

Democratic Chiefs Celebrate the Party's Victory of Nov. 7

Hearing of Cases Against Men Charged With Violation of Co-operative Marketing Contracts Are Begun Before Judge Lyon in Superior Court—No Decision Reached.

Greensboro Daily News Bureau.
Nov. 27. — Democracy's jubilate was sung by more than 300 of the faithful here tonight who banqueted at the Yarrowborough with that ancient days, James A. Hartness, toastmaster.

Chairman Dave Norwood picked the Fredell state man, whose ill-fated campaign for secretary of state six years ago made neither manager nor managed man. Both were among the high-ups and Mr. Hartness was accorded the interludic place in the show tonight, not because there weren't two scores of people here older than himself, but because he is the only man who has been a county chairman ever since he left his nurse's arms.

Quite a sprinkling of women came. They served the party as vice chairmen and in a large number of counties these organizations were perfected with fine functioning power. Chairman Norwood made a few introductory observations on the 37 counties that made Democratic gains or Republican losses, which served the same purpose this year. These hefty range all the way from three in far away little Gates to 2,131 in the Republican state of Wilkes. The high five which did the most notable Democratizing were Wilkes, Madison, Henderson, Sampson and Cabarrus, the Democrats completely overturning in Henderson and Cabarrus, the Republican majorities.

Mr. Norwood summed up the result in part as follows: "Although the official count has not yet been made it is known that W. T. Lee, who headed the Democratic state ticket, has a majority of 85,000 and that Judge Adams and Cranmer, who had opposition, have slightly larger majorities. This is the largest majority North Carolina ever gave any party in all her history.

"We elected all 10 congressmen by majorities from 7,000 to 12,000, gained two senators, eight senators and 19 representatives in the general assembly, and county officers in about 20 counties.

"Only four counties—Mitchell, Surry, Wilkes and Yadkin—will be represented in the next legislature by Republicans in both houses. The Republicans carried majorities for their entire ticket in only six counties—Graham, Mitchell, Sampson, Watauga, Wilkes and Yadkin. In all the others the entire Democratic ticket had majorities ranging from 3,731 in Buncombe to 37 in Swain for the head of the state ticket, or some Democrats were elected.

Judge C. C. Lyon took a day off with the co-operatives and the defendants in his court today charged with breaking their contracts with the Tri-State Tobacco Co-operative State Bar association convention. There has been such an array of counsel as came here today to resist the mandatory injunction and to ask a change of venue.

The co-operatives desired that all these cases be heard in Wake county, but this motion was bitterly fought by counsel for growers who thought the least that could be asked would be the right of trial in the own counties where the defendants are charged with breaching their agreements. Judge Lyon heard these arguments nearly all the morning then took a habeas corpus case for a moment, returning to the tobacco suits in the afternoon.

The chief case of interest following lunch was that against W. J. Ball, of Warren county, who put up the defense that his signature to the co-operative contract was procured by fraud. There was other testimony which figured in both sets of affidavits, those of Mr. Ball's household which charged that the co-operative booster, W. H. Palmer, and Mr. Ball got pretty well lit up and that the signer signed after having taken something from the jar. Mr. Palmer greatly depressed the hopes of many that liquor might have fallen in co-op hands, by citing the two or three small drinks in that jar, all of which would not have jarred anybody. There was other testimony that Mr. Ball had all the mentality that he needed in signing these covenants.

Seventeen men are defendants in this hearing but the Ball case was the most prominent and important. On the defense side were attorneys from all about. A. L. Brooks and W. M. Hendren came down from the west. L. M. Carlton and W. D. Merritt from Roxboro, Jones Fuller, S. C. Braxley and R. P. Rose from Durham, Polk and Polk from Warren, T. T. Hicks from Vance, Albion Dunn from Pitt, Col. W. R. Rodman from Washington, and about two-thirds of the local bar.

Furgess and Joyner, of Raleigh, and Levy, of California, argued the cases for the plaintiff association. Judge Lyon did not attempt to settle the first contention, that of venue, first. He went into the whole business. The plaintiffs combatting the proposal to move these cases back to the counties in which they originated had to meet the argument that North Carolina's system is a rotation plan of courts and that one judge should not hear all of these litigations. Each man should have his day in court and under conditions which gave him a chance to be tried by juries of his own people.

JUDGE BOND PRAISED BY CUMBERLAND BAR

Resolutions Commending Judge's Work Passed at Meeting of Lawyers.

(Special to Daily News.)

Fayetteville, Nov. 27.—Resolutions expressing the high esteem entertained by members of the Cumberland county bar for Judge W. M. Bond, of Edenton, who has completed his last term of superior court in the ninth district and will not return here for several years, for Solicitor S. B. MacLean, of Maxton, who will shortly retire from that office and from the practice of law; and for Henry E. Williams, member of the local bar, who will this week remove his residence from Fayetteville to Tampa, Fla., to practice his profession, were passed by the Cumberland Bar association at the conclusion of business before the court here Saturday.

