

TEACHES NUTRITION CLASS

Mrs. Merlene Oxendine, Lunchroom Manager at Pembroke Elementary School, taught a nutrition class to the students of Mrs. Mary S. Chavis, 3rd grade teacher. She stressed the importance of eating food each day from the five basic food groups.

She said that maintaining good health should be the number one thought in the minds of the children, and stressed that a proper diet is not only essential for good health but the sleeping habits can also improve with a balanced diet. The children were given different foods from each food group. Every child had a great learning experience.

Students have their own Trick or Treat Party

Instead of going trick or treating the TMH class of Pembroke Elementary School had their own party. The children ate popcorn, played games and received plenty of candy. Besides their class room party, the student council for Exceptional Children hosted a Halloween party for them at PSU. There were numerous activities planned for them and everyone thoroughly enjoyed themselves. A special thanks from the TMH class to the student council for exceptional children and the special education department faculty.

Mrs. Agnes Chavis has been selected as "Teacher of the Year" at Pembroke Junior High School. This selection was made by the faculty and staff. Ms. Chavis will represent Pembroke Junior High in local competition for "Robeson County Teacher of the Year."

Thomas Earl Locklear, the Principal, expressed his pride in the faculty's selection of Ms. Chavis. Locklear stated, "I am confident that Mrs. Chavis will become District Teacher of the Year."

Mrs. Chavis is in her sixth year as Educably Mentally Handicapped teacher at Pembroke Junior High. In addition to serving as chairman of the EMH department, or the "exceptional children," as she so fondly refers to them, Mrs. Chavis also teaches history and math in the 8th and 9th grades for exceptional children.

Her teaching career includes nine years at Union Elementary School as EMH teacher and fourth and fifth grade; at Rex Rennett and Ashpole Schools she taught first grade. Her teaching career began at Green Grove School where she taught first grade. Mrs. Chavis has also taught Headstart prior to the addition of the kindergarten program.

Mrs. Chavis is a graduate of Pembroke State College. She earned a B.S. degree there. Additional training includes certification in exceptional children (grades 1-12) reading and speech, primary 1-3.

Mrs. Chavis' professional service includes serving on three national committees of the National Association of Educators. She serves on the following committees: Minority Affairs; Human Relations and the Women's Training Cadre.

She is a member of the State Board of Directors at Large of the North Carolina Association of Educators. For that organization she is a member of the American Indian Task Force, the Educational Hall of Fame; and the Finance and Personnel Committee.

She presently serves as the President of the Robeson County Association of Classroom Teachers; and chairman of the Constitution Committee of the Robeson County North Carolina Association of Educators. She is chair person of the N.C. Consortium, the organization which speaks to the Title IV Indian Education issue. She serves also on the Parent Committee for the Robeson County Indian Education Program.

In addition, Mrs. Chavis serves as a part time instructor for Robeson Technical College. As such she teaches adult classes two nights a week at Pembroke Junior High.

Mrs. Carrie Mable Jones serves as Chairperson of the Teacher of the Year Committee at Pembroke Junior High. That committee hosted a reception in honor of Mrs. Chavis on Tuesday, Oct. 26, at the school. At this time Mrs. Chavis was presented a plaque denoting her position as Teacher of the Year at PJH.

Mrs. Chavis had the following comments related to teaching: "I always wanted to become a teacher because of my home training. Also because of my respect for my teachers. They were inspirational to me during my schooling. I believe that the volunteer program is an asset to the teaching profession. The more people are involved, the better schools we'll have."

Mrs. Chavis and her husband, George Chavis, a retired school teacher, reside in Pembroke.
