Minister Of Five Churches Oppose Pearsall Plan

In view of the fact that citizens of North Carolina are called upon to go to the polls Saturday, September 8, to vote upon an amendment to the state constitution called the Pearsall Plan, in regard to the operation of our public schools, we, the undersigned ministers of Murphy wish—without attempting to speak for our local churches—to share with the voting constituency of this area our common viewpoint.

(1) We believe the Pearsall plan is contrary in its teachings to New Testament, and Christian practice. The New Testament Church favors, we believe, an integrated pattern for society. This it assuredly does for the church, the redeemed body of Christ: "There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free, there is neither male nor female for ye are all one in Christ Jesus" (Galatians 3:28) Furthermore, the Christian practice is of course to obey the law, and not to try to evade it.

(2) We believe that the Pearsall Plan proposed in the Amendment to be voted upon is likewise impractical in regard to the nature of public school education to be provided, and the quality of that education. The proposal visualizes a two-platoon system of schooling; public schools, as now; and private schools supported by public funds. No explanation is offered as to how the system will be initiated and carried out. Candidly, we are operating our public schools, at present, below the right standard. In some areas facilities are limited; it is difficult to obtain qualified teachers; and many of these are underpaid. With added schools, the problem will be accentuated, at additional costs; and we, think, with further lowering of our standards. We believe that you will serve the interest of our children, and our state, and be in line with God's will by voting against the proposed amendment.

Signed:
Earl Norris, Free Methodist
J. Alton Morris, Pastor of First Baptist Church
William L. Russell (priest-in-charge) Episcopal Church Of The Messiah
Robert A. Potter, Murphy Presbyterian
Asmond Maxwell, First Methodist

HEALTH DEPARTMENT GIVES VACCINE EACH MONDAY

The above photo proves that some of the people in Cherokee County are being wise by having themselves and their children vaccinated against the dread disease Polio.

The county health department is giving every Monday morning, Salk vaccine to those who want it. The only effort on the public's part is to go to the county health department to receive this vaccine. This is very little to ask considering the possibility that it may keep you or your child from being crippled or paralyzed by this dread disease.

Now that your child has started back to school he or she will be in contact with others more than ever. Not only will there be the danger of taking polio from the local group of children, but they will be meeting and making new friends. They will be participating in activities together, thus increasing the chances of taking polio.

There is no excuse on your part. Take your child and yourself to the county health department, or local physician and be vaccinated against infantile paralysis.
