VOL. II. NO. 95. GREENSBORO, N. C., SATURDAY, MAY 7, 1910. PRICE: FIVE CENTS

LEARNING RUTHS

People Becoming Better Satisfied With Administration.

PRESIDENT IS VERY POPULAR

There is No Doubt But That Roosevelt Will Give Cordial Support And Aid To His Successor.

Washington, May 6.—It is very evident that the pretended Democratic glee over the outlook for the year's elections must very soon change to doubt from the Democratic standpoint and to great confidence and hope on the Republican side. This change has come about not through one, but many causes. In the first place, the general grumbling against President Taft, which, after all, has been very similar to all first year experiences, is changing to hearty commendations and endorsements of the President personally and his administration. Lincoln and Grant and Harrison and McKinley, and, in fact, every Republican President were found fault with during a portion of their terms, but this eventually gave way to merited applause which came when the people found out the truth about President Taft. They are learning in the first place, in spite of Democratic misrepresentation, that the tariff law is most successful. No honest man, be he Democratic or Republican, can say that the result of the operation of that law has not been most beneficial in every way, both from a revenue standpoint and from that of employment and wages, and it is very evident that Mr. Taft knew what he was talking about when he said that "It is the best tariff law we have ever had."

But this is by no means the only credit that can be accorded to the present administration. In every department of the government good business management has been practiced to such an extent that expenditures have been cut down in every direction and millions of dollars saved to the government. This has not been done with a great flourish of trumpets, but in a quiet, businesslike way, and is only being found out as public statements are made in the usual course of events. At the end of the fiscal year all these results will be very apparent in the annual statements, and then the people will give to this administration credit for a degree of economy that has not been seen for many years.

With all fair minded men President Taft has been one of the most popular Presidents we ever had. His popularity is going to extend to many of those who have seen fit to criticize him. As regards the legislation yet to be enacted during the present session of Congress, it will depend upon the course taken by some of the so-called independents. Undoubtedly they have the power to delay or prevent the so-called administration program, and it is to be seen whether they will exercise this power, or will work and vote with the regular party majority in adopting as many of the President's measures as possible.

As the return of Colonel Roosevelt comes nearer and nearer, there has, of course, been much speculation as to what his attitude would be toward the administration. No one of his friends has had any doubt as to where he would be found, and yet because he has not seen fit to make any definite statement, an impression has gone forth, largely fostered by the Democrats, that he would not be found with his old party associates. It is now known, however, from private letters, just what his stand will be.

He will support the administration in every particular. He will announce that he will not be a candidate for President in 1912, that he will not be a candidate for Senator or Congressman from New York, or any other position whatever. He will, of course, take an active part in New York state politics and will undoubtedly be glad to see his former secretary and the present collector at the post of New York. Mr. Loeb, made candidate for governor. This program would undoubtedly result in all factions in New York state, and lead to victory next November not only in the election of the state officers, but in the return of the present delegation to Congress.

In Ohio, which is conceded to be one of the most important battle grounds of the year, the Republican party is more harmonious than for a quarter of a century. Governor Harmon is losing strength every day, and a large portion of the Democratic party is opposed to his nomination, which, however, will not be prevented, but it seems now that the Republican candidate will be as victorious and no Republican seats lost in the Buckeye state. There might arise an exigency where Colonel Roosevelt will take an active part there; he will undoubtedly make several speeches during the campaign, and in these speeches he will endorse Mr. Taft in every particular and his allegiance to his own so-called policies, which will be continued as far as possible by the present administration.

The Republican congressional committee has already done a far greater amount of work than was ever before attempted so early in the campaign. This work will be continued without interruption until the first of November. Every member of Congress who can spare the time for one speech or many will be drafted during the active work of the making of the congressional campaign of 1910 will no doubt exceed that of any previous year. This activity will also continue in the press bureau, where already several million copies of speeches have been distributed throughout the

BROWN GOT PLUM

Appointed Railroad Commissioner by Governor Kitchin.

IS "GLAD TO SERVE PEOPLE"

Believed Former Secretary Is Now Assured of the Nomination For The Position.

(Special to Daily News.)
Raleigh, May 6.—Henry Clay Brown received this afternoon a commission from Governor Kitchin to succeed the late R. F. Aycock as corporation commissioner. Mr. Brown, who has been secretary to the corporation commission for eighteen years, was summoned to the governor's office about noon and soon thereafter the announcement was made that he had been named for the commission for which there were just 30 applicants. Mr. Brown not being among the number. This appointment will vacate the secretaryship of the commission, a place to be filled by the commission.

