make his discovery? The story of Hosea is one of the world's greatest love stories. It egan long ago when he stood with Gomer, his betrothed, to make her his wife. And, as every young couple does, they dreamed of the future, and talked of them in tones of love. Together their dream was consecrated to God. And together they lived to make their dream come true, until one day their dream was shattered. Gomer succumbed, as many women have succumbed, to life's basic passion. She became a sacred prostitute in the Temple of Baal. Eventually she was sold of our security is not that God into slavery. And time sent Hosea searching for her. His love for her would not let him let her go. And then he found her. And because of his great love for her, he took her once again into their home. Through this experience Hosea drew close to God. Frequently, it is in the bitterness of some dark experience that God speaks to us in clearest tones. Through those long hours of darkness and be wilderment Hosea made his way to

A Region Transformed

This week marks the 25th Anniversary of the Tennessee Valley Authority. In its 25 years, TVA has worked with the five million people who live in the Tennessee Valley in transforming a whole region.

To the people it serves, TVA is a series of high dams that hold back ravaging flood waters . . . it is millions of flourishing trees covering once-denuded hillsides and barren fields . . . it is greener, more productive farm land, made more productive through fertilizer research and use . . . it is navigation, stimulating industry and trade . . . it is munitions for national defense . . . it is electric power to lighten the work load in the home, on the farm, and in the factory.

But more than all these things, TVA is proof that people, working together, can create a great national asset through unified resource development . . . a development that has become an inspiration to the peoples of the whole world.
