The Life and Times of Henry Berry Lowry

The eight most constant members of the Lowry Gang and their sympathizers. They were: Henry Berry Lowry, quite naturally the leader; Stephen Lowry, Henry Berry's older brother and possessor of the vilest temper of all the gang members; Thomas Lowry, also Henry Berry's brother, although, quite the opposite of Stephen he was the quiet type; Boss Strong, Henry Berry's brother-in-law (Rhoda's brother) who was Henry Berry's right-hand man and most likely Henry Berry's successor as gang leader in the advent that something was to happen to Henry Berry; Andrew Strong, Boss' brother and the newest member of the Gang; Henderson Oxendine, related to Henry Berry by marriage and the only member of the Lowry Gang to be tried and executed (was hung in the Lumberton jail yard); George Applewhite, a former slave who was married to a daughter of Jack Oxendine's; and Zach McLaughlin, a white of Scottish descent who was raised among the Indians of the Scuffletown area.

Andrew Strong remained behind after Saunders was killed. He wrapped the body in his own blanket and clasped the hands together, afterwards giving the bulky and courageous undercover cop as decent a burial as possible. Strong then sent Saunders' wife the letter and a picture taken from his personal effects.

Following the hanging of Henderson Oxendine, a party of men led by Major Thomas and Lieutenants Howe and Simpson followed the instructions left behind by Henderson and located the body of Saunders. The grave site was near Devil's Den located between Inman's Bridge and Back Swamp near the residence of Zach T. McLaughlin. The remains were reinterred in a coffin furnished by the sheriff of the county, Rhoderick McMillan, who incidentally was also involved in Saunders' drawn-out scheme which culminated in his death.

Trojans Win

MAGNOLIA — Magnolia High Trojans defeated the Bears of Fairgrove 38 - 14 behind the quarterbacking of Tonya Kerns. Magnolia dominated play throughout the entire contest producing close to 300 yards.

Leading rusher for Magnolia was Edmond McLean with 120 yards and a touchdown. Other Trojans gaining touchdowns were running back Charles McGirt and Tonya Kerns and ends Timmy Hardin and David Revels. Other scores came on a safety produced by the defense and a couple of extra point conversions.

Magnolia's defense roamed in Fairgrove's backfield most of the night. Timmy Hardin, Woodie Locklear, Eddie Hammonds, Wayne Bell, Robert Lowery and Ricky Bristol led the attack with good support from linebackers Billy Brewington and Richard Haskins, cornerbacks Jerry Chavis and David Revels, safeties Tonya Kerns and Michael Locklear.

The offensive line, led by tackle Donald Locklear, Henry Brewer, Gregory Gerald and Golber Hardin, performed well in opening holes in Fairgrove's defensive line for their running backs.

Fairgrove's touchdowns came in the second half on substantial drives and short runs to cap their only scores.

Magnolia travels to Parkton next week.

Saunders gave Andrew his pen knife for trying to save his life after trying unsuccessfully to cut his wrist. Andrew told Saunders that he pitied him for he had just recently been in the presence of death himself and therefore knew what he was going through. The incident of which Andrew was referring was the recent murder of Malcolm Sanderson at which time Andrew managed to untie his hands and flee thusly escaping the same fate as Sanderson. The gruesome experience was still fresh in his mind.

Andrew Strong and Tom Lowry were unable to persuade the other members to spare Saunders' life. Andrew was successful, however, in persuading the more adamant members to allow the white undercover agent to take his own life.

George Applewhite had some tablets in his possession that he believed to be arsenic. They gave Saunders one and after witnessing Saunders swallow the supposedly arsenic tablet waited three full days. To their dismay and utter astonishment, the huge Nova Scotian seemed healthier than before he swallowed the pill. Henderson Oxendine, in his supposed confession before he was hung in the jail yard in Lumberton, related that Saunders was stubborn and proud throughout the 3 day ordeal.

On Wednesday the gang realized that Saunders had failed once again at committing suicide.

The gang untied their white prisoner and carried him a short distance into the swamps. They gave the condemned man an hour to pray. While the bulky Nova Scotian prayed, Tom Lowry and Andrew Strong stepped back about two or three hundred feet refusing to witness or take part in the gruesome task of executing Saunders.

The remaining members drew highest card to see who would be called upon to play the part of executioner. Stephen Lowry drew highest card. He allowed Saunders to write a final letter to his wife, afterwards he blindfolded the undercover cop and tied him to a tree. He then emptied both barrels of his shot gun into the body of the ex-policeman. The whole gang, including the hard-nosed Stephen Lowry, were emotionally affected.

Pembroke Jaycees Contribute to Health Careers Club at PSHS

Three students, Donnie Oxendine, Geanice Ransom, and Rhonda Jones and their advisor, Mrs. Miriam Edwards, are going to represent the Health Careers Club from Pembroke Senior High School at the Health Careers National Convention to be held in Arlington Texas on Nov. 11, 12, 13th.

It will be the first time representatives from the Pembroke chapter have attended a national convention on career exploration in their two years of existence.

The purpose of the club is to bring together young people interested in careers in health in order to share their interests to explore the opportunities and challenges in the health occupational fields and to learn about professional and community life in which they soon will participate as informed citizens.

Larry T. Brooks, president of the Pembroke Jaycees, looks on as External Vice-President Randy Jones presents a check for $100 to Donnie Oxendine, vice president of the Health Careers Club at Pembroke Senior High School, to help defray expenses on the convention.
