3 NASA scholars are selected at Pembroke State

These three freshmen have been selected as NASA scholars at Pembroke State University. Seated is Janet Harris of Selma. Standing behind her are Jay Locklear of Fayetteville and Leslie Lowry of Pembroke.

Three PSU students have been selected to participate over three years in a $396,000 scholarship program in which the National Aeronautic and Space Administration's (NASA) Minority University Research and Educational Programs will be funding 75 percent of the total budget.

The remainder of the budget will be funded by the participating schools, which will be not only Pembroke State but also Fayetteville State University.

The three Pembroke State students are Janet Harris of Selma, Jay Locklear of Fayetteville, and Leslie Lowry of Pembroke. All are freshmen. Harris is majoring in bio-medicine, Locklear in computer science, and Lowry in chemistry.

The objectives of the project include increasing the pool of qualified minority scientists and engineers. Writing the proposal was Dr. Leo Edwards, Jr., vice chancellor for academic affairs at FSU who will serve as project director. Co-planner is Dr. Pete Wish, professor in the PSU Physical Science Department. This is a collaborative project between Pembroke State and FSU.

A total of six students (three from each institution) have been selected, each receiving a full scholarship, 75 percent of which is paid by NASA and the balance paid by the participating schools.

Each NASA scholar will be placed under the guidance of a mentor/research faculty advisor. Each will also participate in a research project, give a seminar each year, and visit scientific conferences and research laboratories for which they will be provided funding.

NASA scholars will also have the opportunity to have summer research experience in both governmental and industrial research facilities.

Faculty mentors for the PSU NASA scholars are Dr. Leonard Holmes for Janet Harris, Dr. Jose D'Arruda for Jay Locklear, and Dr. Paul Flowers for Leslie Lowry.

Harris is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Horace Harris of Selma. A graduate of Smithfield-Selma Senior High, she is a Chancellor's Scholar and the recipient of an Alumni Admissions Scholarship. She plans to go to medical school. Her honors in high school included being a member of the National Honor Society and Beta Club.

Locklear is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David G. Locklear of Fayetteville. A graduate of Edgewood High School, he wants to be a computer programmer. He was salutatorian of his graduating class, Senior Class president, and yearbook editor.

Lowry is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Lowry, Jr. of Pembroke. A graduate of Purnell Sweet High School, she wants to go to graduate school after graduating from college. At PSU, she is a Chancellor's Scholar and also has won an admissions scholarship. In high school, she was president of the Beta Club, secretary of the National Honor Society, a U.S. Congressional House Page, and winner of a John L. Carter Memorial Scholarship.

Renee Steele of Clarkton, a junior at Pembroke State University majoring in political science with plans to attend law school, won the "Miss Pembroke State University" Scholarship Pageant Thursday.

And to add to her honors, she became one of the few coeds in the history of the event to win "Miss Congeniality" as well as "Miss PSU."

She said after she was awarded the trophy for "Miss Congeniality," she really didn't expect to win "Miss PSU." "I was shocked, but it felt great," said the 20-year-

RENEE STEELE of Clarkton... Winner of the "Miss Pembroke State University" Scholarship Pageant.

Judge Brooks elected to Law Alumni Association Board of Directors

Chapel Hill—Nineteen alumni of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill School of Law have been elected to the board of directors of the 6,800-member Law Alumni Association.

The board represents N.C. judicial districts in the state by providing support for activities that further the mission of the School of Law, including alumni affairs, fund-raising, and public and student relations. The board also governs the school's finances.

New officers, who will serve one-term, are: Louis P. Hornthal Jr., a 1963 alumnus from Elizabeth City representing the First Judicial District, president; O. Richard Wright Jr., a 1971 alumnus from Tabor City, representing the 18th Judicial District, first vice president; and John S. Stevens, a 1961 alumnus from Asheville, representing the 28th Judicial District, second vice president.

New board members who will serve three year terms include the Honorable Dexter Brooks, a 1978 alumnus from Pembroke, 16th Judicial District, who was re-elected as a board member.

PSU's Baptist Student Union to observe golden anniversary

This is the front of the Baptist Student Union at Pembroke State University which was constructed with the help of donated labor by over 300 Baptist laymen across North Carolina. The building has been nicknamed affectionately as "The House." The PSU Baptist Student Union will celebrate there its Golden Anniversary Feb. 8 and is inviting all who worked on the building back for the festivities.

PSU's Baptist Student Union will observe its Golden Anniversary in celebration of 50 years of service Saturday, Feb. 8, the same date as PSU's homecoming.

Whereas PSU's homecoming activities will take place in the afternoon and evening, the Baptist Student Union celebration has scheduled its program to begin at 11 a.m., followed by lunch at noon.

Among those to be invited are the volunteers who came from all over the state, donating their labor to build PSU's Baptist Student Union building, nicknamed "The House."

The program will include special music, a slide presentation, special guests, alumni recognition, etc.

Providing the lunch will be the Brotherhood of First Baptist Church in Fairmont under the leadership of Paul Thompson.

Chairing the committee planning the Golden Anniversary celebration is Ron Sanders, who has been Pembroke State's Baptist Campus minister since 1987.

Invited back will be Winston Hardman, who served as PSU's Baptist campus minister from 1978-84 and led in the building of "The House." Hardman, 61, has been Baptist campus minister at Western Carolina University for the last seven years.

Winning titles is nothing new for Renee, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Steele of Clarkton. She was also PSU's homecoming queen in 1990 as well as being homecoming queen of Clarkton High School.

First runnerup in the pageant was Tabitha Collins, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Travis Collins of Maxton. Second runnerup was Celeste Oxendine, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merline Oxendine of Rowland.

Renee Steele recited a monologue from Maya Angelou's poem, "Phenomenal Woman," as her talent. She was

"I am looking forward to returning to Pembroke," said Hardman. "The best time of my life was there. Pembroke was a special place for me—the students, faculty, staff and the people in the area. Great people." Hardman says he works a great deal now with the Native American in Cherokee, located about 25 minutes from WCU.

Hardman said one of the first volunteer groups to work on "The House" was "put together by Cecil Frady, then the director of missions at Franklin, NC, and now pastor of Tuckasee, NC Baptist Church. His men had flaps on their arms because of the cold weather." Hardman also spoke highly of the "devoted" church groups who provided meals for the volunteer workers. The building was dedicated November 14, 1981.

Among those planning the Golden Anniversary celebration of the PSU Baptist Student Union are Henry Meares, who worked on the building and is helping to contact former volunteer laborers; Danford Groves, who along with Meares and others is planning the program; Maxine Locklear, Mary Thomas and Groves, who are gathering a list of names to send invitations; and Gene Wesson who is in charge of publicity.

As "Miss PSU," Renee received not only a crown, trophy and bouquet of roses, but also a $700 scholarship and an opportunity to compete in the "Miss North Carolina" pageant next June. For that pageant, she will receive an additional $1,500 clothing allowance.

In the "Miss PSU" scholarship pageant, which is presented each year by the PSU Student Government Association; Renee was sponsored by Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, of which she is a member.
