DH. McCracken Rapidly on the Road to Recovery

(Special to Daily News.)
Guilford College, Nov. 19.—On Tuesday night, Dr. J. P. McCracken was found by the side of his car one mile north of Guilford College. He was unconscious for a short while as a result of not having been well recently and worryment from cranking his car, which produced a strained heart, and an overflow of blood to the lungs, but he was soon cared for and brought to his home by friends, a doctor called and he is greatly improved and is getting along nicely.

ITALY NOW CRITICISING HUGHES' NAVAL SCHEME

Technical Experts Want Big Modern Navy—Others Fear Anglo-Saxon Domination.

SAY HUGHES NOT SINCERE

(Special Cable to Daily News.)
By CLARENCE K. STREET.
(Copyright, 1921, by Philadelphia Public Ledger.)
Rome, Nov. 19.—A wave of criticism has followed the expressions of approval with which the press first received Secretary Hughes' proposal for disarmaments. The plan is attacked on one hand by experts from a technical standpoint and on the other by nationalists who fear that it means Anglo-Saxon domination of the world, with the Latin nations reduced to second rate powers.

Typical of the former is General Valsecchi, chief of naval engineering, who has built many of the most important Italian units. In an interview today he declares that assigning specified tonnages to each power is not "a sincere or a technically just basis for the establishment of limitation of armaments founded on a proportional equilibrium in strength."

General Valsecchi argues other elements such as speed, age and armament of warships are so important that a navy of 100,000 tons might be easily superior to one of double that tonnage. Regarding the situation of Italy, he says that a great blockade could ruin the nation and concludes that "peace in the Mediterranean is to be really assured Italy must have a navy not inferior to that of any other nation which has political, commercial or economic interests in the Mediterranean. As our most modern warships, compared with those of other powers, are already antiquated, to base our naval strength on tonnage would be disastrous for us. If the Washington conference truly wishes to further the ends of peace by a just limitation of armaments, the importance of this argument which is capital to us cannot be ignored."

NEW WHOLESALE FIRM FORMED AT BURLINGTON

It is The Smith-Williamson Inc.—Red Cross Distributor—This Week—Other Burlington News

(Special to Daily News.)
Burlington, Nov. 19.—A new wholesale firm has been chartered by the state to conduct a candy and confectionery business in Burlington. The name of the new firm is Smith-Williamson, Inc., and it is composed of J. Williams, president; Ben J. Williamson, vice-president; W. P. Smith, secretary and treasurer. The new wholesale firm will occupy the Walter building on Spring street, and will begin business within a short time. The organization of this new business firm is another indication of the growth and development of Burlington.

The Burlington chapter, U. D. Royal Arch Masons, staged a big event here Thursday afternoon and night when about 40 members were given the Royal Arch degree and the three degrees leading up to the supreme degree. An important part of the program was a banquet given in the chamber of commerce dining hall by the ladies of the First Christian church. E. R. Parker, Jr., of Graham, was toastmaster and delivered a fine speech. Grand exalted high priest, John J. Phoenix, of Greensboro, was the principal speaker at the banquet. Attendants at the ceremonies and banquet included Masons from Greensboro, Asheville, Graham, Mebane and Haw River. The local lodge of Royal Arch Masons has been organized only a few months and has a membership of nearly 100.

The new brick building that has been under construction for several weeks by a local real estate firm, located on West Wall street, is nearing completion. It is expected to be ready for occupancy by next week, and will be occupied by one of the local bottling plants.

The membership drive of the Red Cross will be executed here next Tuesday, J. L. Scott, chairman of the local chapter, is organizing his forces and preparing for the drive. The organization will consist of four captains with ten assistants each, and a thorough canvass of the town will be made on Tuesday afternoon. The selected workers will meet in a banquet at the Chamber of Commerce dining hall and plans for the drive will be completed. Every citizen of the town will be asked for $1 as payment for membership in the organization for the year 1922.

BULCK STILL HOLDS AN ENVIABLE POSITION IN AUTOMOBILE WORLD.

In the automobile world, Buick several years ago attained the enviable position of leadership, evidenced by the fact it was awarded first choice of space at the national automobile shows, an honor conferred upon Buick by all other automobile manufacturers who are members of the National Automobile chamber of commerce, in recognition of the fact that Buick has done the greatest volume of business during the previous year.

As each year has since rolled around, Buick has been in the lead. Not only for a short period does it lead all others, but year after year its business constantly increases, with the result that the Buick exhibit will be found this year occupying the same space at the shows it has occupied for the past few years.

It is significant to note that the figures on which the award for the 1922 shows were made comprised only the sales of six cylinder cars, proving Buick to be the largest builder of six-cylinder cars in the world.
