"This means that, with the rewarding of the athletic scholarships, some 90-100 students will have received financial assistance from our University Foundation, Inc." emphasized Walter Oxendine, university development officer.

Chancellor English E. Jones, who acted as chairman of the meeting which included the boards of director of both the endowment and foundation funds, said he is extremely pleased over the progress of the PSU Foundation, Inc., and pointed out it is just a beginning.

"As we move forward, Pembroke State University can bring in many more additional programs and services plus scholarship funds which are going to the many needy students in this area," Dr. Jones added.

The Chancellor expects giving to the foundation to increase rapidly in the future. "You must remember that we have graduated more students in the last five years than in the first 75-80 years that the school existed. Most of

Indian Education Under Audit In Robeson

Although not officially confirmed at press time, it seems that a review team from HEW is conducting an audit of the Indian Education Act Program in Robeson County.

According to information obtained by the Carolina Indian Volce from repu-table sources, some concerned parents from the Magnolia School area request-ed the internal audit.

A Joseph Safadi, who seemingly is a member of the review team, would neither deny or confirm the suspected audit saying that "You should contact the information officer at HEW in Atlanta for information." As one punster put in, "either HEW is auditing the IEA program in Robeson County or the CIA has unloosed some operatives among us."

No school official was available for comment and Bobby Dean Locklear, Chaairman of the 40 member Parent's committee, could not be reached by telephone. The mostly silent official response seems to confirm that, in fact, an audit is underway at the request of the parents from Magnolia. More, hopefully, next week.

The Pembroke Town Counil, at their Monday night meeting, also reported on the status of their grant proposal to obtain a municipal, recreational complex. They have applied for federal EDA funds for the proposed project. Their chances, according to town officials, "lood good."

The council also took under advisement a petition to "consider annexing College Terrace Apartments. The petition contains names of many who rent and occupy apartments in Mr. Russell Oxendine's Apartment building.

The council also approved Preston Douglas & Associates as their auditors for the current investigation into "possible missing funds." No further update was given on the so called "misappropriated funds." The board also took under advisement an inquiry from Pates Supply Company as to the amount of taxes levied against them. Pates Supply Company has questioned the amount of taxes levied.

Pembroke's Bicentennial Coins---A Nice X-mas Gift

As Christmas and the end of 1976 draw near, it is a good time to purchase one of the bicentennial coins available from the Town of Pembroke.

As a bicentennial project, the Pem-broke Bicentennial Committee com-missioned Paul Van Zandt to produce a bicentennial coin that would represent the history of Pembroke and her natives, the Lumbee Indians.

Prof Van Zandt, a member of the faculty at PSU, designed a bicentennial coin that has Henry Berry Lowry on one side and Old Main on the other.

The coins were minted in Silver and Bronze, in a very limited edition. There were 200 silver coins made and 2500 bronze coins. The Silver bicentennial coins sell for $20.00 and the broze coins sell for $2.00. They may be purchased from Lumbee Bank, Southern National in Lumberton, and First Union National.

There are only a few of the coins left, so if you want a Christmas Gift that is reflective of your heritage, consider giving a Bicentennial Coin. Too, the edition of the Bicentennial Coins is limited. After the 200 Silver coins and the 2500 Bronze coins are sold, there will not be any more minted.
