President Barrett of Farmers' Union Trade and Crop Reports Irregular. Attacks Agricultural Colleges. Mills Still Curtailing.

(By The Associated Press.) Little Rock, Ark., April 8.—The review of the Farmers' Union trade and crop reports by President Barrett is a most interesting and practical one. He says that the reports of the Union are not as good as they should be, and that the Union should do more to help its members. He also attacks the agricultural colleges, saying that they are too theoretical and do not give the farmers the practical knowledge they need. He also says that the mills are still curtailing, and that the farmers should do more to help them.

CHANGED THEIR PLANS ROOSEVELT PARTY BROUGHT HONEYMOON TRIP TO AN ABRUPT END.

(By The Associated Press.) Genoa, Italy, April 8.—The sentimental priggism of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt and his wife, on which it had been the intention of the couple to retract by easy stages their honeymoon trip from Spezia to Genoa, ended abruptly this afternoon 24 hours ahead of the schedule that had been planned. The change in plans was made in order to avoid the constantly increasing demonstrations of Colonel Roosevelt and his wife were encountering along the road. At every little village or crossroads they were met by men, women and children, the former with flags and the latter with bouquets. As an instance of the demonstrations accorded them, 600 persons, many of them Americans, acclaimed Colonel Roosevelt and Mrs. Roosevelt with vivas and hurrahs as they left Rapallo, where they had lunch today. This was the climax of their demonstrations and Colonel Roosevelt gave orders to be driven direct to Genoa.

Both Colonel Roosevelt and Mrs. Roosevelt said they had enjoyed the trip hugely. Colonel Roosevelt said he had had a "jolly time" Thursday when he and Mrs. Roosevelt drove along the sunny slopes of the Ligurian Alps from Spezia to Rapallo. Half an hour after the arrival of Colonel Roosevelt the prefect and the mayor of Genoa called on him and greeted him in the name of the municipality. Colonel Roosevelt and his wife lived quietly at their hotel. Tomorrow the Roosevelts will continue their journey by train to Porto Maurizio, where they will visit Miss Laura Roosevelt's sister, who has a beautiful villa there. Chief interest in his three days' stay at the Varese villa will be the visit there on Monday to see Colonel Roosevelt's Gifford Pinchot, former chief forester of the United States department of agriculture. It is already quite certain, however, that the visit of Mr. Pinchot will not be followed by any of the sensational developments that evidently are anticipated in some quarters. Colonel Roosevelt has announced in advance that he will have nothing to say after the interview.

One Woman's Tragedy

(Kansas City Journal.) Those who remember the melancholy bits of "The Man Without a Country" will feel something akin to pity for Dr. Frederick A. Cook, who, for a few brief weeks, was heralded as a popular idol, but who is now a wanderer, impoverished and seeking only to hide from the eyes of his fellow Americans. We may grant all that has been said about this man; that he is a monumental tasker, a hard and conscientious impostor, claiming another man's triumphs as his own. We may say that he is a disgrace to his country and unworthy to hold up his head among honest men. Still, that does not end the matter. What if Dr. Frederick A. Cook is, in fact, insane? Suppose that the sufferings endured in the Arctic regions played strange tricks with his mind and that he is not entirely responsible for the gigantic fraud which he seems to have perpetrated upon the world. We have extended the mantle of insanity which has been extended to cover worse men. Murderers fill our prisons who, but for the courts' acceptance of their pleas of insanity, would have paid the full penalty for their crimes. Could any punishment be worse than that meted out to Dr. Cook? To be a fugitive from home and friends, knowingly the butt of a nation's sneers, with the ever haunting specter of the next person met with him recognize the impostor—could anything be worse? But there is one person in the affair who is apparently neither insane nor an impostor. The faithful wife of this poor exile has been compelled to bear her full share of the disgrace and misery of being without a country. There is no evidence whatever to show that she was a party to any deception. For months she and her little ones waited for the husband and father to return from the frozen north. Then came the glad news that he had succeeded and that he was coming home. While the world rang with acclaim, Mrs. Cook and her children waited for that joyful meeting. What a beautiful dream had come true! Her husband, covered with honors, sought the world over and courted by the most exalted. What a beautiful dream, indeed! And then came the bitter awakening. This husband and father branded as a fraud and faker, with the warning of eternal sorrow and shame and misery in the twinkling of an eye the world had turned from exaltation to depression. Dr. Cook fled from the country and his faithful wife arose from the wreck of her shattered dream and went with him to comfort and care for him. What a sacrifice this was! She was loyal to the man who had no other friend. It was hers to share both the glory of the fleeting moment and the death in life that has been the fruit of a great blunder. Behind all this disgrace and humiliation of a prominent explorer looms the black shadow of a woman's sacrifice to a sense of duty and a lasting love.

MANSFIELD'S HOME WILL REMAIN IN PROFESSION

New York, April 8.—The home of the late Richard Mansfield, on Riverside drive, will not pass from the theatrical profession. The dwelling was bought by William A. Brady for his wife, Grace George. The Mansfield house, 313 Riverside drive, just north of 10th street, is one of the finest on the drive. It occupies a lot 21 1/2 by 97 feet, and its marble front makes it conspicuous even among the show places along that thoroughfare. TWO FLOUNCE SKIRT.

6015 Two Flounce Skirt, 25 to 30 waist.

Flounce skirts are always pretty and the one illustrated is among the latest to have appeared. It is exceedingly graceful and exceedingly smart and is adapted both to plain and to fancy materials. Embroidered floouncing makes the one illustrated, but bordered materials include marquisettes and volles, silks and wools quite as well as the floouncing, while the skirt need not be confined to such for its straight edges can be trimmed in any way to suit the fancy. Added to its other advantages the skirt is exceedingly simple and very easily made, involving little time and little labor. The good foundation means perfect smoothness over the hips as well as simplicity of adjustment. The skirt consists of the upper portion and the two flounces. The upper portion is made in seven gores and the flounces are straight and gathered. The lower one is joined to the foundation, the upper is arranged over it. The quality of material required for the medium size is 3 1/4 yards of flouncing 25 inches wide with 1 3/4 yards of plain material 27 for the upper portion, 8 1/2 yards 27 or 27 1/2 yards 22, or 5 yards 44 inches wide if plain material is used throughout.
