JACK HALL, who started carving at John C. Campbell Folk School 25 years ago, is following in the footsteps of his father, Ben Hall. He is shown surrounded by three aspiring young carvers.

Folk School Well Represented At Asheville Craftsman's Fair

Brasstown - A large representation from the John C. Campbell Folk School left this past week-end to exhibit and demonstrate at the Craftsman's Fair in Asheville from July 17-21.

Mrs. Georg Bidstrup, co-founder of the school, is in charge of folk dancing at the Fair. She will have eight couples performing three times daily. Dancers from Brasstown will be Gladys Holland, Jeanne Smith, Billy Tipton, James Caldwell, and George Bidstrup. Other centers that will be represented in Mrs. Bidstrup's group are Berea College, Ky., and Hindman Settlement School, Ky. Miss Edna Richtie, of the famed "Singing Richtie Family" in Kentucky, will lead the group in folk songs.

Mrs. Murial Martin, Director of Crafts, and for 25 years the guiding force behind the famous Brasstown carvers, is in charge of the exhibit and demonstrations. She took the following carvers and wood craftsmen: A. Ben Hall, Jack Carpenter, Jesse Ledford, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Brown, Eddie Tipton (14 years old); and Mrs. Ethel Hogsted.

Always a major attraction at the entrance to the Asheville Auditorium is the vegetable dyeing demonstration by Miss Fannie McLeiland, and she will be there again this year.

4 - H Members Take Honors At Camp

The still was gone—but the mash was hot enough to burn you.

That's what Earl Branum, Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Division agent, said he and other officers had discovered in a raid in Cherokee County Wednesday night, July 12.

Branum, U. S. Deputy Marshal Hugh B. Stevens and ABC officer H. H. Horton arrested Thomas Didymus Craig of Shoal Creek Township in Cherokee County, charging him with removing and concealing two gallons of non-tax paid whisky.

Branum said they had found a clearing and 40 gallons of hot mash underneath some brush, but there was no still. The two gallons of moonshine, though, was found near Craig's farmhouse, Branum said.

Craig, arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Henry Truett in Bryson City, waived preliminary hearing, Branum said, and $500 bond was set for appearance in U. S. District Court in Bryson City, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Simms; Shellah Sneed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Sneed; Rebecca Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walker; Peggy English, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett English; James Rinaudo, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James Rinaudo, Sr.; Larry Sandidge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Sandidge; Donnie Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Davis; Charles Jensen, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Henson; Danny Elliott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Elliott, David Slagle, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Slagle.

These boys and girls were camping with 4-H members from Macon, Jackson Counties and the Cherokee Indian Reservation. There was a total of 78 campers and they were divided into four groups, the head, hands, heart and health groups, and contests were held between the groups.

The best boy and girl camper in each group was selected by the adult leader and agents of each group and the camp staff selected the best boy and girl camper for the whole group.

Cherokee County 4-H members won most of the first place awards and a list of the winners were as follows:

Best camper in head group: Shellah Sneed, James Rinaudo; best camper in heart group: Peggy English, Donnie Davis; best camper in the whole group: Shellah Sneed, Donnie Davis; best swimmers: Shellah Sneed, Carla Beth Siles, tie, in handicrafts class, David Slagle.

There were 10 older boys and girls selected out of Wildlife classes to study the National Rifle Association Safe Hunting Award. They two written examinations had to fire a rifle on the range. Out of the ten selected, one passed and received a membership card. Four of eight who passed were from Cherokee County and were follows: Donnie Davis, Charles Henson, James Rinaudo, Jr. and David Slagle.
