

Q. How does letting your car idle for over a minute compare to re-starting your engine?

A. It wastes gas, report experts at Texaco, Inc., which recently launched a multi-million dollar public information campaign designed to encourage consumers to save energy in their cars and homes under the theme: "Let's Put Our Energy Into Saving It."

Q. How many gallons of gasoline could be saved per day if just one more out of every ten commuters carpooled? What would be the annual commuter savings?

A. Some 7.5 million gallons of gasoline would be saved each day at an annual commuter savings average of $41.00.

I always advise short sermons, especially on a hot Sunday. If a minister can't strike fire in boring 40 minutes, he has either got a poor timetable, or else he is boring in the wrong place.

The Coach's Corner by Ken Johnson

THE DAYTONA 500

Probably the best safety lesson ever taught. Because over a hundred million saw it at home as the expert drivers were able to control to a great extent their spin outs and no one was killed and lady luck and the Good Lord smiled on them. It was amazing how those tires tore up from their skids. Their new safety rules on entering the pits no doubt cut down on accidents. Their sportsmanship attitudes in safe driving was the most impressive.

Daytona 500. And Ernie Irvin coasted in under the yellow flag.

The real safety lesson-speed can kill, is truly brought home to all of us as we watched our t.v. screens. The twisted, smashed up cars completely demolished showed us how the learning law of effect leaves us with the ever mindful image of how speed can result in tragedy. Lady luck was sure on Swerlin Irvin's side to the tune of $233,000. And the challenge goes on to the Richmond 400 this weekend. Hope the Murphy Law won't be to severe on those brave drivers as speed control gets out of hand. A real example of speed makes things go wrong. We all need to remember the learning law of effect. The effect of speed.

However, at the end it took just a little nudge to put Allison's Ford into a spin at 185 miles an hour. The down force air got off me, said Earnhardt. And his car got loose thus causing the end of his 13th try of winning the
