"Domestic Relations"
Katherine MacDonald will be seen in a "different" style of photoplay when her latest production, "Domestic Relations," a First National attraction, is seen for the first time in this city at the Imperial theater today.

"Domestic Relations" is essentially what its title implies—the story of the adjustment of a life together of man and woman. Two married couples are made use of for the story. One, Judge and Mrs. James Benton, aristocratic, blue blooded and typically representing the better class of citizenship. The second couple are Mr. and Mrs. Jake Martin, a laborer with a pretty young wife, and when she transgresses what he has set up as his own code of behavior he resorts to physical force and is sentenced to a term in prison by Judge Benton.

On the other side of the story, when Benton's wife does some trivial thing that provokes his displeasure, he resorts to "mental cruelty,"

When he finds her in a situation open to misinterpretation he immediately jumps to an erroneous conclusion and proceeds to risk his entire future by ordering his young and beautiful wife from his house. The wife, innocent of her own innocence and shocked at the lack of faith of her husband, leaves.

It is real drama, and a big and powerful exposition of everyday life that married people will appreciate because it is so faithful and true of a great percentage of modern marriages.

"Rough on Romeos," clever Snub Pollard comedy, and Pathe Review are other features of the program.

"Burning Sands" Today
One of the best catch-as-catch-can fights to be seen on the screen in some time is a feature of George Melford's new Paramount production of "Burning Sands." There were no rehearsals of the scene in which Milton Silla and Robert Cain "go to the mat," but had to be taken several times, as usual. Both men were in prime training and hardened habitues of the Legion stadium, after seeing the film battle, remarked that the fight was one of the most realistic ever seen on the screen.

Wanda Hawley and Mr. Silla featured in "Burning Sands," which will be shown at the National theater today. In the story, Miss Hawley is an English girl who falls in love with Daniel Lane, a hermit who lives alone on an oasis in the desert. This is the part portrayed by Mr. Silla. In the course of the action, Barthampton, a renegade Englishman, plans to abduct the girl and is prevented by Lane from executing his design after a terrible battle in which Barthampton is killed.

VIRTUES OF LEAGUE HIDDEN BY POLITICS
Dr. L. L. Hobbs Tells College Students War Have Been Prevented by League Action

Dr. L. L. Hobbs, former president of Guilford College, addressed the student body of the North Carolina college at the chapel hour yesterday on "Disarmament and the League of Nations." Dr. Hobbs traced the development of the league of nations idea, and regretted the fact that such a question should have gotten into politics. The moment the question of the league got into politics, he said, not one person in a thousand gave any further attention to the league—it ceased to be a question at all. One party merely endorsed it and the other opposed. It was impossible for people after that to see the merits of the league.

We cannot disarm by conference agreements, Professor Hobbs believes. The only way to effective disarmament is through the league of nations. He showed the league to be a going concern, with 51 nations now enrolled. The league is showing vitality and growing. The list of countries not in the league is such a list that the United States should not be proud to be numbered among them.

In explaining the organization of the league, Dr. Hobbs stated that it consisted of three parts: assembly, council and secretariat. The assembly meets once a year, and includes all the nations who are members; the council of eight nations meets throughout the year. The secretariat, which now numbers 300 persons, is in session all the time, and has accomplished a vast amount of work in the fields of law, economics and health. Already the league has been able to avoid wars in the Balkans and other places by asserting its authority and giving aid.

Dr. Hobbs referred to the trouble between Jugo-Slovakia and Albania, which was amicably adjusted. In the league of nations was the only hope of disarmament and world peace.

ANZACS WILL VOTE ON A WHISKY LAW
Proposed Law Prohibits Sale of Intoxicants to All Bona Fide Travelers.
(Correspondence Associated Press.)
Sydney, N. S. W., Oct. 31.—Liquor traffic modifications, in the shape of an amended licensing bill, may be introduced in western Australia as the result of a commission's inquiry into the question.

The proposal provides for a poll of assembly electors for a "yes" or "no" vote on prohibition every five years. No license shall be carried if there be a 40 per cent majority, provided that 40 per cent of the electors of the state vote for the proposal. A licensing court of three members will be appointed, with jurisdiction throughout the state to reduce licenses on the lines of the Victorian act. The compensation to be provided by a two per cent levy on the purchase price of liquor sold by licensed houses.

The sale of liquors to persons under 21 years of age would be prohibited and the sale to bona fide travelers would be abolished by the measure. Lodgers and bar employes must be registered and trading hours would be limited to between 9 a. m. and 7 p. m., except in the gold fields, where the bars might remain open until 11 p. m. The railway and restaurant licenses would be abolished, except those conferred under the railway act and these would be subject to the licensing court. Beer shall not exceed six per cent alcohol content and stout would be limited to 12 per cent alcohol. Any whiskey that is sold must have been in wood for at least three years.

CHINESE SOLDIERS COMPELLED TO WORK
Gen. Wu Pei-fu Says That Troops Will Be Placed at Work on Public Projects.
(Correspondence Associated Press.)
Shanghai, Oct. 31.—Supporters of the constitutionalist cause who in September marked time in Shanghai after their leader, Dr. Sun Yat-Sen, had come north from Canton and had set forth his position and his aims in a number of published statements, received with a degree of satisfaction an announcement of policy that was issued early in the month by Gen. Wu Pei-fu, the Chihli chieftain who defeated Chang Tso-lin in the early summer.

Doctor Sun has long advocated the employment of troops on public works as a measure to effect disarmament and this was made a tenet of a manifesto he issued shortly after his arrival in Shanghai. A viewpoint that parallels that which Doctor Sun has been urging is seen by the southern leaders in General Wu's announcement of policy. This statement of General Wu says in part:

"At present each soldier costs the people five taels a month. This is a direct burden. After two years' my soldiers will cost the people only two taels a month each, as I am going to make them work. They will be compelled to earn three-fifths of their pay through their own labor. Through the profits from mine and even greater profits from agricultural enterprises, we shall take up afforestation on an extensive scale, and devote also much money to the building of roads and their upkeep."

In Pennsylvania roller skaters are permitted the use of the highways as long as they observe the traffic laws, to which they are subject the same as vehicles.
