

Red Springs Native Honored By Dept. of Defense

A native of Red Springs, Dinah Locklear, daughter of the deceased Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Locklear, recently received the Outstanding Performer of the Quarter Award in her agency. This distinguished award is given to only four out of some 400 employees per year. She was honored for handling complex negotiations on the movement of 1 billion pounds of freight for the Department of Defense's Military Traffic Management Command (MTMC) in Washington, D.C.

Maj. Gen. John R. Piatak, MTMC Commander, presented the award in a formal ceremony in which he commended Locklear for her drive and dedication. Piatak said, "Locklear has conducted rate negotiations in the area of Guaranteed Traffic which have resulted in cost avoidances in excess of 12 million dollars."

After graduating from Pembroke State University, Locklear was selected to be an intern at Fort Bragg's Transportation Division. She completed the two year program and began working for WTMC, where she has been a Traffic Management Specialist for four years. She now lives in Dale City, Va., with her two children Tara and Siagan.

MTMC is a worldwide command which serves the Department of Defense by managing transportation of cargo and material for strategic deployment contingencies and for the shipping of personal property of all DoD civilians and military personnel.

Registration in Progress at Magnolia School

Noah Woods, Principal of Magnolia School, announces that any students needing to register for classes or for school to come beginning on August 13 through August 24, 1990. Registration will be held in Mrs. Deana Warrix's office located in the Guidance Department. To register for school a student will need to bring a Birth Certificate, Social Security Number, and Immunization Record.

Robeson Civic Chorale to Open Season Sept. 10

The Robeson Civic Chorale will open its 1990-91 music season Monday, September 10, 1990 at 7:30 p.m. scheduled choir registration and its first practice session at Robeson Community College Auditorium. Membership in the Chorale is open to all singers in the Robeson County area. A most cordial invitation is extended to all interested persons to become a member of the Chorale and to participate in its nineteenth year of music programming.

The Chorale is a scheduled activity within the continuing education program at Robeson Community College. Practices are scheduled for each Monday night at 7:30 p.m. at Robeson Community College Auditorium. The chorus is under the leadership of Mr. David Hinds, Director, and Mrs. Zollene Reissner, accompanist. Scheduled music presentations for the year will include seasonal concerts at Christmas and Easter, and a spring pops concert.

Persons wishing additional information about the Robeson Civic Chorale and its program are invited to call the continuing education curriculum of Robeson Community College or 739-5203.

PEMBROKE KIWANIS REPORT

Miss Cathy Lowery, 4-H County Agent, was the principal speaker at the weekly meeting held at the Town and Country Restaurant. She was introduced by program chairman, Dexter Brooks. Miss Lowery is a graduate of PSU and the Penn State Graduate School and has taught public school.

"4-H is more than agriculture endeavors. It is very diversified with 28 clubs in Robeson County engaged in all kinds of constructive activities. 4-H is for kids, making new friends, learning new things and visiting new places. And for families, helping youths grow skills and growing together. The 4-H motto is To Make the Best Better. And this is brought about through the 4-H calendar which included for 1989 the Public Speaking Contest, Volunteers Leadership Conference, the District Teen Retreat, Sewing Classes, the Poultry Chain, Fashion and Talent Show, the Garden Contest, Specialty Camps, and many other programs." Miss Lowery used picture colored slides, gave door prizes and made us all feel like real 4-H'ers thus really "Making the Best Better" as the 4-H Motto goes.

President Ron Sutton announced the Carolina District Convention will be held in Winston Salem on Friday, August 24-25.

Kiwanis Night will be Thursday, August 23. The performance is at 8:30 p.m. at the Cultural Center.

On Monday, August 20 at 4 p.m. at the Mary Livermore Library will be the Dedication Ceremony of the Dr. Hersch and Walter Musgrove Dedication Plaques. All are invited to attend.

Presiding-Ron Sutton; Invocation--Ed Teets; Song Leader-Ray Lowry; Program-Dexter Brooks; Reporter-Ken Johnson.

Local Students Attend Math & Science Camp At Clarkson University

Brian Brewington, Jeremy Brewington, Sue Clark, Erin Locklear, LaRonda Locklear, William Lowry, Margaret Maynor, and Roberta Oxendine, all Lumbee Indians from Pembroke, recently completed a three-week math and science camp sponsored by American Indian Science and Engineering Society (AISES) at Clarkson University of Potsdam, New York.

In its second year at Clarkson University, the AISAES Math and Science Camp has given young Native American students a chance to learn more about the world in which they live. While at Clarkson, the students were given the chance to use state-of-the-art scientific equipment in University laboratories, build their own robots, and consider a career in science or engineering. In addition to attending classes, the AISES students visited the museums in Ottawa, Ontario, the capital of Canada, and went on a camping trip in the Adirondack mountains.

Clarkson is an independent, coeducational university located in northern New York, in the foothills of the Adirondack Mountains. The University has 3,500 undergraduate and graduate students enrolled in programs in its Schools of Engineering, Management and Science as well as its Industrial Distribution Program and its Faculty of Liberal Studies.

LaRonda Locklear, a Lumbee from Pembroke [right] Sue Clark, a Lumbee from Pembroke, acquires hands on experience with scientific equipment as she learns about microscopic organisms in a Clarkson University laboratory. Locklear, along with 29 other laboratory.

American Indians from Wisconsin, New York and North Carolina, participated in a three-week math and science camp sponsored by the American Indian Science and Engineering Society (AISES) held during July at the northern New York school.

Brian Brewington [right] a Lumbee from Pembroke, works with Seneca Jacobs [left] a Lumbee from Red Springs, and classroom instructor Paul Rader [center] as he learns about microscopic organisms in a Clarkson University laboratory.

Erin Locklear [left] a Lumbee from Pembroke, works with Joanna McDonald, a St. Regis Mohawk from Hogenburg, New York, as they learn about starches and sugars in a Clarkson University laboratory.

Roberta Oxendine, a Lumbee from Pembroke, acquires hands on experience with scientific equipment as she learns about microscopic organisms in a Clarkson University laboratory.

Jeremy Brewington, a Lumbee from Pembroke, acquires hands on experience with scientific equipment as he learns about microscopic organisms in a Clarkson University laboratory.

Margaret Maynor [left] a Lumbee from Pembroke, works with Shannyn Smith [center], a Shinnecock from Southampton, New York and Sandra Smith [right], an Eastern Band Cherokee from Cherokee, North Carolina, as they learn about starches and sugars in a Clarkson University laboratory.

William Lowry, a Lumbee from Pembroke, acquires hands on experience with scientific equipment as he learns about microscopic organisms in a Clarkson University laboratory.