Soon after he had received his commission from the governor, Mr. Brown said: "I am glad that I shall have the opportunity to serve the people of the state as corporation commissioner. In announcing my candidacy recently I said 'I pledge myself, if nominated and elected commissioner, to enforce and execute the existing laws and all such laws as may hereafter be passed, subscribing and defining the duties of corporation commissioners faithfully and impartially and to the best of my ability, with a view to the progress of our prosperity and the welfare of all the people.' I renew that pledge today. I have been overwhelmed with kind assurances of support received from all classes of our people throughout the entire state since I made my announcement. And while at first I did not apply for the position made vacant by the lamentable death of Mr. Aycock, I learned that so many citizens had written to the governor under my name, and that he had offered that I decided that it was my duty to apply for the position, which I did yesterday."

The view is expressed here that the appointment of Mr. Brown will have the effect of assuring him of the convention nomination for the central commission-ership which this appointment carries, his endorsements having come from every section of the state, making it a foregone conclusion that his nomination to succeed himself will be without opposition. Also, it will leave W. T. Lee and other western candidates for the seat to be vacated by Commissioner S. L. Rogers free to make that race without the handicap that was given by the strong campaign that was being waged for this nomination by Mr. Brown.

Mr. Brown will take the oath of office as commissioner within the next day or two, and probably early next week there will be the election of a new secretary to the commission to succeed Mr. Brown. A very great deal of work is to be done by the commission within the next few months, including the tax assessments for the entire state.

Boy Was Hanged.
(By The Associated Press.)
Deland, Fla., May 6.—Irving Manohet, the 15-year-old Connecticut boy who was convicted of the brutal murder of Clevis Tedder, a 13-year-old girl, near this place on the evening of February 12 last, was hanged here today.

He made no statement as to his motive for the crime, which he confessed shortly after his arrest. Today he exhibited no emotion and walked from the death cell to the scaffold with unerring composure and without the slightest manifestation of fear.

Farmer Shot and Killed.
(By The Associated Press.)
Spartanburg, S. C., May 6.—Peter Kennedy, a farmer residing 20 miles south of here, near the Union county line, was shot and killed by his brother, David Kennedy, this afternoon. The tragedy is said to be the result of a dispute over the location of a land line dividing their farms. No arrests have been reported.

country, and this distribution will be increased as the campaign goes on. While the Democrats have been claiming that everything is right and pretending that the year's elections would be decided in their favor, the Republicans have been working and planning for a successful campaign. This work, as usual, will be upon legitimate lines, informing the people of the work of the administration, of the truth about legislation and correcting the misrepresentations sent out by the enemy.

The people are beginning to realize that a Democratic fiasco would be a severe blow not only to the efforts of legislation in behalf of the people, but a menace and check to the business prosperity of the country and reversal of present industrial conditions. Such a result, it is believed, cannot be attained when the laboring class of the country soberly give their attention to the situation. A few disgruntled newspaper men need not all kinds of calamity and disaster, but the masses whose intentions we do not get through the press will record their vote on the 8th of next November for the party which means progress and prosperity and for the party which has a record to point to in the past as an earnest of what it proposes to do in the future.

EDWARD VII, ENGLAND'S KING, DIED LAST NIGHT

Pneumonia Following an Attack of Bronchitis Was Cause of Demise—Only Nearest Relatives and Physicians Present When End Came—The Prince of Wales Automatically Became Ruler Upon the Death of His Father.

(By The Associated Press.)
London, May 7.—King Edward VII died at 11:45 o'clock last night. The Prince of Wales is king, assuming the title of George V, and will take the oath before the privy council at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Coming so suddenly, the death of the king cannot but bring the greatest sorrow to the nation, in whose hearts Edward, first as Prince of Wales, and afterwards as sovereign, held first place. His short reign of nine years has been a history of stirring times. It opened with the conclusion of peace after a long and trying campaign in South Africa, and concludes at the crucial moment of one of the most momentous political struggles of modern times between the poor and commoners. In a day the political outlook of Great Britain has been revolutionized.

London, May 7.—King Edward VII, who returned to England from a vacation ten days ago in the best of health, died at 11:45 o'clock last night in the presence of his family after an illness of less than a week, which was serious hardly more than three days.

