Page "-Carolina Indian Voice-Thursday, Lebruary 6, 1997 Community College Students Voice Concerns To Governor

Raleigh -- North Carolina Community College students from across the state joined in with other higher education students in making a part of history when they participated in the Student Government Assembly convened by Goy James B. Hunt, Jr.

The assembly at the old Senate Chambers in the State Capitol Building took place Jan 10 as part of the activities leading up to the manguration of Gov Hunt Earlier in the week the governor recognized community colleges in a special program at Durham Technical Community College in Durham

During the Student Government Assembly, the governor gave the students a brief history of education in North Carolina, recalling his own schools days, and the contributions past governors made to education He noted that as a student leader he found time to work with legislators. and he encouraged the delegates to do the same. Also, he talked of the state's need to get more minorities into the teaching profession, and to become more diverse in education, in general

In voicing their concerns about education, the students talked of is-such as the availability of financial aid, the need to get parents more involved in the education process. and the need to improve the quality of education:

As Hunt turned many of the questions back to the student, they suggested mentoring and internal prograins to assist students.

Hunt told the students of his goal. to increase the salaries of teachers up to the national average. He encouraged them to run for office to help make the schools. Schools of Excellence, and to help make them safe and orderly

dents to write him on any issues involving education, and he promised to respond, but he cautioned them to not just complain The letters should include possible suggestions, he told them

ticipating in the assembly are Jason Coe of Rockingham Community College and Lacentia Thompson of Robeson Community College

Ms Thompson is currently president of the RCC student government Association and serves as a student trustee on the board

Also Hunt encouraged the stu-

One of manyw ways i have found my retirements years to be more fulfilling is to spend some time search-ing my family's genealogy. I became interested in my family's pedigree in the early 1970s when a first cousin living in Ohio requested her uncle. my father, to explain why her father. my father's brother, spelled his name OWRIE instead of LOWRY My Dad never did come up with a reasonable explanation, except to say that people would spell their surnames to suit their own satisfaction.

Individual surnames originated for the purpose of more specific identification. The four primary sources for second names were occupation. location, personal characteristics, and patronymic or father's name. One source says the surname LOWRY. along with its various spellings, have a patronymic origin. It is said to be a short or pet form derived from the name L A W R E N C E, which was a popular name in Scotland, Ireland, and England. The name Lawrence is of Latin origin dating back to the town of Laurentium in Italy. The name was made popular by St Lawrence, deacon of Pope Sixtus II in the third century. Lawrence was also spelled with a U as well as a W. and out of Scoland came the spelling forms of LAURLE.LOWREY, and LOWRIE. The LOW ER Y spelling was prevalent in Ireland.

and the lot of ϕ , γ -spectrum is probably and mental estation which become in the find when they became days and derive participation where the spectrum manufacture LOLRY LOADE and LOUR

It is said that all Robeson Counts Lowns with Native American roots descended from one lanics --- 1' spelling of surname-who morated to that area in the 18th century. IN studying Robeson County Indian generalogues one finds that there were leavest intermartifiers within the same family lineage. Circumstances of the time such as segregation, struggle for sur-scal, and lack of mobility, caused fare tres of a common lineage to form consumnities around a family farming operation. My parents never did discuss their kinship, except to say that they cam from different "Sets" of Lowiss have tagged my parents have having been second cousins, both descended from the Allen Lowry family Inbreeding can affect the outcome of the genes and heredity of the offspring There had to be family inter-marriages in the Adam and Lye family tree in order to carry out God's plan o populate the earth Noah's family continued this plan after the flood Abraham, a Noah descendant, married his half-sister and was progenitor of a race of people who became God's chosen people Concerns over genes and heredity did to arise during the early Biblical pedigrees, because God took a more direct control of events.

Recently I spent a couple of days in Robeson County to attend the funeral of my Aunt Shirley Snuth Lowry She married into the Calvin Lowry lincage, and was buried in the Hopewell Church Cemetery Tombstone inscriptions in cemeteries can give much information bout family members who have passed this life Family relationships over a varied time period can be obtained from grave markers. During my visit to the Hopewell Cemetery. I read tombstone inscriptions covering four generations of Calvin Lowry descendants. Some simple calculations informed me that while Calving Lowry lived only 57 years. he has 2 sons and 1 daughter buried in this cemetery who lived over 100 years. I strolled through the cemetery on a pleasant afternoon the last Sunday in October with a grandson of Calvin Lowry. We read the tombstone inscriptions of Calvin Lowry and his descendants. We talked of the positive influence these descendants played in both the spiritual and academic growth of the Indian race in Robeson County over the years. Robeson County church cemeteries tombstone inscriptions can provide good information about names, dates of birth, marriages, death, religious affiliation, and clues to family relationships. A systemized listing of tombsione inscriptions in a documented form would be a valued asset for those of us who are pursuing our ancestry lincage.
