Week's Rainfall Brings Needed Moisture to Crops

Good rains fell late last week in portions of Cherokee and adjacent counties, bringing needed moisture for field crops and gardens.

In the two-day period Thursday and Friday Andrews had 1.86 inches. More than an inch was reported at Hayesville TVA station. There was also considerable precipitation in the Hiwassee Dam area, Blairsville and Peachtree community.

Murphy's share was considerably less—only .29 inches, but after many dry days this much was welcomed.

After the rainfall the area was given a taste of much colder weather. The mercury skidding down to 46 degrees in Murphy Saturday morning. Records are not preserved at the TVA office here but the temperature was lower than any similar readings through the years for a several-day period at the Asheville United States Weather bureau.

First Independence Day Celebrated On July 8, 1776

The first celebration of the Declaration of Independence was not held on July 4.

It was held on July 8, 1776 — four days after Congress officially adopted the historic document.

According to research experts with The World Book Encyclopedia, patriots who gathered in Philadelphia's Independence Square are credited with originating what has been an annual celebration ever since. The great crowd heard John Nixon, prominent Philadelphian, read the entire Declaration. He stood on a towering platform erected seven years earlier by the American Philosophical Society for the observation of a rare phenomenon involving the planet Venus.

Bells pealed throughout the day. John Adams' letters mention chimes, possibly those of Christ Church. As the rector of the church was a well-known Royalist, the chimes probably were "rung without benefit of clergy."

Not until July 2 of the following year did it occur to the Philadelphians that the celebration should be repeated on July 4.

A letter written by John Adams 'o his daughter tells the story of the next July 4, in 1777. Again bells pealed throughout the day. Warships anchored in the river were gaily decorated. Bonfires and fireworks lit the sky in the evening. Candles burned in the windows of nearly every home.

Congress adjourned for the day. The government dignitaries enjoyed a special dinner in a Philadelphia tavern, with music by a Hessian band, which had been captured at Trenton. During the after-dinner toasts, soldiers outside the tavern fired continuous volleys.

World Book researchers say this annual celebration of the Fourth of July spread slowly throughout the country. But, even today, July 4 is not a national holiday by United States law.
