In the eighth son landed for two hits each. Cross at "Logs" Martin rapped out a pretty sin-gle; but it availed him little, for he was caught in a double play a second drives that should have gone for hits. Later. Enthused by Martin's feat, Fred Bousse sizzled one over second, but he evanised at the first station when Well ters fouled to Lave Cross. In the ninth is told in the box score and summary, one out Weldon beat out an infield hit. Springs hit to Dahbard. Springs hit to Dobbard and unheard of horrors to the matinee bugs in the Gem -- be bussed for a slight second, then corraled the sphere and uncorked a wild corrained the sphere and uncorked a wild throw to Garman. With two men on and one down. Togo Bentley advanced. "He's overdue," was the exclamation that came from a thousand throats. Like the Normal college orators, the fans were deading too much in visions, for Bentley lifted a foul fly to Garman. Two were down, two were on and Jackson had a vision of a story he read when a mese child—something about a man called "Casey." "Not for mine," decided Mr. Jackson, as he took his places. place. A ball was called and then a strike, another ball and a foul- Biff' Duvie had uncorked a fast one and unexpectedly to him and nine burning in sects it had collied with Jackson's bat. Cut in left Conts was making frantic efforts, but the ball was making more.

But don't get too far away from "Tony" Walters. While all of these feats were being bottled up and before, too, for that matter, the Madison toothist was taking the leading role in the "buzz fast." In the very first from Humphrey mided by Beusse's error. McHugh's near samrifice and Garman's single, reached the third station. Tony didn't like this same the buzzed some to result—Cross flied to short and Coutts to left. In the sixth Humphrey again became threatening, landing at third with one down, but the same thing happened—viz.

was easy sating for Tomy, though Dotard did reach third in the ninth with two down. Of course, under such conditions as this, Teny allowed the batter to lift an easy fly.

Then, with all the pitching, the fielders of both teams vied with one and another in the brilliance of their work.

Te Rickard and Springs, however, must be accorded the largest measure of fielding honors. In the fifth Rickard rose up in the air, and pulled down a line drive with one hand. Immediately Taxis hit one to the left field femce,

very least, was auspicious—were heard
such an expression before? Cross, Hicks,
Jackson, Dobard, Taxis and some others, too, were fielding like fleeds and the ers, too, were fleshing like flends and the game—to stop and get to the second one—was simply great from a fielding, behavior, unpere, pitching and every other standpoint, except hitting—and it couldn't be this and all the rest at the same time.

Second Game.

Greenshore at Winston.

Christy Mathewson must have had a vision of such a game as the first one uncorked at Cone park yesterday when he wrote his famous classic. "Won in the Nisth," for with two down Jackson landed for a screaming two bagger, Weildon crossing the pan with the only run of the game. The second exhibition however, bore none of the earmarks of the "fade away" masterpiece, and Lave Cross and has insects bagged it hand samely, the board showing six runs for But, for a simmering, rip-roaring.

Second Game.

"Jacob Augustus Ridgeway," an nounced Mr. Beusse, while Lave Cross and the players lined up for the second hattle, Prancis replaction Taxis for Charlette and the local incup remaining the same. The game wasn't equal to the first exhibition, not because we lost, but simply because the same shade Eleven first come of which might have been fielded with the same dash as display sed in the first game, were secured by the insects, while Brazille allowed only five. Six errors also counted material But, for a simmering, rip-roaring, bhimsard-buster that first exhibition was been dead acticle."
