Northern Virginia, but has spent the past sixteen years here in North Carolina and other parts of the SOuth. He has performed in many other states and countries abroad.

The annual Red Springs Fair is supported by grants from the Grass roots Arts Program of the North Carolina Arts Council, a state agency. Admission is free. For more information call 919-843-3559.

Albuquerque, NM-After 15 years of almost constant budget cuts, the Senate Select Committee on Indian Affairs (SSCIA) has announced that it is supporting over $1 billion more for Indian programs for FY 93.

The Senate committee's proposal would total $5.758 billion for Indian program. This contrasts to $4.708 billion, which is the proposal from the White House.

Saying Indian programs had suffered "the deepest cuts in federal spending," the Committee asked the Senate Budget Committee under Jim Sasser (D-TN) to uphold "its treaty responsibility to Indian tribes.

Sen. Daniel K. Inouye is Chair of the Committee, and Sen. John McCain is Co-Chair. McCain, from Arizona, has 23 Indian tribes in his state, while Inouye, from Hawaii, has none.

Dr. Dean Chavers, Founding President of the Coalition for Indian Education in Albuquerque, praised the SSCIA for its support of Indian programs. "We are confident that the new Committee, with its 16 members, will oppose the cuts we have been having for so long," he said. "This Committee is now one of the strongest and most influential in the Senate, and its views are heard by many."

"Indian committees in both Houses of Congress are very strong today," he added. "Ten years ago they were very weak. We are very happy to see them returned to a position of strength."

For FY 91, he pointed out, the SSCIA backed a $1 billion increase in Indian programs. This program passed, brining Indian programs from $2.8 to $3.8 in budget authority. New programs and budget add-ons to existing programs brought the total this year to $4.7. The Coalition, he added further, is seeking a total federal budget for FY 96 of $9.9 billion.

This is the figure they would have to have for parity with 1975 budgets, Dr. Chavers asserted.

Among the changes proposed by the SSCIA are taking JOM out of the Indian Priority System, and funding it at $24.5 million. JOM would rise to $44.3 million in FY 97. There is $2 million for tribal departments of education, which will fund 20 such departments. The ISEF is to be funded at $321 million, enough for increases in teacher salaries and bilingual education. Haskell and SIPI would be fully funded, and would not have to charge tuition. Haskell also would get $3 million for a new dorm. School construction would be funded at $90 million, and IHS would be funded at $2.326 billion, $388 million over the White House request. Imapct Aid would be funded at $610 million, and Indian Housing would get $235 million, up from zero for the White House request.

Purnell Swett student wins national award

Ursulla Harriette Kerns, who attends Purnell Swett High-School, was nominated to the United States Achievement Academy Award winner in Foreign Language. She was nominated by Dolores C. Jones, Spanish (foreign langauge) teacher at the school. Kerns will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, published nationally.

"Becognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in American history. Trial Lawyers endorse Ron Sutton for N.C. House Lumberton - Ron Sutton received the endorsement of the political action committee of the North Carolina Academy of Trial Lawyers for Representative in the 85th N.C. House District election which includes portions of Robeson and Hoke Counties.

The announcement was made April 13, 1992 by Lumberton attorney H. Mitchell Baker, III, who is a member of the North Carolina Academy of Trial Lawyers.

Fayetteville Public Defender Mary Ann Tally said, "NCATL-PAC does not require any candidate to pass my litmus test or to support or oppose any given set of issues as a prerequisite for endorsement or support. The Academy and the Academy's Political Action Committee do support the unfettered access of the people to the court system as well as jury trials for the resolutions of disputes. The Academy and the Academy's PAC also support the rights guaranteed to those accused of a crime by the United States and North Carolina Constitutions." Tally added, "all endorsements are based on candidates' records and their platforms. Our primary concern is the election of someone with a history of supporting the rights of the working men and women that trial lawyers represent and preserving access to a fair jury system in which everyone has the same chance to achieve justice."

The Academy of Trial Lawyers' PAC was formed in 1976 and is managed by a Board of Trustees.
