ROBESON TECHNICAL COLLEGE

By Bob Deahm

RTC Graduates Finding Jobs

Three of four students who graduated or completed technical or vocational studies at North Carolina community college system institutions during 1982-83 are employed in their fields of study, according to figures recently released by the Department of Community Colleges.

Overall, the 5101 students surveyed reported that they were generally satisfied with services offered by the system, said Dr. Leigh H. Hammond, vice president of research and planning with the state system.

"Only 1.1 percent of the students rated their occupational training as below average," he said.

At Robeson Technical College, school officials reported that more than 95 percent of the 1985 graduates responding to surveys by mail or telephone were employed.

Since 1981, 90 percent of RTC's graduates completing technical or vocational studies have found jobs, according to Don Smith, director of Placement Services.

"We've had good success the last four years," Smith said. "We stay in contact with business and industry in the county and we have a good working relationship with the employment security office."

Only 4.7 percent of the 1985 graduates surveyed said they were not employed.

Smith, who attends a monthly meeting of the personnel managers from area business and industry, said his office keeps abreast of jobs available in the county and then relays that information to the students. Instructors and advisors in each of RTC's 21 programs are also involved in the placement process.

"Sometimes, they'll call us and give us the first chance at placing our graduates," Smith said. "We also refer our students to the Employment Security Commission."

Students fill out placement packages before graduating and then the information is fed into a computer for easy access. RTC also holds job fairs annually in which management from area industry and businesses are invited to the campus for an opportunity to meet face-to-face students preparing to graduate.

"It is the priority of the placement office to assist students in anyway we can in finding employment," Smith said.

State Foundation Proposed

Robert W. Scott, president of the Department of Community Colleges, asked the State Board during its monthly meeting Jan. 9 to consider the development of a N.C. Community College Foundation to provide support for activities and programs not funded through traditional resources.

Scott said the proposed foundation would be separately incorporated as a non-profit foundation with its own board of directors and bylaws and would not be directly connected to the Department.

"I want to emphasize that this proposed foundation is of a statewide nature and will in no way interfere or compete with the separate foundations that many of our institutions have already developed," Scott said.

RTC established a foundation program early last year. The board is expected to act on Scott's proposal at a later meeting.

Community College Month Proclaimed

North Carolina Governor James Martin and President Ronald Reagan have proclaimed February as Community College Month.

Proclaims Martin, "I... call upon all citizens and business leaders to visit their local community college, technical college and technical institute to acquaint themselves with the many opportunities for training which exist, and also to provide continued community support for the institutions."

Proclaims Reagan, "By providing educational opportunities at costs and locations accessible to all who are qualified, community, technical, and junior colleges have greatly enhanced the opportunity for every ambitious student, young or old, to enter a postsecondary school program. As community-based institutions, these schools provide varied programs and offer specialized training for more than one thousand occupations."

THE COACH'S CORNER

Ken Johnson

STAYING FIT- IMPOSED OR NOT IMPOSED?

Morality is the knowing the difference between right and wrong. Mores comes from the Greek work mor-es meaning custom, habit or what is the consensus of what is right conduct. The Chinese seem to have better fitness with all of their bicycling than we as Americans do. Our schools have cut down physical education from four units to one unit. In my day we went to phys. ed. all four years of junior and senior high school. We always opened class with mass calisthenics then played the sport that happened to be in season. In the fall it was touch football and soccer. In the winter it was basketball and plenty of it. We loved the coach when he threw out the basketball and let us play the whole period. What is the matter today? Why all the emphasis on winning and athletics for the "privileged few only?" The media is to blame for most of it. The sports pages only care for the winners. If golfers don't make the cut they get no publicity or they want to know what swearing she or he did when they goofed a shot. Winning is being imposed on players, schools and coaches. Schools think they are failures when they lose. Proposition 48 is an imposition. It won't let kids play unless they have a "C" average. What is he going to do, no phys. ed., no intramurals, no band, no nothing? This is truly a slave imposition. The slaves weren't allowed to do or have anything they enjoyed. Their freedom was curtailed by not allowing them to play, to work out their own destiny. It is happening today with the saying that we don't have the money for football, swimming or even p.e. because the coach is too busy with his scouting and recruiting to even take a gym class and if he "don't" win we'll get his "butt" out of here. The NCAA has embarrassed for "nickle and dime" violations, they won't even let a kid have a meal at the college's expense. What causes all of this unfitness for the large part of our schools students? Apathy, leaders don't care, all they want to do is win and that won't wash.
