The Sunday School Lesson

A MINISTRY OF THE BURNT SWAMP ASSOC.

by Rev. Mike Cummings
TEACHING ABOUT
LOSTNESS

Luke 15:11-24 Once again we find Jesus surrounded by critical Pharisees and scribes. This time, the issue they raise concerns Jesus' basic purpose for coming into the world-to recover the lost. In order to respond to their murmuring, Jesus actually gives three parables which relate to lostness. The three parables also demonstrate the joy of God in recovering the lost. The parable of the prodigal son fully answers the criticism of Pharisees.

THE REBELLIOUS ONE
[vv 11-16] The parable deals with two sons and their father. The younger son is over come by his desire to be his own master. He wanted independence from his father but later learned that he could not manage his freedom. He wasted his wealth in a life where there was no reference to God. He could be compared to the reckless and loveless publicans and sinners whom Jesus cared much about. He was in open rebellion to a life full of the father's presence. He was away from his father's house.

THE REPENTANT ONE
[vv 17-19] This young man finally saw the needless misery of his life. He had not captured life with his "living" nor his "leaving" home. He had been turned away from real life. Notice, it was the memory of his father's house that worked repentance in his heart. We know he repented because his attitude toward himself and his father changed radically. He saw himself no longer as a son but a servant. He saw his father no longer as one to run from but one to run to. That's repentance.

THE RETURNING ONE
[vv 20-24] Notice that the young man had truly repented because he literally returned to his father. Godly repentance bring about a return. He returned with no demand to his father, rather he returned with a prayer for forgiveness. He didn't ask for his old privileges that he had destroyed. He didn't even ask for any special treatment at all. He only asked to serve his father in the capacity as his slave, guaranteeing for himself a place to eat and sleep in exchange for his service as a slave.

THE REJOICING ONE
The beautiful twist to this story is seen in the father's joy at recovering his wayward son. Though his son didn't deserve nor demand acceptance and restoration, the loving father granted it out of his consuming love for his child. Nothing else but relentless love made the prodigal once again a privileged child.

Jesus also used this story to speak truth to the Pharisees whose hearts were not like the rebellious prodigal—they were worse. They were like the brother who stayed home, took pride in his prudence and had no regrets to regard concerning his well-disciplined life. The only problem was that while he lived in the house as a son, he carried the heart of a slave. The aroma of his life was filled with the stench of repugnant self-righteousness and uncaring insensitivity toward a brother who needed a lift in life. The real "lost one" in the end was the one who was not enjoying the warmth of his father, regardless of what he had or had not done.
