1. CAN PEOPLE WITH HEART DISEASE BE GAINFULLY EMPLOYED?

3. WHY DO WE HICCUP? *

Answer to Question No. 1

A program of selective placement by many employment agencies opens the way to economic independence for people suffering heart disease. At the same time it taps a source of urgently needed man power for the nation's industrial program. With the advice and consent of his doctor, a heart patient can now be gainfully employed in jobs which will not impose too great a strain on the heart.

Answer to Question No. 3:

Hiccoughs or "hiccups" are spasmodic convulsions of the muscles of the diaphragm. Their chief cause is indigestion, frequently from an overdistended stomach and sometimes made worse by nervousness or fear. It is well to avoid heavy rich meals. Attacks of hiccoughs may last from a few minutes to hours, and in rare cases, days and weeks. If you suffer frequent attacks, consult a doctor.

Somebody gambled...

Ordinarily you'd figure John for a pretty solid citizen. But tonight he was in a hurry to get home to tell his wife about his new raise. The minute he hit the curve he knew he was going a little too fast. They took him to the hospital, but he didn't regain consciousness.

It happens every day to solid citizens like John and you. How often do you gamble on a curve? Or pass on a hill? Or slip through an amber light? If you do, it may not be long before someone looks down at you and says: "Somebody gambled . . . and lost!"
