

Murphy Meets Cherokee In Homecoming Game Friday Night

Murphy Hi Bulldogs Come From Behind To Beat Hayesville Yellow Jackets

By JAY WILSON

The Murphy High Bulldogs rolled over the Hayesville Yellow Jackets Friday night 26 to 7.

Murphy made a good showing especially in the last half.

The score at the end of the first quarter was 0 to 0 but Murphy was on the Hayesville one foot line.

The first play of the second quarter was a plunge by Emanuel McDonald for the first Bulldog score.

The attempted kick for extra point was blocked and Murphy kicked off to Hayesville. In a series of plays one of them a 42 yard pass, Hayesville drove 67 yards to the Murphy two.

William Shelton then ran the ball over to tie the score.

Tom Stanley kicked the extra point to put the Yellow Jackets ahead 7 to 6 at the half.

In the third quarter Murphy blocked a Hayesville punt on the Yellow Jacket 40 yard line.

They then drove to the one foot line where Frank Hill plunged over for the score.

The extra point was made by a run by Frank Hill to put Murphy ahead 13 to 7.

Soon after the kickoff late in the third quarter Bobby Morris intercepted a Hayesville pass and ran it back to the Murphy 45.

From there Murphy drove 50 yards and early in the fourth quarter Frank Hill ran the ball over from the five.

The try for extra point was no good.

The remaining score was made later on in the fourth quarter when Emanuel McDonald ran from the eight after a 59 yard drive.

The extra point was then made by a pass from Emanuel McDonald to Virgil Decker.

This week Murphy has its homecoming game in a contest with Cherokee.

A ceremony is planned for the Alumni and the Murphy band will march for the first time since its reforming.

Local Priest Explains How Successor To Pope Pius XII Will Be Selected

By FATHER JOSEPH DEAN

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article explains how a new Pope will be selected to take the place of Pope Pius XII who died last week. The article was written by Father Joseph Dean of St. William's Chapel.

October 27 is the date set for the election of the successor to Pope Pius XII.

The new Pope will be the 262nd successor to St. Peter, whom Christ appointed as the visible head of the Church. He will be officially installed in St. Peter's Cathedral in Rome about a week after the elections.

Catholic people have the belief that Christ is the Head of the Church and the Pope is His visible representative on earth.

Three American Cardinals will participate in the election in Vatican City. They are Cardinal Spellman of New York, Cardinal Mooney of Detroit and Cardinal McIntyre of Los Angeles.

On the day of the election, the Cardinals offer Mass and go to the Sistine Chapel where the voting takes place by secret ballot for candidates deemed most qualified.

A two-thirds plus one, majority is required for election, according to the Apostolic Constitution.

A procedure of strict secrecy is observed as follows:

Until an election takes place, the cardinals remain in seclusion in the Vatican palace. The inside door is locked by the oldest cardinal. The outside door is locked by the civil marshal.

After the celebration of Mass and prayers to the Holy Spirit for guidance, the cardinals take their places at individual desks. There they write out their blank ballots and seal them.

Before voting, each takes an oath to observe the secrecy of the election. Then each draws numbers for his individual bedroom near the Sistine Chapel in case the election carries on several days.

A little stove is set up in the corner at the entrance of the chapel with a chimney leading out of the roof so that it can be seen on the Square of St. Peter's.

If no cardinal receives more than two-thirds, after the votes are cast then the ballots are put in the stove with damp straw added. The thick smoke shows that no Pope is yet chosen. The vote is taken in the morning and again in the evening. After each vote the cardinals place their ballots on the altar before they are counted.

When the necessary majority is reached, the ballots are burned without the damp straw. The light smoke ascending from the chimney proclaims to the people the election of the new Pope.

Covered Wagon Train To Visit Murphy In July

Prayer Hunt, president of a Tellico Plains civic club, says the covered wagon train will cross the Unaka Mountains from Tellico Plains to Murphy next July 3-4.

The dates are tentative.

The trip, inaugurated this year, will become an annual event, he said.

The train will follow its present route until North Carolina and Tennessee complete a highway over the mountains to Murphy.

Once the road is built, Hunt added, the train will probably run from Tellico Plains to Robbinsville, N. C.

Thousands of persons visited Murphy last year to view the wagon train.

Blaze Destroys Top Floor Of Ethel's Shop

A fire, thought to be caused by defective wiring, did considerable damage to a Murphy business firm early Monday morning.

The blaze in the upper floor of the Ethel Shop on Tennessee Street was discovered by Mrs. Ross Lovingood, owner of the shop.

The fire was confined mainly to the upper floor.

Fire chief W. S. Dickey said the fire apparently started from defective wiring.

Mr. Lovingood said he did not believe the building could be repaired. He speculated that it would have to be torn down and rebuilt.

Stock in the store was carried into the street by spectators at the blaze. It was later carried to another down town store for storage.

Mr. Lovingood, who was away on a hunt at the time of the fire, said Ethel Lovingood discovered the blaze when she entered the building Monday.

When she lighted a fire in a heating stove, Mrs. Lovingood heard the crackling of flames in the upper floor. She rushed to another store to call the fire department.

By that time, Mr. Lovingood said, the roof of the building was covered in black smoke.

The building had a tin roof which buckled in spots from the flames.

Mr. Lovingood said he could not estimate the damage to the building or the stock of supplies.

At present, he said, he has not decided when the store will be rebuilt.

The Lovingoods have operated the store for the past 12 years.
