Pembroke Chamber of Commerce activated

Bruce Barton named President

PEMBROKE--A good representation of the business community in Pembroke turned out Tuesday night to re-activate the Pembroke Chamber of Commerce. The meeting was also graced by the appearance of Mayor Milton Hunt, Town Manager McDuffie Cummings and Councilman J.C. Thomas.

Named president was Bruce Barton, editor of The Carolina Indian Voice. Vice-president is Jim Hunt president of Lumbee Bank. Other officers named were: Dr. David Brooks, secretary; Carlton Dial (Dial Insurance Agency), treasurer; and directors John Drose, Piggly Wiggly; Charles Alton Maynor, Pembroke Carpet Service; McDuffie Cummings, Town Manager; and George W. Lowry, Pembroke Machine Company.

The next meeting of the chamber is scheduled for February 15 at Sheff's Restaurant in Pembroke. The meeting will be a luncheon and will begin at 12:30 p.m. All businesses are urged to send a representative, and all those concerned about the welfare of Pembroke are urged to attend.

BOBBY DEAN LOCKLEAR CHALLENGES FOR RED SPRINGS COMMISSIONER SEAT

English for five years.

Locklear is well known in educational circles, having served on several state, local and national educational committees. He has been a dedicated member of many civic organizations. His most noted contributions have been to the Pembroke Jaycees where he served as President and to the Pembroke VFW where he served as Post Commander and remains an active member.

Locklear released the following statement in making his announcement:

"I have been approached by many friends, acquaintances and associates recently, urging me to seek election to the Robeson County Board of Commissioners. After much sincere deliberation and consideration, I have decided to seek the opportunity to represent the Red Springs District because I believe our district needs an advocate. We need a representative who is outspoken. It has always been characteristic of me to say what I felt. It is not a popular trait, but I feel it is necessary for the advancement of our county. Problems must first be recognized, then expressed before they can be solved.

"I care about the worth, dignity, rights and opportunities of every Robesonian. I am proud of my past record as county commissioner and believe sincerely that it speaks for itself. I am proud of our county, especially the progress all of us have made in the area of human rights. Robeson County is becoming, I believe, finally a county for and by all the people.

"I am making no specific promises to pave roads for certain individuals, to keep the tax rate down, or to get jobs for a select few. I do promise, if elected, to represent the people in my District, in particular, and the people of Robeson County, in general, in their best interest and to the best of my ability.

"I do promise to keep education as my Number One priority because I still believe our children are our greatest asset."

Locklear, a life long resident of the Union Chapel Community, is married to the former Theresa Revels. They have four children: Gwen, a sophomore at Pembroke State University; Amelia Kay and Amira Fay, juniors at West Robeson High; and Brannagan Ray, a sixth grade student at Union Chapel School.

Betty Oxendine Mangum talks about Indian Education at ECU

GREENVILLE--"Indian Education in North Carolina" was the topic of two presentations by Betty Oxendine Mangum, director of Indian education for the N.C. Department of Public Instruction, given at East Carolina University Jan. 17.

Ms. Mangum spoke at 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. in Hendrix Theatre. Her visit to ECU was sponsored by the ECU College of Arts and Sciences' Multicultural Education Committee.

A Lumbee Indian and graduate of Pembroke State and N.C. Central Universities, Ms. Mangum has completed a year in the Education Policy Fellowship Program. Before joining the state education department, she taught at the elementary level in North Carolina, Michigan, Nebraska and Iowa and served as consultant in a self-image development program.

HASTY FILES AGAIN FOR THE HOUSE

John C. (Pete) Hasty

Representative John C. (Pete) Hasty has announced that he will seek reelection to the North Carolina Legislature. Mr. Hasty was elected to the House of Representatives in 1982 to represent the 16th District, which is comprised of Robeson, Hoke and Scotland Counties.

Hasty is a native of Maxton, having graduated from Maxton High School and served as the Town's Mayor in 1967. He is actively engaged in the Insurance and Realty Estate business in Maxton.

The former Betty Upchurch of Raeford and Mr. Hasty were married in 1955 and are the parents of three children.

John Hasty, Jr. of Maxton, Flora Hasty McCook of Macon, Georgia and Elizabeth U. Hasty, a student at Wesleyan College in Macon, Georgia.

He has been involved in civic and community affairs for many years, having served on the Laurinburg-Maxton Airport Commission, Scotland Memorial Hospital Board of Trustees, Mormax Club and served two years as President of Cape Fear Area Council Boy Scouts of America.

Hasty is a longtime member of St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Maxton and served as Chairman of the Administrative Board and as a member of many of its committees.

While serving in the 1983 Session of the Legislature, he was appointed to the following committees: Finance, Insurance, Judiciary III, Law Enforcement, Local Government, Manufacturing and Labor, Public Utilities, and State Government.

Since the end of the Session, he has been appointed to several study commissions: Property Tax Study Commission, Regulation of Banks, Savings and Loan Associations and Credit Unions, and the Commission to Study Insurance Laws and Regulations.

Mr. Hasty stated that the 16th District was well represented during the last Session of the Legislature, but we need to return someone with experience. "Our District needs to elect someone who has learned how to influence Legislation so that this District can be as important a factor in passing Legislation as this District is important to North Carolina."

Behan files for District Court Judge

Adelaide G. Behan

Lumberton attorney Adelaide G. Behan filed as a candidate for District Court Judge of the 16th Judicial District of Robeson and Scotland Counties in the May Democratic Primary.

An associate of the law firm of I. Murchison Biggs, P.A. Behan has practiced law in Lumberton for seven years.

She is a 1976 graduate of Wake Forest University Law School and took an undergraduate degree in business administration with Cum Laude honors.

Behan is chairman of the Lumberton Planning Board and is in her second term. She is also past president of the Robeson County League of Women Voters and is a member at-large of the North Carolina League of Women Voters.

"I feel that I have acquired the legal knowledge and have accumulated the experience to serve the people of Robeson and Scotland Counties in a fair and equitable manner in both criminal and civil cases," Behan said in making her announcement. "Efficient use of the courts should be a prime goal for any judge, attorney and administrator."

Behan is a member of the American and North Carolina Bar Associations. She is a graduate of the National Institute of Trial Advocacy and certified by the North Carolina College of Advocacy. She is also a member of the North Carolina Association of Women Attorneys.

Rates Going Up

Subscription rates, like everything else in America, continue to creep up with the accompanying increase in the production costs of the Carolina Indian Voice.

As of February 1, a one-year subscription of the Carolina Indian Voice will cost $10.00 in North Carolina (we pay the taxes). Out of state will be $13.00. Senior citizens (those 65 years old and above) and prisoners may receive the Carolina Indian Voice free of charge simply by requesting it.

Subscriptions will be for the length of one year only, beginning February 1, 1984 to facilitate and improve our record keeping.

You may renew at the old rate until the new rates become effective.
