MISS THELMA WHEELER
Home Agent

"Green" Growin' " our North Carolina Home Demonstration" news magazine although in its infancy is enjoying wide publication throughout the State.

The March issue which is the third is chocked full of items of interest to all home-makers. For those unfamiliar with Home Demonstration club work March which is membership month spells out our objectives thusly:

M Music for the heart and soul as well as the voice.

A Achievements especially all worthwhile educational programs affecting the lives of rural people.

R Responsibility, Recreation - necessary for a well balanced life.

C Character, courage, culture, citizenship the four great "C's" of Home Demonstration work.

H Health and happiness.

The result of a good life. The life of a Home Demonstration member.

These objectives we strive for daily!

We are constantly reaching out for home-makers to swell our ranks.

Although March is earmarked as membership month new members are welcome any month. For further information ask any member or get in touch with your Home Economics Agent at the Courthouse.

MUSIC WORKSHOP, MARCH 23

Mrs. Dock Sudderth, county music chairman, Mrs. Calvin Thompson, Belview, Mrs. Kenneth Skaggs, Murphy and Miss Thelma Wheeler, Home Economics Agent, attended an all day music workshop at Truett Memorial Baptist Church, Hayesville, as guests of Clay County Home Demonstration Clubs participating in a music workshop under the direction of Dr. Arnold Hoffman.

Dr. Hoffman, director public school music for North Carolina is most adept in getting "all of the music" out of one. Each person was there because of her interest in music and although four hours were devoted to work and much helpful instruction it passed all too quickly.

Our regret was not realizing the treat in store for us and not urging more people interested in church, school and community singing to join us.

It is our hope to have Dr. Hoffman come to Cherokee County for such a training school in the not too distant future.

THIS WEEK —In Washington With Clinton Davidson THE NEW DRAFT LAW

The new military draft law passed recently by Congress makes an additional 5,000,000 young men subject to induction into the armed forces within the next four years.

That is the number which Selective Service estimates will become 18½ years of age, and thus subject to the draft, between next date on which the draft law is due to expire.

We asked Selective Service who and how many it expects to call for military duty and how they will

PICTURE FRAMING WORKSHOPS

In early March eight home demonstration club members met at TAC for a two day workshop on renovating old picture frames. Twelve picture frames were done at this workshop.

There have been requests recently for another workshop and although April is one of our busier months with our district federation meeting scheduled for April 30 if there is sufficient interest we will try to work this in. Let us hear from you if you're interested so we can set the date.

TRAINING SCHOOL APRIL 7 FOR HOME ECONOMICS AGENTS HERE

Miss Virginia Wilson, Extension Specialist in Foods and Nutrition, State College, Raleigh, will conduct a training school for the home economics agents and assistant home economics agents at the Murphy Power Board Building beginning at 10 a.m.

We are delighted to have such fine accommodations to offer our guests and wish to take this opportunity to publicly thank the electric power board officials for making this meeting possible.

HOME DEMONSTRATION SCHEDULE FOR FIRST WEEK IN APRIL

Violet home demonstration club meet's April 1 at 11 a.m. with Mrs. J. W. Patton as hostess.

Peachtree home demonstration club meets April 2, 1:30 p.m. at Peachtree school with Miss Nancy Lunsford, hostess.

District planning committee for Cherokee County meets at 1 p.m. Home Economics Agent's office to formulate plans for federation meeting.

be chosen. Here are some of their answers.

Draft calls so far this year are running at around 8,000 a month. Barring world-wide disarmament or a big shooting war, neither of which is expected, that rate will be at about 100,000 a year.

One In Twelve

Only about one out of every twelve young men who become of draft age actually will be called. Selective Services' figures indicate. How, we asked, will those to be called be selected.

Only those in excellent physical condition and above average mentally will be chosen. The tests in both physical and mental conditions will be more strict than in the past, we are told.

In the past only about 2 out of every 10 called have been rejected, but Selective Service says the rejection rate will be about 3 out of every 10 under the new law.

The President, it was explained, has broad powers to change the number as well as the physical and mental standards of those to be called. Selective Service officials, however, know of no plans for changes.

The law fixes the age for draft at between 18½ to 25 years, but for those who have been deferred the law makes the subject to draft up to the age of 35. As a matter of practice, most of the draft calls are for the 22 and 23 year olds.

Deferments

The law does not provide for deferments to permit the youths to continue through high school and college, but Selective Service officials say that unless there is a national emergency the present practice on deferments will be continued.

The present practice, which could, however, be changed by a presidential order, is to defer fathers and expectant fathers, providing they keep their draft boards informed of their status.

The law also provides another way to avoid active duty in the military forces. A young man can sign up with one of the military reserve units, including the National Guard, for six months active duty training.

After that he must attend weekly drills and a two weeks annual training period. This would continue for several years. In most cases until he reaches the age of 36 and thus become exempt from the draft.

Soil Conservation NEWS

By JOHN SMITH

At a recent meeting of the Cherokee County Agricultural Workers Council, several very worthwhile projects for the county were discussed. Included in those projects are four which every farmer in the county should be interested in carrying out on his own farm for his own benefit.

These four are (1) A Live at Home Program, (2) Better Forestry Program; (3) A Soils Testing Program, and (4) A Community Development Program.

If each individual farm in a community is improved, the Community Development Program is done automatically. In order for a Community Development Program to be carried to a successful completion, every farm within the Community would have to carry to completion a good Soil and water Conservation Program.

To discuss these programs individually and briefly, let's take them in the order named. Not nearly enough farms have a good Live At Home Program. Not many years ago about the only things a farmer bought at the grocery store was coffee, and sugar. Now practically everything that is eaten by the farm family comes out of a can. Even the milk and eggs for many farm families come from the store. This is the simplest way to secure our food, but I have my doubts about its being the best way. There is nothing to take the place of the flavor and nutrition of fresh, home grown foods.

Most of the farms of Cherokee could develop better Forestry Programs than they now have in operation. Over eighty five per cent of the land area of the county is in woodland. Some is good, some is poor, and a lot is in-between. The income from forest products is not nearly as large as the proportion of forest land would indicate it should be. Plenty of information on better forestry practices is available from the various federal, state and county agricultural agencies, and from the foresters of private concerns who depend on forest products to maintain their business operations.

Much has been said about the value of testing soils before planting. A county-wide drive to have soil tests made on every farm in the county would have a big effect on increasing the production of grass and crops within the County.

One man was heard to remark recently that he wouldn't plant a turnip patch anymore without having the soil tested. When all the farmers get to this point, then Cherokee County can feed a lot more chickens, cows and people than she is now doing.

These three programs are only a part of an over-all Community Development program. If every farm in the county or in any community carried out these three programs coupled with a good Soil and water Conservation program, they will have gone a long way toward an excellent Community Development Program.