The Succession.
The Prince of Wales succeeded to the crown immediately, according to the laws of the kingdom, without official ceremony. His first official act was to dispatch to the lord mayor the announcement of his father's death, in pursuance of custom. His telegram read: "I am deeply grieved to inform you that my beloved father, the king, passed away peacefully at 11:45 tonight."
(Signed) "GEORGE."

Official Announcement.
The physicians soon afterwards issued their official bulletin, which was as follows: "May 6, 11:50 p. m.—His majesty, the king, breathed his last at 11:45 tonight, in the presence of her majesty, Queen Alexandra, the Prince and Princess of Wales, Princess Royal, the Duchess of Fife, Princess Victoria and Princess Louise, the Duchess of Argyll."
(Signed) "SLAKING," "RHID," "POWELL," "DAWSON."

Was Much Worried.
The pneumonia, following bronchitis, is believed to have been the cause of death, but the doctors thus far have refused to make a statement. Some of the king's friends are convinced that worry over the critical political situation which confronted him, with sleepless nights, aggravated, if it did not cause, the fatal illness.

Besides the nearest relatives in England, the Duke of Fife and the archbishop of Canterbury, were in the death chamber. The king's brother, the Duke of Connaught, with his family, is at Suez, hastening home from Africa. The king's daughter, Queen Maud, of Norway, will start for England tomorrow.

Death Was Expected.
The intelligence that the end of King Edward's reign had come was not a surprise at the last. The people had been expecting to hear it at any moment since the evening's bulletin was posted at Buckingham palace and flashed throughout the kingdom. The hospital received it without excitement, but sadly for the king, with his own people, was unquestionably one of the most popular rulers in the world. They regarded him as one of the strongest forces making for the stability of the peace of the empire.

The fashionable restaurants were just emptying and a few groups of late after-goers were making their way toward through the rain, while a small crowd still hung about the palace, when the streets were filled suddenly with newshyrs shrilly crying "Death of the king." The papers were quickly seized and the people discussed the momentous event quietly and soon dispersed. The streets were deserted by 1 o'clock.

Announced to the World.
Within a few moments after the death of the king, the home office telegraphed the intelligence to the heads of other governments and British diplomats and colonial offices throughout the world.

Almost to the end the king refused to take to his bed, and was sitting yesterday in a large chair, so the palace stories go, corroborating the description of him as an unruly patient, which Dr. Ott gave to a Vienna interviewer last evening.

His Last Words.
One of the last utterances attributed to King Edward was, "Well, it is all over; but I think I have done my duty." He seemed then to have reached a full realization that his end was fast approaching.

The queen and others of the royal family and her doctors had been constantly in the sick room throughout the day. Several hours before his death the king was in a comatose condition, but he rallied slightly between 9 and 10 o'clock and appeared to recognize his family. Then he lapsed into unconsciousness, which ended in his passing.

Body in King's Chamber.
The body lies in the king's chamber in the northwest wing of Buckingham palace, which is brilliantly lighted, while the rest of the great, gloomy building, with the exception of Lord Knollys' office, is entirely darkened. It was nearly half an hour after the king breathed his last, when Lord Knollys walked into the office and said to the waiting reporters: "Gentlemen, his majesty is dead."

The people outside the palace only learned the news when boys appeared with papers. In the meantime the Prince and Princess of Wales had taken leave of the other members of the royal family at the main entrance soon after midnight. They drove direct to Marlborough house, Princess Victoria, who is her mother's constant companion, remained with the queen. The others of the family followed the Prince and Princess of Wales.

King George V.
The summons to the privy councillors has been issued by Sir Almeric Fitzroy, clerk of the council, convening the council at 2 o'clock this afternoon, when the councillors will "with one voice and the consent of tongue and heart publish and proclaim that the high and mighty Prince George is now, by the death of our late sovereign of happy memory, become our only lawful and rightful liege lord, George V, by the grace of God, King of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, defender of the faith and Emperor of India, to whom we do acknowledge all faith and constant obedience with all hearty and humble affection, beseeching God, by whom kings and queens do reign, to bless the royal prince, George V, with long and happy years to reign over us."

The new king, after this proclamation will address the council and promise to reign as a constitutional sovereign. At the conclusion of the meeting King George will issue his first proclamation requiring all officials to proceed with their duties.

The aldermen of the city of London will attend the council and swear allegiance. A proclamation has already been issued by the home office, requiring the officers to close today.

Court in Mourning.
The court will go into mourning for six months, and the lord mayor has ordered that the great hall of St. Paul's shall be tolled throughout the day.

