Earlie B. Maynor, Former Pembroke Mayor, Dies at 81

Earlie B. Maynor, the former mayor of Pembroke and the first executive director of the North Carolina Commission of Indian Affairs, died Saturday of natural causes. He was 81 years old. Maynor resided on West 5th Street in Pembroke. HE was a 1947 graduate of Pembroke State College for Indians. HE was a teacher for returning World War II veterans for three years, then spent 17 years teaching in the North Carolina Public Schools. He became executive director of the North Carolina Commission of Indian Affairs in 1971, and served through 1975. Maynor was Mayor of Pembroke from 1965 until 1973. HE was a U.S. Army medic during World War II. For over 40 years, Maynor taught Sunday School at Mount Olive Pentecostal Holiness Church, where he had a perfect attendance record for 31 years.

Maynor received the Mary Jane Kristler Award from the North Carolina Association for Community Education as an outstanding school volunteer and the Senior Citizen Volunteer Award from Gov. Jim Hunt.

The funeral was held at 3 p.m. Tuesday in Mount Olive Pentecostal Holiness Church. Rev. Timothy Creel officiated. Burial followed in Lumbee Memorial Gardens.

Maynor is survived by his wife, Mamie C. Maynor of the home; three sons, David Maynor of Pembroke, and Paul Maynor, and Thara Maynor, both of Raleigh, a daughter, Wanda Roberts of Hope Mills; a sister, Alvertie Jacobs of Pembroke; and two grandchildren.

Open House Scheduled For Hospice of Robeson

"The hospice caregiving team cares for the whole person -- mental, spiritual, emotional, and physical," said Miriam Edwards, director of Hospice of Robeson. "Our program is one that is primarily based in the home and treats the person, not the disease; focuses on the family, not the individual; and emphasizes the quality of life, not the duration."

Hospice of Robeson along with hospices across the country joins Congress and President Bill Clinton this November in celebrating "Hospice...when caring matters most," the theme for this year's National Hospice Month.

Established in 1986 by Southeastern Regional Medical Center, Hospice of Robeson is the only provider of hospice care in the county. During the past two years, Hospice has experienced a large increase in admissions, according to Edwards.

Much of this is due to the increased awareness in the community about the availability of hospice care locally and the range of services provided here. "Our hospice staff is available 24 hours each day, 7 days a week to do presentations for groups or individuals," Edwards added.

What matters most to terminally ill patients and their families? The answer most often given is the type of care they receive. According to a 1993 study conducted by Louis Harris and Associates, Inc., Americans prefer the type of in-home care most associated with hospice care by an overwhelming 79 percent-14 percent margin. According to a recent Gallup Poll, nine out of ten Americans say they would prefer to be cared for in the famil-arity and comfort of their own home or a family member's home if they were diagnosed with a terminal illness.

In observance of National Hospice Month, Hospice of Robeson has scheduled an open house on Monday, November 21 at 7:30 p.m. at 2002 N. Cedar St. In Lumberton. Hospice staffers welcome the public to visit the agency headquarters at that time and learn more about hospice care.

"At our open house we plan to have our volunteers speak as well as family members of former patients," said Anne Grain, coordinator of volunteer services. "We invite those attending to also stay for refreshments and meet our staff members."

For more information about Hospice services or to schedule a presentation for your group or club, call 738-1905.

Bobby Dean Locklear, Chairman of the Robeson County Commissioners, signed a proclamation declaring November as Hospice Month in Robeson County as Hospice Director Miriam Edwards looks on.

Lumbee Tribal Offices Open

The Chairman of the Lumbee-Cheraw Tribe Dr. Dalton Brooks announces the opening of the tribal offices. The office is located in Room 227 of the Old Main Building on the Pembroke State University campus. The office will be manned by volunteers, with assistance from the Lumbee Council of Elders. The phone number for the tribal offices is (910) 521-3112.

The Elders Council is also being organized at the tribal office. Interested persons are urged to call the above number. Anyone wishing to assist the tribe in a very satisfying way is urged to become a part of the Council of Elders. The Council of Elders is distinct and separate from the Tribal Council. The focus of the Elders Council is programs for children and the elderly.

For further information call Wild Turkey at the above number or at 521-3002.

Temporary office hours for the tribal office are Monday-Friday, 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. except Wednesday when the office will be opened from 9 a.m. until 12 noon.

Indian Heritage Month Festival Set

Everyone is invited to attend the 4th Annual NATIVE AMERICAN WILD GAME Festival to be held November 18-19, at the North Carolina Indian Cultural Center. Activities will start at 10:00 a.m. and continue until 7:00 p.m. Tribes from across the State will come to share Indian history and survival techniques. The festival will feature authentic American Indian arts & crafts, traditional foods and Gospel singing. Your invited to sample some of the Wild Game traditional foods that were an essential part of the Indian heritage.

For Indian people, Fall was historically the season for harvest and storing food for the winter. This included hunting and preparing wild game. Come and bring the entire family for food and entertainment Friday morning. Channel 13 will have "Breakfast with Fred" live at 6:00 a.m. prior to the festival starting at 10:00 a.m.

Admission is FREE on Friday for Senior Citizens, $1 for Children under 12, $2 for Adults. Free for Children five and under. For more info, contact Eric Bullifant, Site Administrator at (910) 521-2433.

Kidney Foundation Accepting Vehicles

Holiday season can be a drain on the pocketbook. This year give a gift that won't cost anything but will help several thousand people in North Carolina suffering from kidney disease. Donate your car, truck, or motorcycle to the National Kidney Foundation and help drive down the rate of kidney disease. You will be helping clean up the environment and may even qualify for a year-end tax deduction. To find out about this community service call the National Kidney Foundation at 1-800-35N-KFNC. And thanks for caring.

Scouts Have Good Deed in the Bag

A reminder that this Saturday morning, November 19th--the local Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts, and Explorers in Robeson County will be returning to your houses to collect the food bags they distributed last week.

Please have your bags (containing non-perishable food items) outside of your front door on Saturday morning by 9 a.m. The collected food will be taken to Robeson County Church and Community Center for distribution to the hungry in Robeson County.