In addition to the resolutions which expressed great admiration for the learning, ability and impartiality displayed by Judge Bond in the trial of causes and keen appreciation of his uniform courtesy and kindness, individual members of the bar gave expression to their personal admiration for the eminent jurist and of the many fine qualities which characterize him as a judge and a man. Replying, Judge Bond thanked the lawyers individually and collectively for their expressions of admiration and good will and declared that he was touched very deeply and would carry away with him "without a single exception the highest regard for the members of the Cumberland county bar."

GOMPERS ASSUMES VERY MUCH CREDIT

Labor Leader Claims to Have Elected Many Members of Congress, Nov. 7.

Washington, Nov. 27.—Credit for the election of 24 senators and 168 members of the house of representatives was claimed for the American Federation of Labor today, in a statement filed by Samuel Gompers, its president, and Frank Morrison and James O'Connell, who conducted political activities during the recent congressional campaign, for organized labor. The committee proposed, the report said, to bring about "co-operation of all labor and progressive organizations and groups so that there may be unity of action."

Nine members of the present senate, the committee said it had helped to defeat only one of whom, Senator Pomeroy of Ohio, was a Democrat. In addition, Albert J. Beveridge and Representative Mondell, Republican candidates for the senate, respectively, in Indiana and Wyoming, were named as opposed by the committee. The federation, the report said, had fought its opponents and supported its friends everywhere by speakers, state and local organizations and distribution of literature.

J. LINDSAY PATTERSON IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

Well Known Winston-Salem Lawyer Dies in a Hospital At Statesville.

WILL BE BURIED TODAY

Winston-Salem, Nov. 27.—While many of his friends knew that his health had not been the best for several weeks, still none were prepared nor expected to receive the announcement that J. Lindsay Patterson, one of Winston-Salem's honored citizens, and one of the state's ablest lawyers, was dead. The end came Sunday night at a sanitarium in Statesville, to which place he was carried 10 days ago for treatment. Mr. Patterson was a native of this city and had practiced his profession here for many years. In civil law his ability was recognized throughout the state—one who had few equals. The funeral service, which will be conducted from the home of his sister, Mrs. A. L. Coble, of Statesville, at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, will be attended by several friends from this city. Interment will be at the Chapel of Rest in the Happy Valley of Caldwell county.

Jesse Lindsay Patterson was the son of Rufus L. and Marie Morehead Patterson, who came to Winston-Salem about 1854. The senior Mr. Patterson was one of the first town commissioners of Winston and was always active in public affairs. Following in the footsteps of his father, Lindsay Patterson early came into prominence in public affairs, being recognized from early manhood as a brilliant lawyer, a courageous citizen and a gentleman of the finest bearing. He was a native of Salem, born May 16, 1858, being at his death about 64 years of age. Lindsay Patterson spent his boyhood in Old Salem, attended the primary schools and at the age of 14 entered Finley high school at Lenoir. He graduated from Davidson college in 1878, his record being high in his class. Completing his college education, he attended law lectures at Greensboro under Judge Dick and Judge Dillard, and in 1881 was admitted to the bar for the practice of law. He began the practice of his profession in the city where he had continually retained his residence. He was in early life a solicitor in the Forsyth county criminal court. In 1896 Mr. Patterson was a delegate to the sound money convention in Indianapolis, and was also that year a candidate for Congress on that ticket.

His father was Rufus Lenoir Patterson and his mother Marie Louise Morehead, daughter of the late Gov. John M. Morehead, whose life and fame are known to all Carolina and after whom Morehead city took its name. Governor Morehead was Mr. Patterson's grandfather.

On September 6, 1888, Mr. Patterson married Lucy Bramlette Patterson, of Tennessee. They met while Mrs. Patterson was a student at Salem college. There were no children. Two nieces of Mrs. Patterson, Misses Margaret and Katherine Miller, have lived with them at their home in this city for years and have had always the affection and care of daughters.

Mr. Patterson is also survived by his step-mother, Mrs. Mary Frier Patterson, of Winston-Salem, and the following half-brothers, Frank Patterson, of Baltimore, associate editor of the Baltimore Sun, Samuel F. Patterson, of Danville, Va., and Edmund V. Patterson, of New York city.

WALLACE HAS NOT APPROVED MERGER

Secretary of Agriculture Considers Armour and Company Proposal.

Washington, Nov. 27.—Secretary Wallace is not yet ready to give his consent to the proposed merger of two of the Chicago "big five" meat packers through the purchase of Morris and company by Armour and company. It was indicated today after a second White House conference on the subject. Besides the President and Mr. Wallace, Attorney General Paugherty and Solicitor Williams of the agricultural department, were present at the conference.

Although J. Ogden Armour and his associates have from the first desired an early decision, it is understood that Mr. Wallace wants additional information before forming a definite conclusion. He has had before him for some days a report on the subject of experts of his department having to do with the enforcement of the packers and stockyards control act, but since it was submitted it is known that much new data has been called for and that part of it has been received.

Attorney General Paugherty, who was called into today's conference presumably for an opinion as to the application to the question of the Sherman and Clayton anti-trust acts in known to hold the view that a merger of two large business concerns of itself is not necessarily a violation of the statutes, that whether these laws were to be invoked would depend upon the conduct of the business subsequent to the consolidation.