Many Officials Absent.
So sudden was the king's death that most of the government officials were absent. Premier Asquith, who is in Spain, cannot reach London before Monday. It is the duty of the members of both houses of parliament to meet at summons as soon as they can assemble to take the oath of allegiance and receive the message of the king. Speaker Lowther, of the House of Commons, however, is in Constantinople.

ALL HOPE GONE
Not One Chance in a Thousand That Men Live.

FEW BODIES YET RECOVERED
Identification Is Made by Means of Brass Checks—Foul Air Interferes With the Workers.

(By The Associated Press.)
Palo Alto, May 6.—Fourteen hundred feet and more below the earth's surface lie tonight all but 17 of the more than 100 miners whose lives were snuffed out yesterday in the explosion in mine No. 3 of the Palos Coal and Coke company, on the outskirts of this little town. Hope of finding any of the entombed men alive was practically abandoned this afternoon, though there are about the entrance of the mine tonight "mothers, wives and other relatives of the entombed men who still cling to an almost hopeless hope that their loved ones will be brought out with a spark of life yet remaining. The experienced inspectors and old miners shake their heads and say there is no chance.

The bodies of the 17 men brought to the surface today and tonight were mangled so that their features were not recognizable. Identification was possible only by means of the little brass checks which they carried.

Foul air in the mine today caused by decomposing bodies of mules and the miners themselves, as well as the continued presence of afterdamp, interfered with the work of rescue. It was believed that the mine could be cleared of all this by midnight tonight, and that probably 30 or more additional bodies would be brought out before morning.

Already the work of securing the families deprived of their money earning heads is in progress. Besides the relief extended by the officials of the mine, the Red Cross, through Maurice Williams, of Birmingham, is supplying the necessities of life to the families of the victims, many of whom were left almost penniless. The national headquarters of the Red Cross has wired here asking that it be advised of the amount of money necessary for the immediate needs of the people.

That there are men in the mines other than those whose names were given out last night by the company foreman was established beyond doubt late this afternoon when the last of the bodies recovered today were brought out and Victor Barnett was identified. The company's roll failed to show his name. What is considered a conservative estimate to night places the number of men entombed at between 120 and 135. That all are dead is not doubted.

Edward Flynn, mine inspector of the Palos Coal and Iron company, is in charge of the rescue work tonight. He expressed the belief that the bodies of everyone of the entombed men will be brought to the surface by Saturday night.

THE THIRD DAY

Roll Call Brought Out Many Petitions and Memorials.

WOMEN ASK LAYMEN'S RIGHTS

Sunday 4 to 5 P. M. Set Aside For Divine Prayer For Guidance in Selection of New Bishops.

(Special to Daily News.)
Asheville, May 6.—The session of the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, today was flooded with petitions and resolutions regarding various proposed changes in church government. Many of the memorials dealt with the "woman suffrage" question, some for and some against allowing women of the church rights in the annual conference equal to the laymen.

One of the interesting discussions of the morning came when an effort to put through an immediate vote of thanks to Mrs. Russell Sage for her gift last week to the American Bible society of $500,000 was brought up.

Dr. William Havens, one of the secretaries of the American Bible society, was introduced and he stated that Mrs. Sage some time ago made the offer and that he had succeeded in raising the additional $500,000 required to make Mrs. Sage's gift available. This was greeted with loud applause. Then a delegate taking the floor wanted to introduce a resolution to thank Mrs. Sage, and this was ruled out because he had not made it in duplicate. Before he could get this done, another delegate, taking the floor, had put through a resolution appointing a committee of five on this question of thanking Mrs. Sage, and the resolution introduced by the first delegate was referred to that committee.

Another effort was made to get the rules suspended and allow an immediate vote of thanks to be passed and this also went to this special committee. The conference seemed thankful enough for the money Mrs. Sage had donated, but had gotten itself in a parliamentary tangle.

The committee will report tomorrow. A message of greeting was sent to the African Methodist Episcopal church general conference now in session in Savannah, Ga.

Proceedings in Detail.
The early hours today of the third day's session of the conference were given over largely to the reading of memorials from conferences, districts and churches and likewise from women's home mission societies asking for the rights of laity for women. The memorials were sent to the secretaries as the conference delegations were called in great numbers. Occasionally there was an interruption in the request for the rights of laity for women when some society, church or district would protest against the "suffrage movement." These protests, however, were greatly in the minority.

Devotional Exercises.
The third day of the conference opened with the usual devotional exercises, Bishop Hendrix in the chair. After the reading of the minutes, Bishop Wilson took the chair.

