CHARITY ORGANIZATIONS TO MEET 10 A. M. TODAY

Will Try to Work Out Policy For Handling Stream of Transient Unemployed.

A PERPLEXING SITUATION

In order that some sort of system may be worked out for the handling of the unusually large number of unemployed people passing through the city, J. D. Wilkins has called a meeting of the numerous charity organizations to be held in the assembly room of the chamber of commerce this morning at 10 o'clock. The situation, while not alarming as yet, is causing charity organizations considerable perplexity. It is understood from good authorities that there are many local persons out of work, but this isn't causing any great amount of worry; but the transient or itinerant class is pressing local organizations for a solution of the vexed problem.

Many of the peripatetic ones passing through the city are former service men; this class in particular is calling upon local charity for help. It is understood that 19 ex-service men called on the Red Cross yesterday asking for help. The county welfare office was besieged yesterday by many callers, several with families on their hands, requesting assistance. The Salvation army, it is said, for the past week has furnished lodging to an average of 10 men per night.

It is stated by local legion officials that many of the former service men becoming stranded here are men just released from the various government hospitals. One man here yesterday asking for help had just been discharged at a government hospital in South Carolina. He left the reservation with only $2 given him by the Red Cross, so the story goes. He had been shot to pieces on the battlefields of France. Orders came down for his discharge on short notice. He was wholly unprepared financially to be turned out. His home is in Massachusetts. It is true the government paid him an allowance while he was in the hospital, but soldier-like, he probably squandered it as fast as he received it. But, he that as it may be was discharged without money and consequently thrown on the mercy of sweet charity.

So what the meeting this morning will try to work out is some system whereby these transients may be handled. As it is at present each charity organization sends him from one place to another; this takes up the time of a dozen organizations probably; whereas if there is a policy worked out, when a transient calls on the station master or the travelers' aid representative, these representatives can immediately send him to the proper place.

During the peak of unemployment, it has been suggested that the city may probably help these men by providing temporary work for them. Someone has suggested the opening up of a wood yard, or some other sort of municipal work, where these men, may be given work—work enough to provide them with the absolute necessities of life.

The following organizations are expected to take part in today's meeting: Y. M. C. A., Red Cross, American legion, American Legion auxiliary, Travelers' aid, Salvation army, Police department, station masters, chamber of commerce, employment bureau, employment bureau of the American legion, and any other organization desiring to help in solving the problem.

GENERAL PRINCIPLES AT START, SAYS M. BRIAND

Expected Outline of Questions At Issue Soon After German Opens.

Talks of German Danger.

Washington, Nov. 9.—General principles upon which questions at issue are to be settled will be laid down in the first days of the conference on limitation of armament and Pacific and far eastern questions, according to Premier Briand of France at a conference with American newspaper correspondents. He discussed freely the work of the conference and the steps in which he and his associates in the French delegation will approach it for half an hour.

"My conception of the first days of the conference," the premier said, "is that it will consider and lay down the principles upon which naval armaments, land armaments, and Pacific questions are to be settled. It will be for the conference itself to decide the range of discussions, but my feeling is that it will not go beyond the lines I have indicated and as stipulated in the agenda, already approved by the participating governments."

"Will the question of European debts to the United States come up?" he was asked.

"I do not think so," he replied. "France has no disposition to bring forward the question and I do not see that any subject not upon the program could be considered without the consent of all the governments represented."

In discussing the size of the French army, M. Briand said:

"Our army has been reduced greatly and is in process of further reduction. We are going to the extreme limit consistent with the security of France, and I may say, of Europe. We are in the presence of a disorganized Europe. Germany is disarmed as to artillery and as to small weapons, but with 60,000,000 people and with an industrial power that could create arms and war material with great rapidity.

"We are in the presence of two volcanoes. On the other side of Germany is sovietic Russia in full eruption. The German volcano is rumbling. The only barrier is Poland. Should that barrier fall, we would have the two countries of eruption uniting. We must have sufficient strength to deal with eventualities affecting the world. The United States will understand the significance of that duty, because she has sent so many men across the ocean, for what I may call world reasons."

LEO CARRILLO MAKES A BIG HIT AT THE GRAND

He is Able Supported by a Fine Cast of Performers in "Lombardi Ltd." Retains Engagement.

The best show except "The Hat" that has visited Greensboro this season, and in all likelihood one of the best that will be here this year, was seen last night by an audience that half filled the house. "Lombardi Ltd." was the attraction, with Leo Carrillo playing the lead. It is a delightful comedy, delightfully played, and the fact that the house was not jammed in Greensboro's loss; because there will not be many such in the course of the season.

Mr. Carrillo, as the temperamental, but lovable Italian designer, carried the hearts of his audience with him from his first appearance on the stage until the last curtain fell. Physically and temperamentally he seems to be suited eminently to the part he played last evening. But he had excellent support. The cast, down to the least important member, had been selected with care, and was fully competent; but first honors go to John C. Kilns, as the bookkeeper, Eleanor Williams as Daisy, a mammie, and Ethel Dwyer, as Nora, Lombardi's assistant.

However, there is a chance for Greensboro people to retrieve their reputation as "discriminating" theatergoers, for it is announced by the management of the Grand that a return engagement of this attraction will be played later on in the year.

NORTH SEA TO BE CROSSED BY THE WIRELESS TELEPHONE

Special Cable to Daily News. (Copyright, 1921, by Philadelphia Public Ledger.) London, Nov. 9.—The establishment of regular wireless telephone connections between London and Holland requires only the approval of the post-office. The plan is to lay land wires to Southwold, Suffolk, and from Vandevoort to Rotterdam and Amsterdam. The North Sea is to be crossed by wireless. Tests already have proved successful.

"The great expense is the only obstacle to similar service between London and New York," said a Marconi official. A much more powerful current is needed to convey the delicate modulation of the human voice across the Atlantic than to carry merely dots and dashes of sound."

Major Dismissed From Service.

San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 9.—A sentence of dismissal from the military service was returned in open court at Fort Sam Houston by a general court-martial in the case of Major Guy H. Wyman, cavalry, charged in seven specifications, with violation of the 98th article of war and found guilty of six. The specifications hinged around the manner in which the defendant married a French ward.
