

Baptist Mission Trip to Alaska Considered Very Successful

by Dr. Woodrow Dial "The harvest is plentiful but the workers are few. Ask the Lord of the harvest, therefore to send out workers into his harvest field." (Matthew 9:37-38

Christ left us no choice. To follow him, to obey His word, we had to take His message of salvation to Fort Yukon, Alaska.

And son, on the 24th of June 2000, a team of seven volunteers from the Burnt Swamp Baptist Association in Pembroke, NC embarked on a journey to do just that. We flew to Anchorage where we were met by Bro, Mack Green of First Native Baptist Church, who drove us on the church van to Fairbanks.

Alaska is a beautiful and most interesting state with its snow-capped mountains, blue-hue glaciers, sweeping plains, winding rivers, Northern Lights, mirror-like lakes, verdant evergreens, and flourishing, colorful flowers.

From Fairbanks, we booked a small commuter or "bush plane" for a one and a half hour flight across the frozen tundra to Fort Yukon, a small native American village of about 800 people, located on the yukon River, eight miles above the Arctic Circle. There we met the Tim Ungry Family, where time is missionary to the village. Tim showed us around the village and his work site, Arctic Circle Baptist Church.

Our project or work, was to conduct Vacation Bible School and hold evangelistic revival services. We began buy going door to door with a witnessing ministry and to solicit participation in the work. We found a kind and gracious people who welcomed us into their homes and freely conversed with us. During the week we enrolled 42 children into vacation Bible school. We found the children anxious to learn about the gospel. Our sessions were fun-filled and enjoyable for them and they freely expressed it. The evangelistic services were held in the evening and some of the children would come to the worship service and we had two who make professions of faith during the week.

It was s a rewarding experience for the team members as we got to know and worked with the children. The children were always reluctant to leave and wanted to stay around with us. Too soon the week was over and we had to make preparations to leave the village. As we walked down to the landing strip, some of the children accompanied us. While we waited to board the bush flight back to Fairbanks, the children were busy picking the Alaskan wildflowers and presented them to the team members. While taking photographs, one team member had laid her flowers down and boarded the plane, having forgotten them. As we taxied out to the runway, we looked and saw one child holding the flowers and waving for us to come back. The pilot was gracious enough to turn around and taxi back to the boarding area. The little boy came running to present the flowers and we noticed that he had tears running down his face.

As he presented the flowers, the impact that we had made on those young lives was apparent. He had one request. It was forward and to the point, "Will you come back again and tell us some more about Jesus?' he asked. As the team sat in silence as we flew over the Tundra toward Fairbanks, I'm sure each one had their own private thoughts. I could not help but think: "a weary world waits for Christ. Will we seize the moment? Will we use this opportunity to share His love as never before? Will be ignite our churches with the heartfelt passion that springs from mission involvement?" We can. We will. We must!

New Computer Program Teaches Reading the "Quick and Easy Way"

Arrow Publishing, a leader in educational computer software, has officially launched its new phonics computer reading program to help solve the problem of poor reading abilities of students. Phonics Voyage was recently released to the public and school market. This program will help parents and teachers teach students to read by intensive phonics instruction.

Phonics Voyage was designed to be used by children ages 5 - 12; however, it may be used by older students as a remedial tool.

Teachers and students are "fed up" with old reading programs and poor reading scores! We have developed a new full motion computer reading program to help them improve reading scores. This program is a "read-ing solution which is in step with the needs of students."

Phonics Voyage is an aptly named program, kids board a pirate ship, where they learn and drill early reading skills. Educational Value: Phonics Voyage does a thorough job of presenting and drilling early reading skills. Kid Appeal: In addition to a real-life host (who looks like Orson Wells in a pirate costume), Phonics Voyage features cartoon drawings and simple animation. Ease of Use / Install: Phonics Voyage installs without difficulty. Program navigation is simple - an eas-ily accessed Index includes links to each of the program's lessons and games. Bottom Line: Phonics Voyage successfully teaches kids required early reading skills.

Students take a Phonics Voyage with a crew of characters they will not forget! The Captain and his cartoon crew teach students phonics reading skills! Students become super readers in a short time. It is an interactive full motion video computer reading program. "It is so much fun students forget that it is an educational tool."

Phonics Voyage teaches ABCs, letter recognition, consonants, long vowels, short vowels, double vowels, beginning sounds, ending sounds, beginning clusters, ending clusters, digraphs, blends, sight words, sentence building, songs, stories and games and much more. The program includes a reproducible activity workbook.

Phonics Voyage teaches students all the basic building blocks for reading. It is an integrated approach to teaching reading which was created by educators and parents.

Phonics Voyage was designed for school or home use. The program is a self directed reading program. Teachers or parents do not have to be experts in reading in order to give support to their children learning to read. They just need to help the child get started. Then the child can take control and have fun while he or she builds reading skills. The computer is the tutor and the child is at the controls.

Phonics Voyage is available on CD-ROM (Windows & Mac Versions). The program has been adopted by a number of schools already.

LRDA/Lumbee Housing: Part III-Elderly/ Special Needs Rental Assistance

LRDA/Lumbee Housing - Part III The past two weeks we have reviewed the LRDA/Lumbee Housing Department. We looked at the makeup of the Department, how it is funded, and the basic eligibility requirements to receive housing assistance. This week we will review one of the programs administered by the agency. Program #1 which is the "Elderly/Special Needs Rental Assistance" will be the focus of this article.

This program is designed specifically to provide housing services to the elderly, near-elderly, handicapped and disabled. Elderly is defined as those tribal members 62 years of age and older. Near-elderly is defined as those 55 years of age and older. And, disabled and handicapped are those who receive disability benefits.

Under this program, a housing complex is scheduled to be built in six of the traditional Lumbee Indian communities. Traditional Indian communities have been defined by LRDA as those who had an Indian high school prior to 1964. At this time, the traditional communities meeting this criteria have been identified by the agency as be-ing Prospect, Pembroke, Fairmont and Saddletree located in Robeson county; Oak Grove in Scotland county and Hawkeye in Hoke county. The complex for the Fairmont community is currently under construction. This project is being funded through the 1998 NAHASDA monies and is being administered by the NC Indian Housing Authority. At this time, the staff of the Lumbee Housing Department is evaluating applications to determine the need for such a complex in the other traditional Lumbee Indian communities. Upon completion of the evaluation, the construction of the complexes will be prioritized according to the greatest need.

Each complex will consist of a Tribal Service Center which will serve as a tenant/community services building which will house an on-site manager, office space for community based LRDA and Housing services, resident/community meeting area, a kitchenette, utility/maintenance storage, and rest room facilities. Such a Center will allow the agency the opportunity to take the services to tribal members. For example, a "meals on wheels" program could be administered within the complex. In addition, the Center will provide a place for tribal members, either living in the complex or in the community, to gather to participate in cultural activities such as quilting, canning, lye soap making,

Individual housing units consisting of either one bedroom or two bedroom units will be arranged as duplexes and triplexes on approximately 1/2 acre: tracts of land. Monthly rental payments will be based on HUD regulations in accordance to NAHASDA. LRDA feels this type of program will allow tribal elders and the disabled to remain in their home based communities, while maintaining their independence. It will keep them close to family members and allow them to remain in familiar surroundings. This cluster type of housing for tribal members will allow the continued presence of a distinct Indian tribal community in the area.