Communication from the laymen relative to the Vanderbilt question was on a divided vote, opened to the committees on education.

New arrivals, lay and clerical delegates, were announced from several conferences.

Several requests were made for conference delegates to churches on the present committee.

The pastor presented the greetings of Mr. Shaffer, of Brazil, a missionary there, who could not be present on account of great financial loss.

When rule 1 was taken up, and the Arkansas conference called every morning in the conference sent memorials asking for the laity rights for women in the church. As memorial after memorial was read, over the same, the conference passed to some laughter when a delegate arose and requested that the question of the woman's rights be put to a dividing matter and ask that the reading of the memorials be given serious attention.

A request was read from the Florida delegation asking that bishops consult presiding officers relative to appointments at annual conferences.

A memorial relative to the ownership of Vanderbilt university was sent to the educational committee.

Memorials were read from laymen asking changes in the annual for the Baptists of Illinois.

Announcements were made by Dr. Almon, who presided at the ball for the establishing of the "women's conference" of the temperance committee, that owing to confusion in the place of meeting yesterday afternoon the committee met at two places, with no program present at either meeting. He stated that the committee would meet this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Missions conference sent a number of memorials including rights of women and to define the duties of laymen. A memorial from one of the Woman's Home Mission societies of the North Texas conference petitioned against the rights of laity for women while a great batch of memorials from other women's societies petitioned for women's rights. Oklahoma conference sent a memorial for the removal of the time limit and the memorials from women's societies asking for rights of laity for women.

FAYETTEVILLE'S CHIEF OF POLICE PAINFULLY WOUNDED

(Special to Daily News.)
Fayetteville, April 6.—While arresting a burglar who had entered the store of W. G. Clark last night, Chief of Police J. M. D. Monaghan, was shot through the arm and painfully wounded. The burglar was Will McMillan, a negro line-man, employed by the Western Union Telegraph company.

McMillan had entered the store on May street, taken a quantity of money from the till and secreted himself in the back yard, when Chief of Police Monaghan and Police-man Davis came up. Monaghan rushed upon McMillan, when the latter shot him through the arm. Davis clubbed McMillan, who is a very powerful man into submission, and took him to the lockup. The wounded chief of police was taken to the Highsmith hospital.

The money found on McMillan was identified by Mr. Clark as that taken from his till. It is thought that McMillan had an accomplice.

BRADSTREET SAYS BUSINESS WAITS ON CROP OUTCOME

(By The Associated Press.)
New York, May 6.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

Trade as a whole is still quiet, pending clearer views of crop and price outcome, but there is an evidence rather more cheerful feeling in agriculture sections, where injury from the recent cold wave proves to have been rather exaggerated and the security markets are also stronger on the evidence of enlarging demand for American bonds abroad.

There is a slightly better feeling in cotton goods, though the price situation there is a bar to active trade. The woolen goods manufacturing trades are irregular.

WAS GRANDSON OF ONE OF FAMOUS SIAMESE TWINS

(Special to Daily News.)
Raleigh, May 6. It is an interesting fact that the young man, Ernest Haynes, who was one of the star football players for A. M. last season and died yesterday at Rex hospital here after a long illness, was a grandson of one of the Siamese twins, famous in this country as citizens of Western Carolina many years ago, his mother having been a Miss Bunker. The funeral was held this afternoon at 5 o'clock, the A. M. battalion attending in a body and marching to the cemetery and accorded military honors for the interment.

In addition to the automobile racing, Charles K. Hamilton made two ascensions in his Curtiss biplane the second time remaining in the air 23 minutes. In attempting a third flight his machine struck an obstruction, splitting the propeller and tearing the surface of one of the planes. The biplane was not serious and Hamiltons announced he would be ready for more flights tomorrow. The final day of the meeting.

SUBPOENA CAROLINIANS

Wanted to Testify in Government Cotton Suit.

(Special to Daily News.)
Raleigh, May 6. It became known here today that at least two prominent cotton men in this, the eastern, and two in the western district, have just been subpoenaed to go to New York and appear before the grand jury in the investigation the government is through Attorney General Wickersham, conducting as to the latest bull movement in the cotton market, the case being the United States Government vs. J. C. Patton and others. The subpoenas have just passed into the hands of United States marshals for service.

These subpoenas, it is understood, are to be issued for prominent cotton men in all southern states, with a view to proving the existence of a pool in restraint of trade.
