

COUPLE ANNOUNCES ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Brewington of Pembroke announce the engagement of their daughter, Zonetta Gail, to Mr. Richard Regan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Regan of Pembroke.

The bride-elect is a 1981 graduate of Pembroke State University where she obtained a B.S. degree in music education. She is presently enrolled at UNC-Greensboro and will receive her M.M. in music education December 1982.

The bridegroom-elect is a 1980 graduate of Pembroke State University where he obtained a B.S. degree in Business Administration. Mr. Regan has plans to attend Southeastern Theological Seminary in January 1983.

Their marriage will take place on December 31, 1982 at Boroa Baptist Church, Pembroke.

Three and four-year-old preschoolers at Wonderland Child Care Center recently participated in many activities and experiences to help them understand the Thanksgiving celebration. The children visited local grocery stores and purchased fruits and vegetables. They learned about these foods through cooking and tasting experiences at Wonderland.

On another day the three and four year olds visited the Indian Museum at Pembroke

State University and viewed two films about Lumbee Indians. This trip was related to their studying about Thanksgiving friends. A unit study filled with exciting activities and meaningful experiences made learning about Thanksgiving fun and relevant.

CHEROKEE CHAPEL NEWS
Mrs. Jessie B. Chavis

Cherokee Chapel Church began Sunday School last Sunday morning at 9:45 a.m. with announcements followed by prayer and praise worship. Before prayer and praise service, Mr. Andrew Ransom, supervisor of Lumber River Methodist Conference Sunday Schools, gave a brief lecture concerning some future goals that he hoped the Sunday schools would achieve in 1983. Mr. Ransom was well impressed with a filled sanctuary despite the rainy day. Mr. Ransom is also a PSU professor.

At the close of the lecture, prayer and praise service began followed by the scripture reading by the pastor, Rev. Julian Ransom, reading from Joshua 14:6-13. Special music followed by the Cherokee Quartet using the selections "Like the Prodigal Son" and "Don't Let the Ship Sail Without Me."

The message followed immediately by the pastor, using for his subject "Now Give Me This Mountain" Joshua 14:12.

Rev. Ransom emphasized choosing between low level and high level things in life through 1. t.v., 2. conversation, 3. home life, and 4. religion.

At the close of the message, Rev. Ransom announced the closing song "Living By Faith" with Kernes L. Locklear giving the closing prayer.

Among the visitors, other than Andrew Ransom, were Mrs. Veradora Sams of Greensboro, NC and Rev. Steve Locklear of Pembroke.

Reflections... Alta Nye Oxendine

THANKSGIVING IS OVER. Thanksgiving is over. Or is it? The special November day set aside in this country for us to "celebrate" Thanksgiving is gone for one more year. But we have too many blessings every day to say "thanks" only once a year.

On Thanksgiving Day Wanda Kay and I had the opportunity to call a friend whose mother had recently died of cancer, to eat a delicious dinner with another family spending their first Thanksgiving without the wife and mother (who died of cancer last April), and then to pay a visit to my father's 81-year-old first cousin, who lives alone since his wife died of cancer in May. In each case, we hoped to encourage the loved ones left behind to experience that "peace which passeth understanding" which only God can give.

We had a wonderful trip to Laurinburg, on to Fayetteville and back. And there's still so much to be thankful for, each day of our lives.

No matter how much or how little you may have in the way of material blessings, may God bless you daily with His wonderful love!

This is my wish for each of you.
