NEW ORDINANCES FOR COUNCILMANIC ACTION

Proposed Laws For Protection of Citizens Against Bald Headed Men, Buttermilk Sellers, Business Advancement and Skirt Lifting on Rainy Days.

(By AL FAIRBROTHER.)

I have spent much time fishing here of late, and while alone in the woods have given much thought to what we need as a city. We have plenty of ordinances along the lines I am suggesting, but a few points have been overlooked, so I shall at an early day, by the time the council meets again, I hope, present these ordinances and ask for their immediate passage. They seem to fill a longfelt want—along the lines of our present progression:

NEW ORDINANCES FOR GREENSBORO.

To Be Submitted by Enthusiastic Citizens at the Next Meeting of the City Council.

Bald Headed Ordinance.

Be It Ordained by the Board of Aldermen of the City of Greensboro:

Section 1. That no baldheaded man, a resident of Guilford county or the city of Greensboro, shall expose or attempt to expose, by removing his hat or head covering, that part of any part of his head on which there is no hair, while passing down South Elm street after 10 o'clock Sunday morning, unless the same head shall have been previously examined and stamped with a seal in letters not smaller than small pipe type, "Permitted," the same being an indecent exposure of person.

Sec. 2. That no baldheaded man, wearing a wig, shall be permitted to remove the said wig, except in passing Sycamore street, South Davis street and Spring Garden street, unless specially permitted to do so by a physician's prescription calling for two quarts of chemically pure at one sitting.

Sec. 3. Any baldheaded person who feels it necessary to remove his hat while passing down South Elm street, in order not to frighten people whose busier feelings are aroused by looking on pulchritudinous, must blow a horn three times before removing said hat, and if, after blowing said horn, any citizen affected as described before shall throw up his hands, as is customary on the road when an automobile meets a farmer, he shall not remove said hat until he gets south of the railroad.

Sec. 4. That any baldheaded man violating any part of this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not to exceed ten thousand dollars; shall be imprisoned in the county jail at night and worked on the road in the day time for three hundred years, in the discretion of the court.

Sec. 5. That this ordinance shall be in full force and effect after its passage by said City Council of the said City of Greensboro.

An Ordinance Regulating Business.

Be It Ordained by the Board of Aldermen of the City of Greensboro:

Section 1. That no person shall engage in talking for the good of the town in any manner whatsoever. It shall be the duty of every citizen to try to get his neighbor into police court; to ruin him financially and harrassed and kept busy paying out.

Sec. 2. That it shall be unlawful to encourage any kind of a factory to attempt to establish itself in said city. That it is incumbent upon all citizens in the presence of the dead not to engage in any pursuit that might disturb the corpse; to keep on knocking and to insist that the City Council is doing right in passing foolish Sunday laws and in attempting to get all the farmers to stop trading in the city by reason of the new ordinance of the department of health which require that a cow wear an Andy Carnegie medal satisfying all concerned that the milk she gives is pure and wholesome and taxing the farmer a fee for bringing the folk in town a little buttermilk to cook with.

Sec. 3. That no man over twenty-five years of age or under fifty years of age shall be permitted to chew pig tobacco after eleven o'clock on Sunday and that all cats and dogs be annihilated.

Sec. 4. That it shall be unlawful for the Southern railway to stop its trains in the city limits unless it has satisfactory evidence that a citizen wants to leave town for good, and then the train can stop but two seconds.

Sec. 5. That any one violating this ordinance or any part or section of it shall upon conviction be fined $4,000 and costs and sent to the roads six months in stripes.

Sec. 6. All ordinances or parts of ordinances conflicting with this ordinance are hereby repealed.

Sec. 7. This ordinance shall take effect immediately after its passage and publication and be in full force from that date.

A General Ordinance.

Be It Enacted by the Board of Aldermen of the City of Greensboro:

Section 1. That Lindsay Hopkins, engaged in the automobile business, maintaining a large garage and trying to sell automobiles, employing men and wanting to help the town, and who has been fined for speeding several times, when trying to demonstrate his goods to possible customers, shall not run an automobile at a rate of speed exceeding one mile in eight days.

Sec. 2. That in order to carry out the program of killing the city a greater rate of speed would prove suicidal to the scheme. It would suggest a live man in town, and this would not do.

