

GREAT CHURCH MOVE IS GIVEN ADDED IMPETUS

Every Pew Filled At Holy Trinity For Nation Wide Campaign Meeting.

BISHOP PENICK SPEAKS

Additional impetus was added last night to the progress of the nationwide campaign of the Episcopal church when the bishop coadjutor of the diocese and rectors of leading parishes spoke of work accomplished by the church and outlined a program for future activities before a large congregation of churchmen from Greensboro and surrounding towns which filled practically every pew in Holy Trinity church.

The meeting was a continuation of the general campaign started three years ago in all Episcopal churches. In outlining the real objective of the movement in his address last night, the Rev. S. S. Bost, rector of Saint Paul's church, Durham, said the primary object of the campaign is to enlist every member of the church in the task of saving the whole world and of rebuilding the Kingdom of God.

The Right Rev. Edwin A. Penick, D. D., of Charlotte, Bishop coadjutor for the Diocese of North Carolina, visited Greensboro last night for the first time since his consecration, and spoke to the congregation at Holy Trinity on the far-reaching importance of the campaign.

Services were opened by the Rev. Robert E. Gribbon, rector of St. Paul's church, Winston-Salem. Near the close of the service when an informal discussion of church work in progress, it was determined by having members from various parishes raise their hands, that churchmen from Winston-Salem, High Point, Reidsville, Burlington, Spray and other surrounding towns were included in the congregation which was largely composed of Greensboro members of St. Andrews and of Holy Trinity. High Point had the greatest number of out-of-town representatives.

First, telling his hearers that the true Christian must undergo great suffering and sacrifice to accomplish any worth while objective, Bishop Penick declared the "whole task of the church is nothing short of winning the whole world for Christ. Supporting his statements with statistical data, the speaker pointed to the great progress made in practically every line of church work since the inauguration of the nation-wide campaign. As a striking illustration of this progress he told how donations to the general missions fund increased more in the first year of the campaign than in the whole preceding century.

The bishop said the present generation is living in a privileged time when God has called it to take part in the righteous work of a great progressive upheaval in world affairs. "In this generation," he said, "we live on the great slope of a new upward endeavor." He urged every churchman to contribute his share of labor in the general program of world salvation.

Mr. Bost urged a more definite purpose and a fixed task for every churchman. He said every member should enter heartily into the work of the church, whether the task be great or small and placed especial emphasis upon the importance of prayer. Asserting that provincialism and narrowness crushes Christianity, he urged the congregation to look forward to a great universal church in which every member has some definite function to perform.

Using chalk and blackboard, Mr. Gribbon pictured the progress of the campaign by the use of figures. He outlined the work in home and foreign mission fields and presented facts concerning the receipts and disbursements of the church. H. N. Boune, of High Point; Rev. Jas. P. Burke, of Reidsville; and Rev. W. J. Gordon, of Spray, were among the church officials attending the service.
