Prior to the area agent position, she was 4-H agent for ten years in Robeson County. The title of her dissertation was "Leadership Behaviors and Job Performance of County Extension Directors in the North Carolina Cooperative Extension Service." Cathy is married to Vincent L. Graham and is the daughter of Joseph Archie Lowery, Jr. and Sarah L. Lowery, both of Pembroke.

Local artist Plummer Locklear Jr. completes 23-year art project

Lumbee artist Plummer Locklear, Jr. will officially complete a 23 year art project July 4, 1996. "The Renaissance of Native American Art" includes Mr. Locklear's art compositions signed by the name Savage in the ALL DUES PAID collection and compositions signed by the name Shaman Yellow Owl in the collection, WHERE THE RIVER RUNS COLD.

What other Native American artist has created collections that contain enough art compositions to exhibit one per week from October 1, 1996 until December 31, 1999. The ALL DUES PAID collection will take you from The Manifestation of Adam and Eve through The Bowels of Hell into Amazing Grace and The Resurrection of Human Souls.

WHERE THE RIVER RUNS COLD is more traditional Native American Art but still non-traditional. Mr. Locklear feels that there are no traditional Native American Art Forms in this region of N.C. other than those imported or mimicked from traditional tribes. Shaman Yellow Owl (Shape Shifter) and in his art subjects. He works from the inside out, in a style or approach to art he has named the "Egoistic Perception" meaning from within.

Ego Art Studio will exhibit "The Renaissance of Native American Art" beginning Oct. 1 with art compositions from the ALL DUES PAID collection and 13 compositions from the collection, WHERE THE RIVER RUNS COLD. This exhibit will continue through March of 1997 and will also include writings from the book, movie manuscripts, videos and other art objects.

These art compositions are not for sale and never will be, but limited edition copies may be sold at a later date.

Dr. Sam Wynn was selected as the first Native American District Superintendent in the United Methodist Church Conference of the Southeastern Jurisdiction.

Dr. Wynn's wife, Mrs. Rosemary Wynn, left, stands beside him at the unveiling of his portrait by artist Delora Cummings. (See Story page 2 in this issue.)

Pembroke Rescue Squad Presents Pro Wrestling

Red Thunder

American Championship Wrestling comes to Pembroke Middle School on Saturday, July 6, with an 8 p.m. bell time.

The event is part of the Lumbee Homecoming Festivities and is a fundraising function for the Pembroke Rescue Squad. All tickets are just $5 with children under 6 admitted free.

The wrestling card includes seven matches with four championship bouts. The feature event pits current ACW U.S. Champion Jay Eagle, The Indian Outlaw, against Native American Red Thunder of Pembroke. This bout is scheduled to be an Indian strap match with the U.S. title on the line.

Jay Eagle, with outside help from Black Jack Daulton, Wachee the Samoan, and manger Tom Holiday, have been causing problems for Red Thunder for several months. This trouble has included attacks during Thunder's matches as well as Jay Eagle's claim that Lumbees are "good only for making baskets."

ACW world champion Johnny B. ZGoode will defend his title against 1400 lb. Big Slam Vader. ACW tag team champions, the Ringlords will defend against professional boxer turned wrestler Chazz Rocco and Don "Flesh Gordon" Britt. Top light heavyweight contenders "Carolina Male" Les Parker and Black Jack Daulton will wrestle for the ACW light-heavyweight title.