Sec. 3. In determining the rate of speed the city shall place a large Eight Day Clock at the several mile posts and if the clock hasn't stopped when Hopkins passes, his license shall be revoked and he shall be transported to Atlanta to remain indefinitely.

Sec. 4. This ordinance shall take effect and be in full force immediately after its passage and publication.

An Ordinance Regulating Woman's Skirts.

Be It Enacted by the Board of Aldermen of the City of Greensboro:

Section 1. Since it has been brought out in testimony that in the City of Greensboro there are men who cannot, with impunity, look on lithographic pictures, it shall be unlawful for women to wear dresses that do not reach the ground. In stepping over muddy places it shall be unlawful to raise the dress higher than the shoe tops and the shoe tops must be four inches high.

Sec. 2. Good morals demand this and we must protect all within our gates.

Sec. 3. This ordinance shall be in full force and effect immediately after its passage and publication.

An Ordinance Regulating the Sale of Turnip Salad.

Be It Ordained by the Board of Aldermen of the City of Greensboro:

Section 1. It shall be unlawful for any farmer, agriculturist or vegetarian to sell or offer for sale; to expose or have in his possession at one time over one pound of turnip salad.

Sec. 2. That it shall be unlawful for said farmer, agriculturist or vegetarian to traffic in turnip salad without first securing a permit from the City of Greensboro, paying therefor $300 for each season.

Sec. 3. That it shall be unlawful for any member of the family of said agriculturist, farmer, or vegetarian to attempt to use the $300 permit issued to other members of the family.

Sec. 4. That it shall be unlawful to issue any permit to sell turnip salad by any farmer, agriculturist or vegetarian unless the photograph of said farmer, agriculturist or vegetarian is permanently pasted on said permit.

Sec. 5. Upon entering the gates of the city with said turnip salad the said farmer, agriculturist or vegetarian shall exhibit his permit and blow three shrill blasts on a bugle announcing his coming. Upon his arrival he shall be inspected by three disinterested parties, and if said turnip salad contains germs of tuberculosis or other infectious disease the said turnip salad shall be confiscated, then and there, and fed to the fire horses of said city, and the said farmer, agriculturist or vegetarian shall be imprisoned seven days without food or water and allowed no privileges except to look on the lithographs of "The Land of Nod" twice a day.

Sec. 6. This ordinance shall take effect and be in full force on and after its publication.

These ordinances are to be presented to the city council at its next regular meeting and as they seem to be along the right line, or, at least along lines now obtaining, I look for their passage.

All this argues well for our city. The tide has turned and we are now going to see a better and brighter day—especially when we get a few more ordinances.

IMPORTANCE. (S. E. Kiser in Chicago Record-Herald.) Smith has a little baby, a fragile, fretful thing; To him it is more important than any earthly king; He fondly bends above it, with countenance benign; And thinks if it were taken the sun would cease to shine. Jones has become a merchant, a gleam is in his eye; His shop is very narrow and but one story high; Yet Jones, whose breast is bulging with feelings that are sweet, Can see no other building along the busy street. Young Bardsley's little poem—there are four lines in all—Is placed where few will see it, the type is thin and small, But reading it, the pleasure which comes to him is keen; To him it means there's nothing else in the magazine.

HOW TO MAKE FARM HANDS TIDY. One Woman Accomplished It Through a System of Pines.

At a meeting of the Woman's institute for the benefit of farmers' wives a paper was read on the artistic decoration of the home, and especial stress was laid upon the wife's having a dainty table. It was written by a woman whose home was luxurious and whose taste was exquisite, says the delineator.

"But," asked one woman, "how can I have a 'dainty table' I have ten in the family—four children, four hired men most of the time, and my husband and myself. The hired men are generally foreigners, hopelessly untidy. It is all I can do to get them to wash their hands and faces and comb their hair before they come to the table. I can not set apart a separate table and get through with my other work. How can I manage to have a 'dainty table'?" The man said the tablecloth and wipe their mouths on their sleeves and I'm—well, I'm just discouraged. I tried furnishing them napkins, but I would have to give them fresh ones at each meal in order to keep decently clean. That meant more washing than I can do, so it was out of the question." And the speaker's eyes filled with tears, for this was one of her unsolved problems.

"Well, sister, I'll tell you how I man-
