FULLER NAMED AS CAROLINA COACH

Former Yale Star Will Replace Campbell at Chapel Hill

Chapel Hill, N. C., Feb. 24.—Walter E. Fuller, of Yale, line coach at West Virginia University last and seven years prior to that coach of various institutions in the northeast, will be head coach of the University of North Carolina football team next Saturday, succeeding Thomas J. Campbell, of Harvard, who is giving up football for business.

Fuller graduated from Yale in 1911 where he played guard and tackle. He has coached every year since those two seasons at Stevens Institute, two at Colby College, and one each at Bedford, Swarthmore, Haverford School, and West Virginia. Several of his teams were of champion caliber, notably the 1914 Colby team, the 1917 Swarthmore team, and last year's West Virginia team, which led the football world by defeating Princeton, 25 to 0, and by winning at Penn, Rutgers, Washington and Jefferson, and others.

Graduate Manager Charles T. Venable said today that Fuller will bring two assistant coaches, one for the back field, and one for ends. At least one of these will be a Carolina alumnus.

A large number of veterans may now be ready for Coach Fuller next fall. It is thought that four or five men will return, beside promising men from the 1919 freshman squad.

BINGLES

The man that said you can't count on the weather in February, knew pretty well what he was talking about.

And to date Honus Wagner, the veteran Pittsburgh National League shortstop, and one time leading batter of the majors has not allowed himself to a Newport News contract. The new powers that be down in Shipbuilding town were trying hard to get the old fox of baseball to handle the Newport

Snows club and succeeded in the announcement there will soon be a new manager in the offing, but so far nothing has been done.

To get the best information available on the question of a new manager, we consulted our sources in the city and found no definite information, but we did learn that the Snows club and members of the board are looking for a man who is a good coach and a good manager.

During the season the Snows club had a record of 10 wins and 10 losses, and the manager was not blamed for the poor record.

After the season ended, the club was disbanded, but the men who were on the team will be ready for the 1920 season.
