WATER BOND PASSES HANDILY

LUMBERTON - Robeson County voters gave their approval Tuesday to a $7 million bond issue to build the second phase of a countywide water

Voters approved the bond issue by a margin of almost 3 to 1. With all 39 of the county's precincts reporting, election officials reported unofficial returns gave the bond issue approval by a vote of 2,138 to 744 against it.

The total other turnout was low, but County Manager Paul Graham said be was blased with the final count. The voters gave approval to the second phase of the water system which will finance construction of a water treatment plant, five water tanks, six deep wells and 230 miles of water lines. The system was started after voters gave approval of a countywide water system in a referendum held in 1978. The issue in the referendum gave approval to local funds to match federal grants. With completion of the first phase, about 3,700 people in the rural sections of the county have water from the system.

The second phase is expected to provide service to as many as 10,500

The Robeson County Board of Commissioners has pledged to repay the bonds from revenues produced by the system. It will not be necessary to raise taxes to pay off the bonds, they said.

Commenting on Tuesday's election results, Graham, said, "I think the success of the referendum is that the people of Robeson County want good, clean water and are concerned about economic conditions., There's no easy way we can reach all the people in the county until Phase 2 is common sense seemingly prevailed.

The suit was brought against the Lumberton City Schools by a group of concerned Indian parents. Pleading their case was Lumbee River Legal Service, Inc. in Pembroke; LRLS was assisted ably by the American Civil Liberties Union, Atlanta, Georgia.

In action filed in the eastern district court the lawyers in the case have filed for attorney fees. Representing Lumbee River Legal Services (LRLS) was Julian Pierce: the American Civil Liberties Union was represented by Laughlin McDonald. They are asking a combined total of $61,995.00 plus $1,302.89 in expenses.

In the civil action, Pierce and McDonald said, "This case has been in litigation for the past three years. An award of fees and expenses is appropriate now."

The suit also notes, "This action sought to enforce section 5 of the Vot Rights Act of 1965. Plaintiffs fully an completely prevailed on the merits...

The suit says, "As a result of this action (legal), minority citizens of Robeson County will enjoy the full benefits of Section 5 for the first time since its enactment in 1965."

The justice department ruled that Lumberton City Schools had illegally annexed certain areas within the county school system into the Lumberton Schools.
