Schofield to Sing.
Edgar Schofield, the bass baritone who shared the honors with Geraldine Farrar in the musical festival here last spring, is to sing in concert in High Point next Wednesday night. The announcement will be of interest to Greensboro people who heard Mr. Schofield last year, his work here being received by many with even greater appreciation than was accorded Farrar. He has a baritone voice that is warm and luscious, and his personality was magnetic. All last season he sang in concert with Farrar, appearing in a number of the big festivals and with her in exception he thrilled and inspired his audiences.

The High Point concert will be given in the city auditorium, seats being handled and reserved by the Ring Drug company. R. R. Thurman, of High Point, is sponsoring the concert in the neighboring city.

"Doug" Holds "Open House."
Thousands of tourists visit the picture studios in Los Angeles each year. In fact, watching the movies move in their native habitat is the great outdoor sport with tourists when they kick the dust of the effects cast off their brows as they view the "Sunny Southland."

But no tourist considers his tour of studios complete without a visit to the Douglas Fairbanks or Mary Pickford film factory. And under ordinary circumstances it is as difficult for a tourist to get into either of these studios as it is to wear kilties in the Arctic. However, during the filming of "The Three Musketeers," which will be the feature attraction next week at the Grand theater, Douglas Fairbanks lifted the ban and received all comers in the visiting class.

They came from all corners of the earth. Some were fat, others lean; some were tall, others short. Regardless of stature, however, all were curious. Which was right, of course, and as it should be.

In order that he might have a record of the callers he received and shook hands with, Doug installed a register at the reception gate where all visitors could sign their names and addresses. Seats go on sale tomorrow morning at the box office at 10 o'clock. No seats will be reserved for the matinee.

New Ferguson Picture.
Wearing the latest Parisian fashionable gowns, Elsie Ferguson will prove a big attraction to society women of Greensboro when her latest Paramount picture, "Sacred and Profane Love" is displayed at the Bijou theater today. The gowns recently came from Paris, where they were purchased by the star en route home from her six-months' trip around the world. The latest designs by Callot; Lumiere models by Madeline et Madeline and a score of others reflect the very latest dictates of the fashion setters.

"Sacred and Profane Love" is a William D. Taylor production, adapted by Julia Crawford Pevs from the story and play by Arnold Bennett. Conrad Nagel, Thomas Holding and Winifred Greenwood are in the leading roles. Along with "Sacred and Profane Love" will be shown another one of the Bob and Bill pictures, showing how a couple of boy scouts can catch wild animals bare-handed. Burton Holmes travel picture and continuous music by the Bijou concert orchestra and symphony pipe organ are the other extra features.

"The Silver Lining" At Isis.
The old saw that "truth is stranger than fiction" applies with peculiar force to the Metro release of the Roland West production, "The Silver Lining," starring the beautiful Jewel Carmen. This six-reel feature picture relates a story that to the spectator will doubtless seem to have been the invention of a fertile fancy, yet it is based entirely upon truth for it is a slice of real life as personally observed by Mr. West, who penned the original story and then directed it for the screen.

The heroine of "The Silver Lining," known as "The Angel" (the leading role, enacted by Miss Carmen), was a girl born in the middle west, who graduated from a small town orphan asylum into the giddy whirl of the life of the demi-monde. After many thrilling adventures, plotted in "The Silver Lining," she is today a matron of high social standing in a large eastern city where those who move in her exclusive circles have not the slightest idea that she was at one time part of a "mob" which caused the police of many cities endless trouble.

The tangled skein of roguery and romance which entraps "the victim" in the picture is drawn from the enthralling adventures of a young author whose literary contributions have given him no little fame and who found a story more engrossing in his actual life than ever he penned in the products of his imagination.

As for the villain of "The Silver Lining," he was a confidence man who for years gave the Federal secret service agents a lot of trouble until he reformed and devoted the rest of his life to tracking down men who like himself had broken the law. He is now living in a foreign land and is a prosperous man of means whose fund of information about the doings of the free and easy is a continual source of delight to his business associates and friends.
The extra added attractions are a new comedy entitled "Betty's Green Eyed Monster," and a new Savini review. The Isis orchestra always renders new and popular selections at each performance.

