WILSON IS OLDEST SINCE BUCHANAN

porting to congress the result of the Democratic National Convention at Baltimore in 1861.

Buchanan used to go home to Wheatland for a bit of rest, and was a quiet figure in summer time at Bedford Springs where he walked about with his family and anybody who had the inclination to go along with him. He was a man of leisure, however, and did not go to the theater very often.

Wilson, who was then three years old December 28, is the next man to 5 since the White House became a residence again.

Wilson's wife, Mrs. Wilson, and his son, George, are the only ones left in the house.
