I'M NOW A SOUTH ROBESON MUSTANG BOOSTER

It was a bit of a surprise, but life's full of surprises. After a successful stint at West Robeson, I've been reassigned this school year to teach at South Robeson High School. I expect to have a successful year at South Robeson where it looks like I'll be teaching Civics and geography. Yep! Count me as a South Robeson Mustang booster. I'm looking forward to a new experience at South Robeson. Go, Mustang! Go!

A Letter From Elder Calvin & Sister Ruth Heiner

To the Editor,
We appreciated the powerful article (July 30) by Rev. Ted Brooks in "According to God's Word."
As he traced the Christians through Renaissance and Reformation periods and the early settlers who came to this land of America and found it already occupied, and then how some of them treated these people so poorly and sent the wealth back to the old country to help pay for their transgressions.
Some additional thoughts might give new insight in this vein. The history of the people already occupying this land can be found in their scriptures which trace three groups of migrants from ancient Israel as they crossed the waters. The first came about 2200 B.C., and the next two arrived around 600 years before Christ. These precious scriptures tell of their travels, their rulers, growth, contentions, religious practices and beliefs, and their eventual decline and destruction through internal wars. They are recorded in The Book of Mormon which was named after one of their great prophets.
Another sad day in Christian American history is that some who came in the name of religion were those who burned innocent victims as witches.
The article grouped the ministers of today in three categories, with the third one having a shepherd to lead and protect his herd noting that they were in short supply.
One of the fastest-growing religions in the world today has many shepherds (Bishops) who not only guard their flock, but are unsalaried. The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, the same as Christ's ancient church, has no paid ministry.
The LDS Church (Mormon) began in New York in 1830 and is now in 98 countries and 24 territories and possessions with a membership of 6.2 million.

This Christian faith is headquartered in Salt Lake City but is no longer thought of as just a Utah church. 82,000 missionaries encircle the globe paying their own expenses.
Latter Day Saints believe that the original Church of Christ has been restored with all its authority. They are Christians not in the Protestant or Catholic tradition, but RESTORED. They believe in modern revelation with a prophet at the head of the church and 12 apostles as did the ancient church. They believe in God the Eternal Father, in His Son Jesus Christ, and in the Holy Ghost and that man will be punished for his own sins and not Adam's transgression.
Championing old-fashioned religious values they emphasize chastity, and are strongly family oriented, opposing abortion, pornography, gambling, smoking, alcohol and other stimulants including tea and coffee.
They believe and cherish the Bible, but also have other important scripture which reveal the mind and will of a Father in Heaven who loves us all for we are brothers and sisters in His sight. They believe that every soul is precious and important to God, and that he granted us free agency so that we would return to his holy presence because we loved him, and wanted to be with him and like him.
Latter-Day Saints believe that America is a chosen land where people could come and find the freedoms from tyrannical governments which would give rise to the restoration of the true ancient church where people can work out freewill choices under shepherds authorized by authority and not preaching for itching ears.
Sincerely,
Elder Calvin G. & Sister Ruth Heiner

Fallacies...And Facts

Like the ancient Chinese, today's men feel more youthful when they restore lost color to graying hair... gradually and naturally.

No use splitting hairs over it: Fact is, if you're average, you lose some 70 to 100 hairs a day. Most of us have plenty left, however. The human scalp contains an average of about 100,000 hairs. At any rate, the ancient Egyptians didn't worry about hair loss—the men chose to be bald, shaving their hair and wearing black-dyed wigs. Here are some other "hairy" facts you might want to mull over:
• Back in the days of ancient Rome, men dyed and bleached their hair. They frizzed it, too—history's first "perms"?

• At the first sign of gray, the elders of ancient China dyed their hair black. Today, many people who don't want to look older than they are or feel use a product called Grecian Formula 16. It works with the hair's natural chemistry to produce a similar acting pigment where the melanin—the color-causing substance—used to be. It gradually "reverses" the graying process and brings back natural-looking color. It's as easy to use as a tonic, in two convenient forms—liquid with conditioner; and creme, with groomer.

• In 500 B.C., English "punk" styles were in when the Normans and the Saxons dyed their hair blue, green and orange. Hair was a tool for changing social status, with different styles and colors indicating class levels.
