PEMBROKE KIWANIS NEWS

Program Chairman Garth Locklear presented the new Robeson County District Attorney, Mr. Richard Townsend. He will be serving the 16th Judicial District. Mr. Townsend is a graduate of East Carolina University and the Wake Forest University Law School with the degree of Doctor of Jurisprudence. "It is an honor to be here and an honor to sever you as your District Attorney," he said. "It is most important what we do at the Court House and it is not a closed court. We have a real technical field that gets pretty narrow at times, but our new judges, Dexter Brooks and Gary Locklear, plus others will certainly be involved in solving many judicial problems. I get my basic authority from the pledge I took on entering the office. The oath says I am to support the Constitution of the United States, maintain the State of North Carolina's Constitution and fairly and impartially administer the criminal laws. Enforce the laws as they are, seek justice not merely to convict but to protect the rights of individuals and the rights of society. To represent the state's interests you are not required to be neutral but exercise discretion as the DA's power stems from what is fair and just. And to coordinate the criminal justice activity and we now have a special coordinator to help in this task.

New member Arlie Jacobs was voted into the club, brought in by Arnold Locklear. He is a member of the law firm of Locklear, Sutton and Jacobs.

CHEMICAL FIRM BREAKS NEW GROUND IN CHESTERFIELD, VA

Continental operates 27 pieces of equipment on the road with sales in 46 states and 7 foreign countries. Plant assets are valued over $6.5 million. The 47th largest chemical distributor in the country plans to be operating in Chesterfield, VA by the end of March, said Dennis Lowery, president of Continental Industrial Chemicals, Inc.

The company broke ground recently at its site at 16020 Continental Blvd.

"We will be very disappointed if we are not operating by mid-March," said Percy Hubbard, who will manage the Chesterfield operation.

The plant will include a 10,000-square-foot warehouse and 1,250 feet of office space at the site initially, Hubbard said. Lowery added that plans are on the drawing board for two more buildings at the site.

Continental Industrial Chemicals Inc. was rated in the top 50 out of 4,000 chemical distributors nationwide in a recent issue of the Consumer Price Index Detailed Report, a monthly publication of the U.S. Department of Labor, said Hubbard.

Continental distributes raw chemicals to about 1,100 customers, mainly companies such as E.I. DuPont de Nemours and Co. Inc., Union Carbide and Exxon, Lowery explained. Dupont is the firm's biggest buyer, a fact which helped company officials decide to choose the Chesterfield site, he added.

Jones, Vice President of Continental. Continental functions with two other vice presidents, Sam Pennell, Vice President of Sales and Gene [Bill] Lowery, Vice President of Plant Expansions. The Charlotte plant's general manager, Jerry Deese, is represented over all plant productions.

"We are a high-quality distributor of chemicals," Lowery said, adding that the company is also involved with material management and analyses.

Other reasons for choosing Chesterfield, Lowery added, include the strong labor force in the area and the county's close proximity to Interstate 95.

While 10 to 15 employees are expected to initially staff the facility, Lowery said he expects Continental will eventually employ 50 to 60, virtually all of whom will be hired locally.

Lowery said his company values good employees, and believes such individuals are in Chesterfield. "We will pay well if we can afford it," he said.

The cost of the move, including purchasing the land, building, equipment, and inventory, was just over $2 million, Lowery said, adding that the company paid for it.

Continental's home is in Charlotte, NC, where two facilities are located. In 1987, the company's sales totalled $35 million. The company has been in operation since 1975.

Ken Elliot, vice president of Continental, explained much of what the company distributes are solvents known as glycols, which for example, are an ingredient in anti-freeze.

Hatcher Fails To Appear; Thursday Deadline Is Set

LUMBERTON — Indian activist Eddie Hatcher failed to appear for arraignment Tuesday in Robeson County Superior Court and a judge gave him until Thursday to surrender.

But Hatcher told The Fayetteville Times in a telephone interview on Tuesday that he doesn't plan to return to Robeson County.

"I am not going back to Robeson County," Hatcher said. "I have appeared before a tribal judge here (at the Fort Hall Indian Reservation in Idaho) and they will have to go through the tribal court now to get me back."

Hatcher is facing 14 counts of second-degree kidnapping in the 10-hour takeover of The Robesonian newspaper last February.

Hatcher's court-appointed attorney, Freda Bowen, told the court she had talked to one of Hatcher's other attorneys, Barry Nakell of Chapel Hill, who said Hatcher was still seeking refuge on the Fort Hall reservation in Idaho and would not be in Lumberton for his arraignment.

Judge Anthony Brannon said Hatcher would forfeit the $25,000 bond posted by the National Council of Churches of New York if he failed to appear by Thursday.

Hatcher and Timothy Jacobs, both Tuscarora Indians from Pembroke, were indicted by a Robeson County grand jury in December on 14 counts each of second-degree kidnapping. The state charges were filed after the two were acquitted Oct. 14 on federal hostage-taking and firearms charges.

Jacobs left Robeson County shortly after the indictments were issued. He fled to the Onondaga Indian reservation in New York.
