White Church Elementary Becomes Accredited School

Five years of work by almost an entire community were rewarded recently with the announcement that White Church elementary has been placed on the North Carolina Education Association's list of accredited schools.

It is the second elementary school in the county to be accredited. Andrews school made the grade in 1953.

Mrs. Addilee B. Brown, White Church principal, said that the school was examined in November and that she was notified about two weeks ago that it would be listed in the 1956-57 Educational Directory as an accredited school.

Mrs. Brown said that the school began as a one or two teacher school but had grown through consolidation to its present size.

White Church now has 200 pupils and a staff of ten. There are seven teachers, two lunchroom workers and the janitor.

community, it serves Owl Creek, Ebenezer, Boiling Springs, and Davis Creek.

Work toward having the school accredited began about five years ago when Harest King, who is now principal of Hiwassee Dam School, was principal.

Since that time, Mrs. Brown munity, from the P-TA right down to the first grade pupils, have pitched in to help.

Mrs. Brown has been the school's