BAD BLOOD RUINS COMPLEXIONS

Pepto-Mangan Makes Rich, Red Blood—Liquid or Tablets.

The woman whose complexion is muddy and almost sallow has blood that is clogged with poisons. She awakens in the morning with a languid feeling. She seems to have no energy at all.

Her blood is weak and thin and she needs to take Gude's Pepto-Mangan for a while, as thousands of women do when they feel run down. It makes rich, red blood. Where blood was thin and weak it becomes rich and red. Then that woman who has had such a bad complexion and has found it so hard to do things, begins to look a lot rosier. She doesn't look so droopy and tired. In a little while the look on her face brightens, her complexion clears up, and she feels happier.

The druggist in your neighborhood sells Gude's Pepto-Mangan. It has been recommended by doctors for years. Take your choice because the medicinal value is the same. The name, "Gude's Pepto-Mangan," is on each package.—Advertisement.

DOES SMALL FARM PAY?

Theron Parker, Of Near Kinston, Proves That It Does.

(Special to Daily News.)

Kinston, Nov. 15.—Can a small farm be made to pay in this region of tobacco and cotton plantations? In a question that Theron Parker, owner of the most unique four-acre estate in the territory, is preparing to answer. Parker has just completed preparations. During 1922 his tiny plantation will bloom like a flower garden, literally like a flower garden, he asserts. His four acres are located near Grainger, a few minutes' ride from here. The ground looks as though it had been swept clean with a broom. On the place is the most elaborate dual drainage and irrigation system in eastern Carolina, considering the size of the farm. There are four bricked-in wells, with a power pump, and pipe lines and well-constructed small canals. A part of the time, during dry weather, Parker's crops will need moisture from the wells, he states.

There is no animal on the Parker farm other than chickens. He has stocked a henery with fowls of three standard breeds. Small workshops and out buildings have been erected. The tiny fields have been worked and reworked and fertilized until the soil is in perfect condition. There will be an amazing variety of crops next year, of vegetables and flowers. Already there are winterbearing strawberries, feathery ferns and chrysanthemums and other things growing out of doors on the tiny plantation, all appearing to have ignored the several frosts that have come save chrysanthemums, thousands of enormous yellow flowers growing on plants as tall as a man's head. Over the chrysanthemum "field" a temporary plank shelter has been erected, 5,000 feet of lumber having been used for this. Parker, who at one time was a truck farmer near Omaha and another proprietor of the biggest florist's business at Chicago, has located here for the climate's sake. His unique farm is not a commercial venture, although there are already a thousand dollars worth of chrysanthemums on the place which he is making no effort to market. It will simply be "home" to this man who took a bit of a wilderness and converted it into a garden of golden chrysanthemums.

WALNUT COVE NEWS.

"Pounding" Given Methodist Minister. Junior Order Address.

(Special to Daily News.)

Walnut Cove, Nov. 15.—Last Tuesday night, November 8, the Methodist people and friends "pounded" the new preacher, Rev. Mr. Rutledge, with such force that he himself stated it was the best in his memory. The large number of his congregation participating in the pounding filled the pastor's long dining table and overflowing. From the "ceiling" of the table stood 50 pounds of flour. Around this were sacks of sugar, coffee, buckets of syrup, butter, and many other wrapped articles unknown.

Saturday night marks the culmination of the fine working spirit of the ladies of the Baptist church. Unassisted by the brethren, the ladies prepared and served wonderful supper. The treasurer of the ladies' society reports that $1.00 was cleared, and that the proceeds of the supper will be used to beautify their church.

At 7:30 the Walnut Cove Council No. 211, Jr. O. U. A. M. had the distinguished honor of having the state committee, L. D. Mendenhall, deliver to a well-filled house a wonderful speech on how to increase and improve the great work of the Junior Order. In his discourse, Mr. Mendenhall stated that the work of the order was progressing very nicely all over the state. Like a pebble thrown in the water, the waves reaching to the farthest shore, so a little extra interest and energy from the council chamber will set other units to work for greater benefits to the town and community.
