PRINCESS WOULDN'T LET DUCHESS RIDE IN ELEVATOR

New York, April 28.—Little did the Princess Farleigh suspect the gossip she would cause when she recently unwittingly refused to permit the Duchess of Manchester to ride in her elevator while she was in it.

The Duchess of Manchester was formerly Miss Helen Zimmerman, of Cincinnati, and was stopping at the Plaza until she and her husband left for Hyde Park, Long Island, to visit Mrs. Frederick Vanderbilt.

It was expected that the duke and duchess would return to the Plaza today, where it was unofficially given out that now "the princess is sorry that she did not permit the Duchess of Manchester to ride upstairs in her elevator on yesterday."

The incident that caused all the trouble was that Princess Farleigh, who has visited Washington at various times accompanied by large retinues of servants and various breeds of animals and feathered friends, gave orders that no one excepting her servants should ride in her elevator at the hotel when she was in it.

Several days ago the Duchess of Manchester stepped into the same elevator with the princess, neither knowing the other's identity. As the elevator conductor was about to close the door the princess, by an eloquent nod, gave the high sign to servant number one, who passed it on to servant number two, ad infinitum, until the elevator conductor got the news that the Duchess of Manchester was persona non grata in the elevator at that particular time.

She was asked to step out, which she did.

A few moments later her husband heard the story and became much wrought up. The intended trip to the Vanderbilt home prevented the duke from looking into the incident, which has spread all about town and set gossip tongues wagging and prophesying what will happen if the princess changes her mind and does not offer to let the duchess play in her back yard.

but many women like the yoke effect and the perfect smoothness over the hips which the yoke provides, and the skirt can be made as indicated in the small view if preferred. Also it allows a choice of walking or round length, so that it provides for almost every need and every occasion. When plaited for its entire length it is stitched flat over the hips, consequently meaning no appreciable bulk and it provides just becoming and graceful flare.

The skirt is cut in 13 gars. There is a plait laid at the back edge of each gure and the closing is made invisibly at the back. When the yoke is used the skirt is cut off and joined to its lower edge.

The quantity of material required for the medium size is 8 3/4 yards 24 or 27, or 5 yards 44 or 52 inches wide. The width of skirt at lower edge is 4 yards.

The pattern 6633 is cut in sizes for 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32 and 34 inch waist measure and will be mailed to any address by the Fashion Department of this paper on receipt of 10 cents. (If in haste, send an additional 2-cent stamp for letter postage, which insures more prompt delivery.)

Mrs. Walter S. Lee has returned from a visit to friends and relatives in Charlotte.

HOWE'S GREAT LONDON CIRCUS.

The Part the Clown Plays in a Big Circus a Feature in Its Success.

The clowning part of a circus program is not understood by the outsider. There are times during the show when there is not a clown in sight and then in the next instant the hippodrome track will almost swarm with them. They seem to spring from the ground and they will disappear as quickly. The presence of the clown is appropriate and is desired with most circus acts, and again there are some features which would be ruined if they were allowed to be clowned.

Clowning is a fine art. The best clowns are born, not made.

When intermingling with citizens on the streets they would not be suspected of being wearers of the loose robe of a fool, but when they appear in the circus rings with their makeups on they laugh and the crowd laughs with them. They help to unload, temporarily, at least, the cares from the minds of thousands of people. These men who appear so dignified and quiet upon the streets out of the circus ring would never be picked out as being clowns on the road, but they are.

The work of the clowns with the Howe's London Show is not the same day after day, as they take delight in springing new jokes and new tricks upon their cowboys, which entertains the members of the troupe as well as the audience.

Howe's Shows will be here Wednesday, May 4.
