Make Way for Liberty

Let's not go to sleep any night feeling that we might have saved an American soldier's life by being a little more liberal, a little more patriotic, a little more self-denying; by making it possible to have had at his bedside the one thing necessary.

And let's not wake up in the morning wondering if in the night's death toll there was any casualty that by the farthest stretch of possibility might have been charged against our individual selfishness.

Above all, let's not be haunted by the fear that some bleeding mother heart is due to our close-fitedness.

If we haven't bought War Savings Stamps let's go out and buy the mnow!
