AWFUL CONSEQUENCES FOLLOW TURNING BACK CHILDREN'S WORTH IS DUE TO THE RAINING

"Exhibition of Moral Insanity Worse Than Suicidal," Says Dr. J. H. Barnhardt. Rev. R. Murphy Williams Preaches On Obligations of Parents to Children.

BIG MISSION OF CHURCH POWER OF TEMPTATION

The terrible consequences of turning back from the Christian walk were strikingly emphasized by Dr. J. H. Barnhardt in his sermon at West Market Street Methodist church yesterday morning, the minister exhorting, "What must men be thinking about, to do this thing, to turn their backs to the enemy of their souls?"

"Then said Jesus unto the twelve, Will ye also go away? Then Simon Peter answered him, Lord, to whom shall we go? thou has the words of eternal life." The preacher declared it "a serious indictment of human sagacity, to say nothing of moral sanity, that people should prefer shadows to light. For those who have enjoyed the satisfying 'warmth' of his wonderful personality, and then deliberately go out from his presence into the bleak winter of unbelief and opposition, is an exhibition of moral insanity which is worse than suicidal." Such performances were found indicative of fundamental defects in moral fiber and sincerity.

The "deadly condition of barrenness in the fields of the kingdom" was deplored, the speaker finding that "one of the troublesome realities of every pastorate is the dreadful state of delinquency manifest in a variable proportion of the membership of the church." Men and women have lost their enthusiasm for righteousness, their character is "inert in the fatal grasp of moral paralysis." Most frequently, it was held, that turning back may be attributed to the fact that these persons' motives were un-sound and un-Christian in the beginning. The old carnal, unregenerate nature has not been changed, and therefore Christ is a disappointment to them and they cannot accept His spiritual doctrine and demands.

Christ's objective, Dr. Barnhardt said, was not to win popular favor, but to save men's souls. "When he told people that he had come to 'feed their souls with bread from heaven and to stake their thirst from the wells of salvation,' they turned back to their old life with all the plodding stupidity of the senseless brute, and dismissed the divine Christ from their presence, as unprofitable and undesirable. Furthermore, 'the foolish, frivolous, low mind that would make the infinite God a mere convenience to serve as high priest at the sensual altars of his unregenerate life, never hesitates to sacrifice him to the most pressible torments of a perpetual Golgotha, if he fails to do it.'"

Some people declare the church should engage in social measures, championing all kinds of reform measures, they say "it ought to shovel coal in the cellars of the poor, and pay for it; it ought to establish a commissary for the hungry and an infirmary for the sick and a haberdashery for the naked—this is a sample of the things the church ought to be doing, and because they are fooling their time away preaching the gospel and getting people saved is the reason so many people are turning to the lodge and the club instead of the church." But Dr. Barnhardt insisted that "the only business of the kingdom of God on earth is to save men and women from their sins, and only as the ministry to their bodies stands related to that supreme end does such ministry become a duty at all." For a community to conclude that "beating a drum and collecting money and clothes, and glorifying the physical wants of the people into a sort of God to be worshiped, is the main business of Christ's church, is a prostitution of its distinctive purpose and a reflection upon the intelligence of Almighty God."

The speaker made it clear that he was not taking the position that the church should omit works of charity and healing and uplift of every kind. "We ought not to omit a reasonable amount of it; and we are not omitting it, as any one interested can find out if he wants to know. What I do denounce and condemn the widely prevalent notion that we have nothing else to do; and I recent comparisons of the church with other organizations on that score, with the intent and purpose of discrediting the church by such comparison."

To go back from Christ, the minister said, is "to recede from all that is good." It also means "to go toward all evil and its consequences," he declared. Earnestly he besought his hearers "not to drop out of the ranks." Last night Dr. Barnhardt preached interestingly "The Heart of Paul." A pleasing feature of the morning service was the offertory quartet, "Christian, the Morn Breaks Sweetly, O're Thee," by Mrs. H. M. Ware, W. K. Heas, Mrs. K. C. Benbow and Dr. T. Edgar Elkes.
