"The Great Impersonation"
Settings representing many different sections of the globe are seen in the new George Melford production, "The Great Impersonation," featuring James Kirkwood which comes to the Bijou theater today for a two-days run.

The picture opens with scenes supposedly laid to a room in Oxford university in England. Then it takes the spectator to a jungle in German East Africa, through the jungle to a clearing and a thatched cabin. The two principal characters there exchange reminiscences, and scenes in Vienna and England are introduced.

The following scenes show the interior of the Kaiser's secret war room on the Wilhelmstrasse in Berlin, just prior to the great war. The picture then flashes to scenes in London, showing the quarters of the German Ambassador, and then there is seen a setting representing the offices in Scotland Yard and other diplomatic offices.

"Bill and Bob" a picture that is of special interest to all Boy scouts, the latest Burton Holmes travel picture and continuous music by the Bijou concert orchestra and symphony pipe organ are the added attractions.

Louise Glaum at Isle.
Brilliant screen artist that she is, Louise Glaum never approached, at least in histrionic impressiveness, the characterization which she is to offer on the Isle theater screen beginning today, according to the New York critics who have seen "Sex," the new J. Parker Read, Jr., production, released by Houlkings.

As Adrienne Renault, dazzling butler of the Frivolity roof, Miss Glaum is a scintillant, entrancing picture, as volatile, as radiant as life can be in the wild nocturnal vortex of Manhattan. Then, as a different Adrienne, married, devoted to her husband and her home she gives a poignant insight into the heart of the woman who is destined to pay for despoiling the happiness of others by the destruction of her castle of dreams.

MENTALITY TEST FOR MILL TOWN CHILDREN

Will Be Carried Out By Dr. L. A. Williams and L. H. Jobe, of the University Faculty
(Special to Daily News)
Chapel Hill, Nov. 8.—An elaborate test of the mentality of the children of a certain mill village in North Carolina is to be carried on during the coming week by Dr. L. A. Williams, professor of school administration in the University, and his assistant, L. H. Jobe. The work is being done at the request of the school authorities of the village, and its results may have a far-reaching effect on educational practice elsewhere.

The tests which a school child undergoes are of two kinds. One is an achievement test, the other an intelligence test. The first shows what the child has achieved as a result of his studies; the second shows the level of his natural intelligence. The dependability of both has been established by educational experts. Dr. Williams has been carrying on these tests for more than five years, and is the author of a number of monographs on the subject.

The present survey is a result of a discovery made last year when he went to the same village to conduct studies to serve as a basis for school organization. It was found that in achievement the children here were at a much lower level than children of the same age in other places. Inquiry disclosed that the parents of 94 per cent of the children worked in the mills. Whether these facts bear the relation to one another of cause and effect is not known. There may be conditions other than occupational, peculiar to the village under study, that explain the capacity of the children. Later investigations there and in other places will clear up this condition.

Men who were at the army training camps in 1917 and 1918 will remember undergoing intelligence and educational tests—answering various questions which seemed so fantastic to the victims, but which had a definite and useful purpose. It is these same tests, with modifications, that are supplied to the school children. The educational department at the University has been giving courses in tests for four summers, and there are several dozen teachers who have taken these courses. The University keeps in stock the cards and sheets used in different kinds of tests, and supplies the schools at cost.

CAROLINA AND DAVIDSON WILL CLASH SATURDAY

Special Train Will Carry Chapel Hill Excursionists to Winston-Salem.
Fred Morris, Out of Game
(Special to Daily News)
Chapel Hill, Nov. 8.—Coach Fetzer had seemed to have the line-up of the Carolina football team definitely fixed when Fred Morris got his collar bone broken in the M. I. game at Richmond last Saturday. Now who will go in as a back, besides Lowe, Johnson and Gillon, is a guess.

Naturally, the substitutions made at Richmond last week offer the best guide. There were no replacements made until the last quarter, but when victory was assured, some of the Carolina men who had been cooling on the bench were sent in. First McDonald went in for Gillon, then Morris was hurt, Edwards was sent in, and Pharr was the third substitute. Every man can make his own guess as to which of these three will be on the eleven when the first whistle blows in the Davidson game at Winston-Salem next Saturday. If previous years' records are taken into account, the forecasters will pick Pharr. He played in both 1919 and 1920, being put out of the game in 1919 by an injury received in the State college contest. A jubilant crowd is preparing to go to Winston-Salem on a special train leaving here early Saturday morning. The outcome of Carolina's two latest games, against Maryland and V. M. I., has given the students an abounding confidence in the team.

Hurry, Mother! A teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup" now will thoroughly clean the little bowels and in a few hours you have a well, playful child again. Even a cross, feverish, constipated child loves its "fruity" taste, and mothers can rest easy because it never fails to work all the sour bile and poisons right out of the stomach and bowels without griping or upsetting the child.

Tell your druggist you want only the genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother, you must say "California." Refuse any imitation.

YOUR COUGH IS A RED FLAG OF TIMELY WARNING

Disregard It and Disaster May Lie Right Ahead.

You have not been feeling quite fit—you are unaccountably tired at the least exertion, you feel depressed and blue, your head aches, at times complete inertia steals over you—you realize that you are only about 50 per cent efficient. Mother Nature has been doing her best to warn you, and you have disregarded all her hints. Now you have a cough.

Perhaps your cough is an after effect of a cold, perhaps it lies in the chest, in the bronchial tubes, possibly it's a stomach cough, it may be that you fool yourself by saying it's hereditary. The kind is of comparatively little concern.

A cough in itself may not be more than irritating. But that cough neglected and permitted to hang on will lead to complications. The time to eradicate the cough is at its first warning—the way is to take Dr. Cheney's Expectorant which goes right to the seat of the trouble. A cough is a symptom—use Dr. Cheney's Expectorant to correct the cause.

Dr. Cheney's Expectorant has been sold for over sixty years. It is a remedy proven throughout three generations and thousands upon thousands attest its marvelous healing powers. Keep it in the house—it is just as good for colds, bronchitis, whooping cough, croup or any of the affections of throat or lungs. A bottle of Dr. Cheney's Expectorant is an insurance policy against grippe, influenza, pneumonia, catarrh, bronchitis, asthma, quinsy, sore throat, etc., with their attendant heavy doctor bills.

Sold by all druggists and in smaller towns by general merchants, in 30c and 60c bottles.
