equal representation.
The big question about "Operation Bootstrap" seems to be: "Who decides which county gets an industry when one decides to come here?"

Right here is where the corporation bows out of the picture and lets the individual counties and their chambers of commerce and industrial committees take over.

"We're interested only in calling attention to Western North Carolina as a whole," says J. P. Brady, Vice President. "Locating an industry in this or that county will not be our job. For example, if Transylvania or Clay or Graham each have the resources and labor supply adaptable to a certain prospective industry, then it will be up to the counties to sell themselves."

Andrews Jaycees

The Rev. Eugene Witherspoon, pastor of the Andrews Presbyterian Church and president of the newly organized club.

James Grimes, of Thomasville, National director of the U.S. Jaycees presented the president's pin and officially installed him in office.

In accepting the charters and pin Rev. Witherspoon pledged his efforts to a better community and emphasized the number one interest as being teenagers. He expressed thanks to the Asheville Jaycees for their interest and support.

The call to order was given by Bill Morris of Asheville, toastmaster for the evening. The Rev. T. C.
Christmas, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Andrews gave the invocation.

The meeting closed with the Jaycees Creed led by Richard Davis of Asheville, State vice-president of North Carolina Jaycees

Guests included Jaycees from Asheville, Hendersonville, Bryson City and their wives also wives of the local Jaycees, representatives from civic organizations of Andrews and others.

Officers of the Andrews Jaycees installed were: Eugene Witherspoon Jr., president; Dean Truett, vice-president; Charles Truett, second vice-president; Harry Hawk, secretary-treasurer; Dee Witt Sharp, State Director; Charles Freel and Clayton Raxter, directors.

Other charter members installed were: Joe Bettis, Lyle Bryson, Jake Buchanan, Tommy Fuller, Charles Gibson, Wm. Higdon, Bill Marr, Brownie Parker, Earl Parker and Buddy West.

Election Law
Changed
For Andrews

ANDREWS-The election law for the town of Andrews has been changed. Following is the new law.
The new election law for Andrews provides that "Any person desiring to become a candidate for nomination in the primary for office of mayor or member of the Board of Aldermen of the Town of Andrews shall, not later than the first Tuesday in April of each election year file with the Town Clerk a statement of his or her intentions and pay a filing fee of $5.00. The primary election of each political party participating shall be conducted by the governing body of the Town on the second Tuesday in April of each election year.
Should no candidate of a political party participating in the primary receive a majority of the votes cast, a second primary shall be conducted on the third Tuesday in April. The general municipal election in said Town should be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in May, as is now provided by law."

The registration book will be open at the Town Hall on the Saturday preceding the primary or on Saturday preceding the first Tuesday in April.

FARM QUESTIONS
QUESTION: I have recently purchased some Georgia Red Sweet potatoes for bedding. What should I do with them?
ANSWER: Unless you are certain that they are certified seed stock from the northern part of Georgia, you should notify your county agent.
The sweet potatoes may be contaminated with a newly-discovered and highly destructive virus.

QUESTION: What is considered a break-even price for producing hatching eggs?
ANSWER: C. F. Parrish, in charge of poultry extension at N. C. State College, says that it costs about 55 cents a dozen to produce hatching eggs under very ideal conditions.
And in many instances, where feed is $5 or more per hundred, the cost is 60 cents.

QUESTION: Are there as many hogs killed on North Carolina farms as there were 10 years ago?
ANSWER: No. Economists estimate that the number of hogs slaughtered on farms in the state is down by 50 per cent. Today three-fourths of all the pork consumed in North Carolina is slaughtered by commercial firms.
