I can figure it, from her own rates, this space would have been worth $840 to Miss Addie Mac. if she had been charging for it-which she wasn't. That doesn't include cost of paper, setting type,

"Miss Addie Mae, I salute you—as a first class citizen and as a true newspaperman, who remembers your obligations to your community. county and state.

Scouting With The Editor

SCOUTING IN THE SNOW-Friday the Western North Carolina Weekly Press Association members were invited to be guests of Champion Paper and Fibre Company on a tour through its paper manufacturing plant in Canton and at luncheon in Morgan of Asheville. Some girl attractive cafetria. As I drove over to Canton Friday morning, there were a few flakes of snow, but we did not have any real snow unt.1 after we had been through the plant, had luncheon and returned with patrol escort to Waynesville where we were to participate in the Harvest Festiva! parade.

JIMMIE WILLIAMSON, who used to live in lucky maiden from some county Murphy and is now on the public relations staff of of Western North Carolina. Girls Champion, was our host at Canton, and other offi- from a number of counties are cials joined us at the excellent meal. Jimmie told me that his first job (in 1924) was on the Cherokee Scout when he became printer's devil at 50c a week for part time. He is a popular member of the Champion staff now, having had several years' experience in newspapering before joining that ANYONE desiring a good laugh may come by the office and see the picture that "Chips" Editor ful supply. Deaton of Canton took as I stood up to say a few words at the luncheon. No reflection on the photographer, but on the subject! Too much of an amatuer speaking. I never fail to become confused when a photographer points his camera my way, and the confusion is clearly seen in the picture.

OPEN CONVERTIBLES were provided by the Waynesville people, under the direction of Curtis Russ and Marion Bridges of the Waynesville Mountaineer, for the press group to ride in. Had we known that the snow would come so thick and fast, it would have been our choice to use closed rars, but once in the parade we had to stay. Mary Cornwell rode in the car with Bridges. Joe Campbe'll and me, as we passed spectators we experience ed the biggest snowballing you can imagine! Patrolman Pritchard Smith tossed a snow ball our way and requested that it be brought back to Murphy.

THE END OF THE PARADE was the beginning of a long and difficult journey for me. Slipping and sliding, sometimes across the highway and once into an embankment, I wondered if I'd ever reach Murphy alive. Balsam Mountain was the most difficult place, but Topton was almost as bad. Arriving in Andrews at 6:15. I was more than an hour late for an appointment at a tea with Mrs. Claude Tarkington who was honoring Betty Ferebee, recent bride of Jimmie Ferebee. (Betty and Jimmie are making their home at Young's Tourist Court ct Nantahala). When I got home I was too tense to have the courage to venture out any more until I went to Sunday School Sunday morning.

I HAVE A VERY faithful reader of this column in my beloved friend, Mrs. H. L. Story of Marshall and Asheville. She is from my native section, and her husband and son publish the MARSHALL NEWS-RECORD. We have much in common, and she keeps up with me through the jottings in these paragraphs. She reminded me Friday at Canton that she always "enjoys reading Scouting".

ONE CHEROKEE COUNTY family had the privilege of visiting the historic Plymouth rock at Plymouth, Mass., on Thanksgiving, Mrs. E. W. Ball sent me an attractive folder on the town and said that her family spent Thanksgiving there.

IT WAS NICE to learn that all the school children in the county had an abundant Thanksgiving totives for Murphy School last dinner with plenty of turkey on Wednesday of last veek three names were listed erweek. The government furnished turkeys sufficient for all the children who eat in the lunchrooms Palmer, Dewey Garrett, and Pearl regularly to have this treat.

Stewardship of Life Lesson for December 3, 1950

CRIPTURE: Romans 12:1-8; II Con-ians 8:1-9; Philippians 2:19-30; 4

DEVOTIONAL READING: Roman

WHAT'S the death rate here?" W asked the stranger. "Same as everywhere," retorted the native son,-"one to a person." Only one to a person, because there is one life to a person. If you had nine lives or even two, you might afford to waste one (though it's doubt-ful). But with only one life you simply cannot afford to waste it. Of course you do waste it, in thousands of little ways; and some of these cannot be

Dr. Foreman helped. But if a faucet leaks, that's no excuse for turning the water on full blast.

God Wants You

WITH all due respects to the arrangers of these lessons, the lesson for last week and this one seem to be in the reverse order what is logical. It is very doubtful whether any one ever un-derstood stewardship of money who did not understand stewardship of life first. Now in almost any church you may hear people singing,

"Were the whole realm of na ture mine, That were a present far to Love so amazing, so divine, Demands my soul, my life, my all."

Very good; wonderful. Surely these are a devoted brotherhood! But wait, what is this coming down the aisle? A man with a collection plate! Now we shall see . . . There's a man putting in a quarter, and there's a prosperous-looking lady laying out a five dollar bill. (She bought a $50 cat last week.) But who is put ting in his soul, his life, his all? Oh well, they didn't mean what they sang. But isn't it more than half hypocritical to sing one way nd "give" another?
The whole realm of nature is not yours to give; but you do have a life; and God wants it. More than he wants what we nave, he wants what we are. God created you; God redeemed you; as Paul says, "You are not your own, you were bought with a price."

Not for Preachers Only

A COMMON mistake is to think that a Christian has a choice between being a preacher and not being one. If he decides to give his life to God then he will be a preach er; otherwise he keeps his life for himself.

This is absurd, when you think about it. God has the first claim on every man's life. To be a Christian is to recognize this claim. He has not a bit more claim on the preacher or the missionary than he has on the grocer or the farmer's wife. Stewardship of life means recognizyour life in partnership with God.

"Who sweeps a room as to Thy laws
Makes that and the action sang a poet long ago. God certainly does not want all his children to be preachers. But he does want his children to live AS his children; and that means stewardship of life.

Stewardship of Time

PICKING up again a thought from last week: Time is the raw material of life. Stewardship of life means stewardship of time. It means spending each day as if God had personally said to you: "Here are 24 fresh, new, unused hours. I shall want them back. You cannot keep them. I shall look at them to see what you have done with them."

What do you do with your time? Does it count for God or against him? And yet — how many Christians there are who if asked to do some kind thing, some simple act of mercy or friendliness, something to help some one else, something that may cost them a little trouble, -how many will say, "Sorry, I'm busy, haven't the time!

Gift Without the Giver is Bare UST put together four sentences from the four sections of the Scripture for this week, and you have the whole business of steward-ship of life in a nutshell: "Having snip of life in a nutshell: "Having gifts, let us use them." "First they gave themselves to the Lord." "Honor such men." "My God will supply every need of yours." No one ever used for God in the service of god in the service. of man any gift which God did not more than repay. The gift without the giver is bare— and so is the giver. But giver and gift, devoted in love to God and man, are rich
