Three or Four Power Agreement Is Talked at the Arms Conference

tion to take up that proposal, and it has been mentioned more than once to the American delegates during their informal conversations with their foreign associates.
These hints have never brought the subject to the point of a formal exchange of views, however, nor never revealed even to the heads of the foreign delegations just how far the United States might be willing to go in that direction. Neither will the American representatives discuss the question publicly, but they are known to regard it as fraught with many complicated possibilities.

Must Feel Out Senate.
In every consideration of a possible treaty or international understanding to replace the alliance, the American delegates have kept in mind the possible temper of the senate should it be asked to ratify such an agreement. With two senators sitting as members of the delegation, it is assumed that if a formal treaty were negotiated, senate sentiment first would be carefully canvassed. An "understanding" would not require senate confirmation, but it is conjectural how binding an agreement of that character President Haring and his plenipotentiaries would care to effect.

With the reassembling of the senate today for the new term there were indications that senators were watching the trend of the negotiations with growing interest and that a discussion revealing the opinions of some members of the treaty ratifying body might be precipitated on the senate floor within a few days.
KATO DENIES THAT JAPAN PLAYS A BARGAINING GAME
Washington, Dec. 5.—Emphatic denial that Japan is playing "what is called a bargaining game" in Washington was made tonight by Admiral Baron Kato, acting head of the Japanese delegation to the arms conference in a formal statement. He attributed delays to the cable situation, adding that the issues involved could not be decided without "the full knowledge and consideration of the Japanese government."
Baron Kato said he was convinced the conference should be able to agree on an adjustment "fair to all parties," and added that he and his colleagues would spare no effort toward the "earliest possible conclusion consistent with wisdom and foresight."
Newspaper reports that Japan was playing a bargaining game, he said, were "contrary to the facts," and much to be regretted since they link "such an unworthy motive" in the popular mind with "the honest endeavor for the betterment and progress of mankind."
The statement follows:
"The question of limitation of naval armament involves issues which are of far reaching effect upon the national and international life of Japan and on the policies of great powers for decades to come and perhaps permanently. These issues should be brought to the full knowledge and consideration of the Japanese government before definite action is taken. Unfortunately there are at present serious delays on the cables, and naturally the consultation with Tokio on such important problems cannot be completed in too short a space of time."
"In any case, I am, as I have always been, firmly convinced that the conference should be able to agree upon plans of adjustment that will be fair to all parties and will incalculably benefit not only the nations concerned but the whole world. No effort will be spared on my part or that of my colleagues to bring the various questions to the earliest possible conclusion consistent with wisdom and foresight."

LONDON HAS CLOSE CALL FROM VERY GREAT PERIL
(Correspondence Associated Press.)
London, Nov. 16.—This city has just narrowly escaped a great peril, the possible caving in of Oxford circus, the shopping center of the west end, says a story circulated by a news agency. The danger of the disaster was known only to contractors and workers underground. They were altering an exit from the Oxford circus tube station so as to make an entrance into a business building when the contractors discovered a bed of a little unknown tributary of the Thames river which was covered over when Regent street was made.

New Jersey has 2 1-2 million souls and a lot of corporation officers.

An Open Letter To Hon. Claude Kiser Mayor Of Greensboro

Your election to the mayoralty of your attractive city is a vote of confidence on the part of your constituency in your integrity and ability. I congratulate the people of Greensboro. They are entitled to the best in executives as in all other things that are a matter of pride with all progressive cities. In view of this fact will you not, through the courtesy of Manager Cunningham, of the National Theater, honor us with the presence of yourself and your official family on Monday evening, December 12, which is the opening date of the remarkable screen version of Vicente Blasco Ibanez' epochal story of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," which has been acclaimed by notables high in fame and art as the masterpiece of its kind and give us your opinion as to whether or not Metro is not entitled to honors for producing the greatest picture of all time.
