Josh Brooks Tribute Day - November 3

Saturday, November 3, 1984, is Josh Brooks Tribute Day in North Carolina. The celebration is planned as a fundraiser for the JOSH BROOKS LIVING MEMORIAL TRANSPLANT ASSOCIATION, based in Laurinburg, N.C. Razy Bailey, The White's Band, the Pilgrims from Hee Haw and Bobby McLamb, celebrity spokesperson for the association will be in concert at Pate Stadium at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $8 for adults, $5 for ages 6-12, age 5 and under are admitted free.

A parade will kick-off the day at 10 a.m. down Main Street to West Church and ending at Scotland High School, site of the day's activities.

Continuous entertainment, concessions, arts and crafts sales will open for a full day of family fun at 11 a.m. (Bad weather: all activities will take place in SHS Commons and auditorium.)

Celebrity-item auction begins at 3 p.m., with non-celebrity items ending that segment. Dizzy Gillespie's horn, a cup and saucer owned by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, a briefcase of David Hartman's, a pair of cuff-links which belonged to former President Gerald Ford and numerous sports items head the list.

Little Josh touched the heartland last fall with his fight for life through a liver transplant. The outpouring of support, love, and financial assistance which started on behalf of Josh has continued to help numbers of families and their children facing transplant through the JOSH BROOKS LIVING MEMORIAL TRANSPLANT ASSOCIATION.

June Brooks, director, spends full-time hours and energies on the phone and in person assisting families, promoting donor awareness, assisting hospital social workers with transplant families, and consulting with staffs at transplant centers. Plans are also in the works to establish a transplant family house near Duke Medical Center in Durham, N.C. The list goes on.

The public is encouraged to plan to participate in the events of the day. All proceeds go to continue the work of the association which provides basic assistance to families of children who like Josh find that transplant is the only hope.

Kiwanians Support

Arts in their Community

Pembroke Kiwanis Club President, Mr. William Oxendine [left], with the club members presented a check to The Odom Baptist Home for Children for 10 Season Tickets to the Performing Arts Center at Pembroke State University on Tuesday night [Sept. 25] prior to their scheduled meeting. Accepting the check for the tickets was Ms. Candace Gardner who stated, "The children will deeply appreciate this very generous gift which will help to enrich their lives." Also attending the meeting was Enoch Morris, director of the Performing Arts Center who expressed his appreciation to the club for their continued civic concern and for their support of the arts in the community.

Contributions for the purchase of tickets for the Odom Home were also made by Dr. Charles Casber and the Livingston Chiropractic Clinic. Anyone wishing to sponsor a group and purchase tickets for THE SEASON may call the Performing Arts Center at 521-8778.

LREMC Annual Meeting Oct. 16 at Pembroke

The Pembroke State University English Jones Health and Physical Education Center has been chosen as the site for the 1984 Annual Meeting of Members for Lumbee River Electric Membership Corporation (LREMC) according to board president Gus Bullard. The meeting will be Tuesday, October 16, at 7 p.m. "The central location of the Pembroke State University campus makes it the best site for the meeting," said Bullard. "The accommodations plus the location are a real plus."

LREMC is the eighth largest electric cooperative in N.C. (There are 28.) LREMC serves about 11,200 consumers in Robeson County, about 4,400 consumers in Cumberland County, about 4,100 consumers in Hoke County, and about 1,600 consumers in Scotland County. With upward to 1,800 members attending the meeting each year for the last several years, facilities are very important.

"The PSU gym will seat approximately 3,000 persons," said Bullard. "And because we usually have over 1,000 voting members attend the meetings, the gym's adjacent hallways make excellent corridors for orderly walking traffic during the voting process."

LREMC is directed by a 12-person board of directors. Each year there are four seats up for election. The board is the decision and policy making body of the company.

Seats up for re-election this year are Martin Clark (district 9, which includes all of Scotland County); Harold Dean Brewer (district 7, which includes all of Hoke County west of N.C. 211); Bradford Oxendine (district 3, which includes the townships of Black Swamp, Smyrna, Britts, Wishart, Raft Swamp, and Lumberton); and Elias Rogers (at-large).

Three members have filed to run for the LREMC board of directors. Grady Locklear of Pembroke and Ward Clark of Maxton have both filed to run for the at-large seat. Carl Pulley has filed to run from district 3.

There are nine directors elected from nine geographic districts established by townships. There are also three directors elected at-large. Except for the at-large seats, the directors must reside in the district represented. All co-op members vote on all directors at the annual meeting.

PEOPLE AND PLACES AND THINGS

DENNIS BANKS SURRENDERS TO SOUTH DAKOTA AUTHORITIES

Dennis Banks, a Chippewa Indian from the Leech Lake Reservation in Minnesota, surrendered to South Dakota authorities to face sentencing on a 1975 rioting and assault conviction. Banks was one of the leaders of the American Indian Movement who received publicity during the 1973 occupation of Wounded Knee, South Dakota, on the Pine Ridge Reservation. During the 71-day takeover, two Indians were killed, several persons wounded, and the village was almost destroyed. Banks' conviction stemmed from an earlier incident at the Custer County Courthouse. Banks faces a maximum sentence of 15 years. Banks found sanctuary in California for eight years when former Governor, Jerry Brown, refused South Dakota's extradition requests. In January 1983, he fled to the Onondaga Reservation in upper New York.

LUMBEE FREE BOOK DISTRIBUTION CENTER MOVES

The Free Book Distribution Center of Lumbee Regional Development Association recently moved to facilities at the Pembroke Community Workshop. The Center will be open from 1-4 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

The local Book Distribution Center receives materials from publishers participating in the National Indian Free Book Distribution Program.

The Program provides reading materials directly to American Indian people who are ill, needy, and at children. According to Mr. Winfree Lowry, Coordinator of the LRDA Book Distribution Center, thousands of books have been given away through the center.

Area citizens who meet the above criteria are urged to visit the center at the Pembroke Community Workshop to obtain books and other reading materials. The materials cannot be resold or transferred in exchange for money, other property, or services. There is a limit of two books per person per visit.

According to Mr. Lowry, the books are not old and are up-to-date. He noted that there are beautiful picture calendars in stock now.

TUSCARORA INDIAN POW WOW AND BLUEGRASS FESTIVAL

The Tuscarora Indian Tribe will have a Pow Wow and Bluegrass Festival on Oct. 5 and 6. There will be an admission fee of $5 on Friday; $7 on Saturday and $10 for both days. Children under 12 will be admitted free. Special guest will be Bass Mountain Boys from Burlington, Josh Graves, King of the Dobro, from Nashville, Tenn., Jumbo McLendon from Miami, Fla.

The location is one and one-half miles northwest of Pembroke, NC off of Highway 72.

A long shot shows off the new facility. The Jaycees remind the public that the modern facility is available for rent at modest rates when the

Jaycees or Jaycettes are not using the building. [Bill Hunt and Bruce Barton Photos]

The "Indian head" on the Jaycees logo reminds everyone that Pembroke is unique in that it is a predominately Indian chapter.
