The PSU Business Office announced Tuesday that the spring enrollment at PSU stands at 2,069. A year ago at this stage the spring head count was 2,077, meaning PSU has a head count of only eight less than last year in a time of shrinking college enrollments nation wide. CONGRATULATIONS TO CIV ON ITS 10TH ANNIVERSARY

Congratulations most certainly to the Carolina Indian Voice, edited by Bruce Barton and his hard-working staff, on this publication's 10th Anniversary. When he arrived on the Pembroke State scene in 1968, there was no quality weekly newspaper in broke such as we enjoy today. Different persons tried to keep a newspaper going during that time-but not until Bruce made his plunge into the newspaper world, learning the business from the ground up, did a publication in Pembroke flourish. We have personally seen the long hours and tremendous work he and his staff have done to make a weekly newspaper a reality. Such resolve and determination to serve this community should be applauded. Congratulations, Bruce and your fellow workers!

JOHN G. RICHARDSON
Robeson County Extension Chairman

As with any type of educational effort, many times the person who provides the educational leadership has to wait many years to see the results of their labors. Last week when the announcement of the Fourteenth North Carolina Beef Cattle Improvement Program Test Station Sale came across my desk, I reflected on perhaps the most valuable day as far as cattle are concerned that I have ever spent in Robeson County. It was about seven years ago, and following heavy promotion of the Bull Testing Station Sale, we were able to convince ten producers to travel to Rocky Mount and purchase performance tested bulls.

Those bulls came to Robeson County and several of them are continuing to have a significant beneficial effect on the quality of beef cattle being produced locally. A number of other cattle producers have utilized these bulls as well as some of those individuals trading back and forth to gain the benefits that were anticipated when those performance tested bulls were purchased on that rainy, cold day.

Since we have witnessed an upward trend in the quality of out beef animals produced here, and since we have approximately 3,000 brood cows in Robeson County, perhaps this year would be an excellent time for producers to again take a bold step forward by traveling to the Bull Test Station Sale to purchase outstanding bulls this year. The sale will be held at the Eastern Carolina Livestock Arena in Rocky Mount Friday, January 21, beginning at 12:00 noon. Sixty bulls have made it through the 140-day test period without any problems and will be available to improve cattle herds throughout the southeast. Sixteen polluted Hertfords, 20 Angus, 20 Simmentals, 2 Limousin, and 2 Charolais will be offered this year.

Upon looking over the 140-day average daily gain while the bulls were actually on test, I noted that an Angus had the highest ADG with exactly four pounds of gain per day during the test period. Generally, the Hertfords were the slowest gainers while the Angus and Simmental gained much more rapidly. However, performance testing can surely uncover the genetic capability of an animal since one Angus bull gained only 2.61 pounds per day as compared to the outstanding gainer at 4 pounds per day. There is definitely a broad range of average daily gains in all breeds, so this should provide a wide latitude for buyers to make their selections and to purchase the ones that can be depended upon to sire offspring that will grow much better than their predecessors.

While I am mentioning animal quality in this column I would also like to announce that a special swine purebred sale will be held at the Jaycees Fairgrounds in Lumberton the night of February 1. Eastern Carolina Breeders, Inc., will offer 45 Yorkshire breeds and an additional 45 open Yorkshire gilts. They will also have 55 crossbred York-Duroc open gilts available at the sale. Naturally, the purchase of outstanding purebred animals whether in swine herds or cattle herds can ultimately provide significant financial benefits to those individuals who make a commitment to improved live stock production.
